LI HUNG CHANG is unlike "The Father of His Country" in one particular at least: It's no trouble to him to lie.

INDIANOLA gave birth, last week, to two new members of the newspaper family, the Sun and the Republican. J. S. Phillips is responsible for the Fusion Sun and W. C. Bond is god-father to the Republican Republican.

THE Republican senatorial committee of the 29th district will meet in McCook on next Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of selecting a date for holding the next senatorial convention, and for the transaction of any other proper business.

WHAT if all these terrible charges being made by the Fusion newspapermen in Red Willow county against each other are true? At all events, the Populists are proper objects of sympathy. Their most earnest, anguishing prayer must be to be delivered from their fool (newspaper) friends.

SAMUEL RANDOLPH, whom nature unkindly obscured by "burning" him Smith, a calling fusion an "Accursed, putrid mass, a stinking carcass," and adds the heartfelt prayer that it may be swept from the face of the earth. Samuel evidently does not want the Democrats of Red Willow county to vote for the "Warming Pan" for congress.

THE Republican party has demonstrated that self-government is not only possible, but honorable and full of glory. The leaders of today take council of the wisdom of the past. They are the distributors not the hoarders of liberty. They gave freedom to Cuba and Porto Rico and will give that freedom to the Philippines which will best protect individual rights and guarantee the respect of other powers. This is the imperialism of true freedom, the royalty of justice, and will soon be recognized as the crowning glory of national achievement.

WHAT is Mr. Bryan's plan for the disposition of the Philippines? The only inference from his speeches is that he would let loose fair promises and honeyed words, and on the strength of these would withdraw the American troops from the Philippines. What would prevent, after withdrawal of the American troops, the same horrors in Manila that have visited Pekin? What would become of the natives who had helped to suppress the Tagal insurrection after they were thus left to the devices of Aguinaldo, whose cruelty did not stop at the murder of his own generals?

THE "Full Dinner Pail" is an argument for the farmer as well as for the city laborer. Who supplies what is put in the pail? The farmer. If the city laborer has his wages cut in two by free silver, and is put out of a job by the closing of the mills, the farmer suffers equally; for the farmer may give away, but he cannot sell, the products of his farm which the city laborer cannot afford to buy. It is because of the "full dinner pail" that the farmer is getting so much better prices for what he sells than he could get before the election of McKinley. It is because of the "full dinner pail" that he has paid off his mortgages, and become a lender of money where he used to be a borrower.

WITH the exception of two years, years productive of distress, hunger, bankruptcy and panic, the destiny of the nation has been partially or entirely under the control of the Republican party ever since the inauguration of Abraham Lincoln in 1861. During these forty years the country has advanced by leaps and bounds in population, wealth, material, social and intellectual development. The Trans-Mississippi region has been converted from buffalo ranges to imperial states, bridges have been thrown across mighty rivers, railways have been built over the mountains, millions of homes have been created, schools without number have been built, colleges have been endowed, human liberty has been extended, the verdict of the ballot has been respected (in Republican states), and the republic has a deeper hold on the affections of its citizens than ever before, and compels respect abroad.

THE practical turn of the Fusion mind is now being well illustrated in Red Willow county by the attempt being made to maintain three Fusion newspapers in a field where it has taxed Colonel Comfort's ingenuity and lung power to make one grow profitably and creditably. Such methods applied to affairs of state or business would inevitably wreck them, and are additional evidence that the Republicans should win in this county, this year.

WHILE THE TRIBUNE believes in enforcing the present game law, it believes that far more radical legislation is needed and should be enacted at the coming session of the Nebraska legislature. The killing of all wild or game birds should be absolutely prohibited under severe penalty for a period of years—five years at least. The grasshopper plague alone demands this action. These pests are appearing in eastern counties and the necessity of action must be apparent to all Nebraskans. This seems to be a practical action—it should become a fact of the next legislature.

BRYAN would give absolute independence to the Philippines. This of course means that the flag shall be furled and the army recalled. Will he explain how this can be done? Is there any constitutional provision for alienating American territory? If there is one constitutional argument against acquiring territory there are a dozen against abandoning territory. The rebellion settled that question once for all. As well talk about abandoning Texas, Alaska, Kentucky or Ohio. Methods of administration are legitimate questions for party differences, but to deny a fact solemnized by treaty and ratified by congress is to betray unpardonable ignorance of the powers and functions of government.

We publish an advertisement of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure in our columns, this issue, and wish to say to our readers that we believe this preparation is worthy of a trial by any person suffering from that agonizing disease. We honestly believe it will do for you all the manufacturers claim for it.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is prepared by the well-known and reliable firm of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, and from our long experience in a business sense, with that firm as advertisers, we feel safe in saying, that they would not place on the market a preparation for the cure of dyspepsia unless they had a remedy of the highest merit and conscientiously believed it would cure that almost universal complaint.

We further add that if this preparation is equal to the other well known remedies made by them, viz: DeWitt's Little Early Risers, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, and One Minute Cough Cure, it will speedily win its way into public favor.
We cheerfully and heartily give our public endorsement to this concern, and the reliability of the goods they manufacture, which latter has been largely the means of their success; and in writing this voluntary endorsement on our part, we feel that we are simply performing a duty that we owe our readers.

