CREMATORIES are becoming fashionable in the south.

THE Free Silver branch of the Iowa Democracy carried the day in their state convention, this week. Those Iowa Democrats don't know how many fathoms deep that fad has been buried. They will be better advised after the coming November election in that state. They will be buried with the fad.

THE Mark Lane Express, the best British authority on the grain trade, estimates that Great Britain, France, Holland and Belgium can easily absorb every bushel of the surplus American wheat and that the remainder of Europe will easily dispose of the balance of the world's exportable surplus. From the figures given there is every reason to believe that present prices for that cereal will be maintained, if they do not go higher. The American farmer has anything but a gloomy prospect ahead of him.

NEBRASKA'S loss on crops, this year, is thus figured and totaled by I. D. Evans of Kenesaw: Shortage in corn crop, 175 million bushels, at 23 cents, $40,250,000; shortage on oat crop, 20 million bushels, at 15 cents, $3,450,000; shortage on spring wheat, 4 million bushels, at 50 cents, $2,000,000; shortage in potatoes, vegetables and fruit, $1,000,000. Total, $46,700,000. That Nebraska is in good financial condition notwithstanding this enormous loss is the best evidence that she stands up for herself nobly, and does not require her sons to draw on their imaginations to sustain her good name.

Endorse Ernst for Regent.

Lincoln Daily News, August 12, 1901. It is not improbable that the name of C. J. Ernst will be presented at the republican county convention as that of a good man for the nomination for regent of the state university.

Mr. Ernst, who is being pushed forward by his friends for the honor, served for several years on the Lincoln board of education, and has always taken a lively interest in educational matters. He is a thorough business man, too, another necessary qualification for regent. It is believed that he would not decline to accept if the nomination were proffered him, although he is in no sense a candidate for the place. The feeling is growing that regents should be selected because of their business qualifications and knowledge of the state institutions rather than because there happens to be some one who wants the place; and for this reason Mr. Ernst is being brought forward as a proper man for Lancaster county to present as one of the two men to be named.

Nebraska State Journal, August 13, 1901. Since C. H. Morrill has fully decided not to be a candidate for regent of the university for a third term, C. J. Ernst of this city, has been prominently mentioned as the best man for the place that anyone could think of. Mr. Ernst is a German by birth and a citizen of the United States by choice. He is a man who has had extensive business experience. He has been connected with the Burlington land department for twenty years, ten years of that time as B. & M. land commissioner. For four years he was manager of the Lincoln street railway, and for three years director of the First National bank of this city. For three years he was secretary and manager of the Boston Investment company, and for three years served as a member of the Lincoln board of education. He is a business man of large experience and progressive ideas and is eminently qualified for the position to which he is certain to be elected if nominated by the republican state convention.

RESOLUTION
adopted by the Lancaster County Republican convention, August 15, 1902:
Resolved, That the delegates to the state convention be, and they are hereby, instructed to place before that convention the name of Carl J. Ernst as a candidate for regent of the State University, and to use their best efforts to secure his nomination

Must Moves From Hastings.

Special Dispatch to the World-Herald. HASTINGS, Neb., Aug. 21.—There is no longer any doubt as to the intentions of the Burlington & Missouri railroad to change three train crews from this city to other points. The change is to take place Sunday. One train crew is to be transferred to Oxford, one to Oberlin and the other to McCook. This will cause the removal of about fifteen families from this city, and means a financial loss to the mercantile interests of Hastings of thousands of dollars.

How about those dinner pails, tablets, slates, pencils and pens? We have plenty at the Bee Hive.

Hendley Won the Victory.

The match game of basket ball between the young ladies of Hendley and Beaver City was played at Hendley, Wednesday evening, August 21. Rain on the previous night had placed the grounds in fine condition and the weather was lovely. A large crowd was present including many from Beaver City, Wilsonville and the country around. In years past our base ball team had won victories over the best players in Western Nebraska and our citizens were anxious to know whether the girls could maintain the honor of Hendley. To say the least, they were not disappointed. We take pride in the lady-like demeanor of our girls and in their good playing. The Beaver girls played hard but they lacked a close knowledge of the rules.

