

About That Cyclone.

The people of this city and section of Nebraska viewed at a safe distance, Monday afternoon, what appeared to be a formidable and destructive cyclone, but which transpired to be quite an innocent demonstration when the facts and details became known. The stately wind-and-dust column, joining the earth and clouds, as it passed with deliberation along the north-western horizon, from south-west to north-east, caused terror to many hearts in this city, and many retired to their cellars until the threatening clouds had dissolved. The cloud could be seen from all over this section, Curtis, Bartley, on the Imperial, on the Beaver slope; and at each separate point it was the opinion of many that the storm was close at hand. In this city, many thought the storm to be within a few miles, when in fact at the closest point it was about fifteen miles away. The sight will long be remembered by hundreds of people, to whom the experience was excitingly new.

The storm formed in the north-eastern corner of Hitchcock county, (about the north-west corner of section 10-4-31, a witness reports,) and moved in a north-easterly direction over into Frontier county, where it dissolved in the neighborhood of Spring Creek.

The damage caused was but nominal: Damaged some wire fencing at Casper Hakencamp's; a self-feeder and a little roofing on one of the stock sheds at Joseph Allen's; demolished a deserted sod-house, unused wind-mill and a granary on G. W. Groves' farm; and shortly afterwards dissolved by mutual consent, having fortunately missed about everything of value in its course.

The cyclone was about 100 feet wide and moved with surprising deliberation; it is said that one walking rapidly could have evaded it.

Chinch Bug Inoculation.

The Nebraska Agricultural Experiment Station for three years furnished inoculated chinch bugs for the purpose of ascertaining whether or not this method of fighting the insect was practical. It was learned during this time that, where instructions were followed faithfully and the climatic conditions favorable, the disease worked well. On the other hand, where conditions were unfavorable and instructions only in part or not at all complied with, the results were almost invariably negative.

Since no supply of the infection can be obtained from private sources by our farmers, the pressure has been so great, recently, for a continuation of this work here that the university has concluded to send out a limited supply of the fungus to those who are sufficiently interested in it to give it a fair trial. It can be obtained by writing to the Department of Entomology, University of Nebraska, Lincoln.

LAWRENCE BRUNER, Entomologist.

How He Deals With Them.

L. E. Larson, a farmer in the neighborhood of Chadron, uses the following recipe in his efforts to control the grasshoppers: "Put two tablespoonsfuls of Paris green into three gallons of water, and stir well until thoroughly mixed; then stir in bran until a thick mash is formed: Care must be taken to keep up the stirring as the tendency of the Paris green is to settle to the bottom. The mixture is to be thinly scattered on the bare ground between the edge of the field and the growing crop, being careful not to scatter it upon the grass or the crop, as it will poison the feed. Mr. Larson reports the ground upon the borders of his field literally strewn with the dead hoppers within a week of the application. He says they will forsake all other feed to eat the bran."

Golf at Hot Springs, S. D.

The golf links at Hot Springs are among the finest in the west. They are located on the tableland south of town, a high, wind-swept plain where it is always cool. The surroundings are romantic in the extreme. Right ahead of you is the rugged mass of Battle Mountain while to the left is Echo Canon, one of the most beautiful canons in the Black Hills.

The links are only a few minutes walk from the hotels and end near the famous plunge bath where, after a morning spent in "teeing" and "putting," you can enjoy the delights of a swim in the clearest, cleanest, most crystal-like water in all America.

During July the Burlington Route will run ten cheap excursions to Hot Springs. The dates are: 3-7-8-9-10-14-17-18-21-28. The rate is one fare plus $2.00 for the round trip. Tickets bear liberal return limit and the Burlington's service to the Black Hills is unrivalled.

More of the Same.

Tuesday afternoon, the Arapahoe baseball club administered another crushing defeat to the Athletics on the home diamond. The figures 12 to 5 tell the fearful tale. 'Twas a good game up to the seventh inning, the score at the close of the sixth inning being 4 to 4. In the fatal seventh the Athletics went to pieces and allowed the visitors to make 8 runs—not a few of them on errors—and the jig was up. The game centered a great interest, local and from surrounding towns, and was largely attended by enthusiastic admirers of the game.—Arapahoe sending up her usually large and staunch following.

Too Much Pork: Not Enough Fat.

Without doubt the fat in pork is about as hard to digest as anything can be. A person has to have a strong digestion and must be engaged in hard work in order to take care of this food, although it is true a large number of persons depend upon it especially through the cold weather. The fact is, however, that as a rule fat is largely deficient in our food; that is, a fat which can be easily digested and promptly assimilated by the system. Cod liver oil, as we find it in Scott's Emulsion, is the most easily digested of all fats; it is just the food the body must have to give it nerve power, brain power and digestive power.

Bosserman of Grafton, an invitation was also extended to a number of the young men of the city and a few visitors with our gates. Selections of partners for refreshments were made by dividing "Mother Goose" quotations and requiring the guests to fit the separated rhymes.

Fire Visits Two Farms.

Fire left a trail of destruction on two farms in this vicinity, this week:

Early Wednesday, S. P. Hart's barn and most of its contents were destroyed, entailing a loss of between $400 and $500. It is not certain how the fire originated. The barn was entirely destroyed and the following-named contents as well: A horse and a mule, two tons of hay, a quantity of oats and corn, some farm implements and harness, and a quantity of meat. There was no insurance. All sympathize with Mr. Hart in this unfortunate addition to his misfortunes.

Thursday afternoon, the engine pulling passenger train No. 1 set fire to Frank Stillman's wheat field, located just north of his house, and the stiff breeze prevailing at the time soon carried the flames over 65 acres of the go-acre field of wheat. Fritz Buehler was engaged in heading the grain at the time, considerable wheat being in the stack and in a wagon. All was burned, including the wagon; the header was damaged somewhat also. The field seemed to have been fired in two or three places, and the work of destruction was rapid and complete.