Be Careful

No woman can be too careful of her condition during the period before her little ones are born. Neglect or improper treatment then endangers her life and that of the child. It lies with her whether she shall suffer unnecessarily, or whether the ordeal shall be made comparatively easy. She had better do nothing than do something wrong.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

is the one and the only preparation that is safe to use. It is a liniment that penetrates from the outside. External applications are eternally right. Internal medicines are radically wrong. They are more than humbugs—they endanger life.
Mother's Friend helps the muscles to relax and expand naturally—relieves morning sickness—removes the cause of nervousness and headache—prevents hard and rising breasts—shortens labor and lessens the pains—and helps the patient to rapid recovery.

From a letter by a Shreveport, La., woman: "I have been using your wonderful remedy, Mother's Friend, for the last two months, and find it just as recommended."

Druggists sell it at $1 per bottle.

McCONNELL'S BALSAM CURES COUGHS

RAN A RACE WITH DEATH.

Narrow Margin by Which a Man on a Railway Bridge Won.

A high trestle bridge more than a quarter of a mile long, supporting the single track of the Nickel Plate railroad, spans the valley of Grand river, east of Painesville, O. The bridge is little wider than the distance between the rails, and the ties are placed eight or ten inches apart, the space between being open to the river below.

A young man who crossed recently had a thrilling experience on the bridge. He had just passed the center when a fast train rounded the curve behind him. As the engine whistled he quickened his pace. With every step the train was rushing nearer, and there was not a moment to lose.

Once the young man stumbled and seemed about to fall, but quickly regained his balance and hurried on. As he reached the place for which he had started the train was close behind, and he had just time to swing himself over the side of the bridge as the locomotive thundered by. The ends of the ties were slippery with grease from dripping axle boxes, and his foot slipped wide as he left the track. His right hand, stretched blindly out before him, touched a round iron bar, bracing two parts of the bridge, and, with a grip like that of a drowning man, his fingers clasped around it. For a moment he swung in empty air. In another his left hand had found a place beside his right, and his feet touched the welcome edge of a brace below. With bleeding fingers clutching the slender iron bar that vibrated widely from side to side, moments seemed hours.

At last the train passed, and the young man was able to climb slowly to the track above. Unnerved by the trying experience, he lay for a moment stretched across the rails and, then rising to his feet, with blanched face and unsteady limbs, made his way to firm ground.—Cleveland Leader.

THE MILL RUNS ITSELF.

Economical Way of Doing Business on a Connecticut Farm.

Joe McCormick of the International Pulp company tells a delicious story of paper making in Connecticut, which shows that operating a mill is not such a serious matter as these big proprietors would have us believe. Strolling along the countryside in haymaking time, Mr. McCormick happened on a little paper mill which buzzed merrily in a shady dell, with everything clean and sweet around it. A look in the office showed no one there, and the visitor then wandered over the mill, hoping to find some one to whom he could talk business. The machine was humming along, and it seemed impossible that there should be no one in attendance. But even shouting failed to bring forth signs of life, and Mr. McCormick was about to leave when he spied some men in a hayfield some distance away.

"I say," he called out to the nearest one when he got within hearing, "who runs this mill?"

"I do," was the reply.
"Well, who's the owner?"
"Why, I am, to be sure."
"Do you mean to say that the mill runs itself?"

"Cert. We start her up at 6 in the morning, and she runs till 6 in the evening. This mill's been weaned, stranger; she don't need a nurse. While I'm getting in hay she puts half a ton of paper on the roll. Gee up, Bess!"—Paper Trade Journal.

Table Talk.

Rather curiously Roxane in "Cyrano de Bergerac" belongs to the modern type which dates from the days of the Hotel de Rambouillet and has always had its votaries in France. To those precieuses mere conversation was a betise. They liked declamations; discussion, not on the right of woman to the ballot, but whether she should be held a little higher than the angels or consent to be beloved. This phase of preciosity led up to the French salon, where that housewife fashion of preparing an intellectual bill of fare for guests found its most acceptable phase.

Mme. Campan, whose advice may be said to have formed a whole generation of charming women, used to prescribe the subject of talk for dinner tables, just as certain coteries of women prescribe it today. This was her system: "With 12 at table, talk voyages and literature; with eight, the fine arts, science, invention; with six, politics or philosophy; with four, sentiment, romantic adventure; with two, talk of yourself; egotism belongs to the tete-a-tete."—Ellen Olney Kirk in Lippincott's.

A Race With the Sun.

The London Daily Mail says if an aerial machine were capable of traveling at any rate up to 1,000 miles an hour a traveler in it, starting westward from London at a speed of 600 miles an hour, would arrest the progress of time. If he started at 10 a. m., it would always be to him 10 a. m. Should he find his unending day monotonous, he could reverse his direction and get a quick succession of short days and nights of some six hours' duration, but he could regulate the length by the speed of his machine. Suppose he traveled from London one night at 10 o'clock westward at a speed of 1,000 miles per hour. He would soon experience the sensation of seeing the sun rising in the west where it had set a short time before.

"The young man who gets cheated," said the corn fed philosopher, "thinks the other fellow wonderfully smart, but the elderly person who goes up against it admits himself to be a fool."—Indianapolis Journal.