Dr. Kresler of Hendley made an excellent referee as his rulings were impartial and according to "law." The following is a list of the players: Beaver City, Mrs. Fred Downing, captain, Bertha Downing, Ann Therean, Mae Ames, Della Rhodes and Pearl Roberts. Hendley, Debora Austin, captain, Hattie Livermore, Nettie Mitchell, Gertrude Livermore, Nannie Truman, Lily Truman. The score stood Hendley 24, Beaver City 6. The Hendley team expect to play soon—perhaps next week—at Beaver City and Wilsonville.—Communicated.

COURT-HOUSE NEWS.

COUNTY COURT.
License to wed issued to Leonhardt Abendschen and Louisa Geiser, both of Stevens, Frontier county, Nebraska.

Don't forget the bargains in Boys' Knee Pants at the Bee Hive.

The Nebraska Brigade band our city is preparing its music for the Denver festival. THE TRIBUNE hopes arrangements may be made for them to give a concert or two here before their departure for Denver.

Slates were never so cheap as this year at the Bee Hive.

Some Other Things.

THE TRIBUNE is happily reminded, this week, that we will not only have "some" corn in Red Willow county, this season, but some other things as well, besides Colonel Hot Stuff's "Hot Blasts." The "reminder" comes in the appetizing form of a fine, large bunch of white grapes and some nice plums from the W. T. Stone farm over at the mouth of the Driftwood, which is being occupied and tilled by C. H. Jacobs and family. We are informed that the yield of both white and purple grapes will be very considerable; and the quality is luscious. They expect to gather fifty bushels of plums of good quality. In addition they report their corn in good condition and expect a profitable yield from the acreage, which, unfortunately is not large.

An Harmonious Convention.

Pursuant to call, the Republicans of Red Willow county met in county convention in Indianola, Tuesday forenoon, and promptly and harmoniously nominated a winning county ticket,—most of the nominations being made by acclamation.

Promptly at the appointed hour, in the absence of Chairman C. F. Babcock of the central committee, Secretary C. B. Gray of the committee called the convention to order and read the call. Representative J. E. Hathorn was made temporary chairman and F. M. Kimmell, temporary secretary of the convention. The roll call of precincts disclosed the following result, after a number of changes had been announced from one candidate to the other: Mr. Dutcher, 78; Miss Berry, 53. Mr. Dutcher was declared the nominee of the convention.

A Little Mountain Outing.

Camp Archie, Little Horn Canyon.—After four years of work and little rest we once more board the Burlington train No. 77 for a little outing to the famous Rocky mountains: this time as not in the past to the Windy Range or Big Sandy for trout. The happy little party of five, namely R. B. Archibald, Gust Budig, John Archibald, Claude Ward and the writer. All goes well, the train glides smoothly along. Soon the Burlington train from Brush, Colo., pulls into Alliance, Neb., where we made a stop and changed cars for Edgemont, South Dakota. We visited the Burlington shops at this place. Once more we are all aboard and the train moves over a drouth-stricken plain, parched and dry as under a tropical sun, until we reach the station Marshland. Here we enter the famous Bad Lands of north and west Nebraska. They are a chain of low lying hills and ravines covered with low growing pine timber about sixteen miles wide.

Our next stop is at Edgemont, South Dakota. Here is located the Burlington's great tie-preserving plant. Quite a nice little city. Here we changed cars and take the Deadwood train to Minnekahta a distance of seventeen miles. We change cars for the Hot Springs. From Minnekahta to Hot Springs is 13 miles. Our train pulls up to the station at the Springs we are met by twenty or more hotel runners trying to see which one can make the most fuss about nothing for they don't get this party. We look up our stopping place and come to the conclusion Gillispie House is best. We visit the great pool, or plunge bath, the building about 400 feet long by 70 feet wide, the water 3 1/2 to 6 feet deep. I counted 100 persons, ladies, guests, old and young, all in the pool at one time. This is quite a pleasure resort and plenty of wealth to be seen here, fine hotels and rigs for drives. Next morning we are on our way to Sheridan, Wyo. We have had quite a nice run and some nice scenery during the day. Sheridan is quite a nice little city situated at the foot hills of the Big Horn mountains, population about 1800, the town is about the size of McCook, but more business houses. The railroad company is putting up a nice plant here for doing the work on rolling stock, some larger than the plant at McCook. Sheridan is destined to make a nice city some day. Plenty of church spires point Heavenward, but gambling houses run wide open day and night. Here our little party was met and joined by an old-time McCook friend F. C. Stuby, now traveling engineer New Castle west, this also includes the new line now building out of Toluca to Cody in the Big Horn Basin. We met several old time friends here at Sheridan formerly at McCook.

We are on our journey once more toward the Little Horn River. There is some fine scenery between Sheridan and Parkman, the station where we make our last stop. Clouds, Penk is plainly seen from the road, the snowy range is some twenty miles away. We have reached the end of our journey by rail at Parkman. We now take a wagon to go overland twenty-six miles to fishing grounds, the road is rough, part of the way our road winds along at the base of the foot hills. We have reached our journey's end at last unloaded our tent and provisions. Budig and the boys put up the tent and arrange the bed. We have commenced supper, the writer duly installed cook. Mr. Archibald and Stuby have been fishing about one-half an hour and they have returned with eight trout from 8 to 16 1/2 inches; not a good day for fishing either. Supper over we spread our blankets on mother earth for six, as we all sleep in one bed. A few stories are told and we lie down to rest ten feet from the roaring waters of the river, quite a change from the past few days. We have had a good night's rest, the cook is up as usual before the rest. Breakfast is ready and all hands are ready, meal is over and the boys and Budig go up the canyon to look at the scenery which is grand. Archibald and Stuby go up the river to fish.

Four o'clock p. m., all have come home hungry and tired. Stuby and Archie have over 50 fish for the day's catch from 8 to 16 inches long. We have fish for supper. Supper is over and all hands retire to rest in the cool mountain air. We have all had a good night's rest. 5 a. m. and the first call for breakfast; breakfast over Archibald, Stuby and myself go down the stream to fish on the Crow reservation in Montana, the party has a permit to fish on the reservation. We were not molested and did not have to show our permit. Budig and the boys went up stream again to hunt for bear and fish. 3 p. m., all returned we have 58 trout for the day's catch of fish. The boys and Budig have no bear and few fish, did not have any bear fight, so I suppose neither bear nor Budig needed any help. Supper over and we retire to rest.

Six a. m., all hands up and ready for breakfast. Each one takes his turn at the table or provision chest, as we have no table. With tin plate and cup of coffee every one waits on himself. No one complains of the cooking, as the rules of the camp are always strict in cases like this: the first one to complain is elected cook. The party have all gone fishing but cook. I have made a climb to see the scenery.

Three p. m., all back to camp, about 50 fish, the day's catch, some very fine ones from 6 to 16 1/2 inches long; all feel satisfied with the day's sport.

Sabbath. We have no choice of churches today so we all agree to climb up the mountains and take a last look at the grand canyons, mountains and plains. Noon and we have climbed almost to the dizzy heights of our ambition, so we sit down and take a bird's eye view of the country. We can see three streams running parallel across the Crow Reservation. Can see beyond the Custer Battlefield where General Custer and 265 men were massacred by the Sioux Indians, June 25th, 1876. It has been the practice for the last few years for the various G. A. R. posts of Montana and Wyoming to gather here on this noted battlefield and hold appropriate services in memory of the brave dead. Owing to this being the quarter-century anniversary of the massacre the services, this year, attracted even more than usual attention, this being the counterpart on sea of the destruction of the Battle Ship Maine at Havana. The number killed being about equal.

We are satisfied with the day's trip and come to camp for the last time, as tomorrow we turn our faces homeward well satisfied with our outing.

We have seen signs of deer and bear on our trip but did not see any large game.

Monday noon. Our teams have come
