REMEMBER the beet sugar industry has principally to do with the western farmer, who is justly entitled to his share in the bountry's protective tariff policy.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT won't have a "banged-tail" horse, no matter what the other qualifications are. He is opposed to the English, you know, custom of "docking." Teddy's common sense is breaking out in unexpected quarters.

SENATOR DIETRICH, in a recent speech at the annual banquet of the board of governors of Ak-Sar-Ben, lined himself up to devote his best efforts in the senate for the encouragement of the beet sugar industry, irrigation and the reclamation of the arid regions of the west.

It must be evident to all observers that the sugar trust is after the beet sugar industry, and that if the people and legislation do not come to the rescue one of the most promising industries of west will be threatened with extermination. Let no friend of the west be misled in this matter. The beet sugar industry comes to the west with bright and enduring prospects of permanent profit to the farmer and every proper and righteous effort should be put forth to stay the crushing hand of the sugar trust in its efforts to squeeze out the beet sugar industry, which the people of the west should protect and foster most loyally.

"Hogan's Alley."

In its ninth successful season, during which the farce has proved to be without a rival as a fun maker "Hogan's Alley" comes to the opera house on the 16th of November, with a host of new specialties and attractions. As there is never anything of a plot to speak of in this class of shows it is safe to say that the theme is entirely new and that any one who has witnessed it in previous seasons may go again without weariness. Three hours of continuous laugh is what "Hogan's Alley" affords. It is nonsensical in the extreme, is not built for fine criticism and has nothing to do with anything in particular.

There are a chorus of pretty girls, with song and dances until you can't rest. As of yore the Yellow Kids won the piece and are always in the way, under your feet, between your legs, or in any other awkward and unexpected position when least wanted. These parts are assumed this season by Ellsworth and Russell, justly esteemed two of the cleverest as well as littlest men on the American boards. The chief part is of course given over to Carduff, whose abilities as a fun maker were long since established. Such accessories as a piece of this kind require are bright and new and everything is said to be up to date. Prices, 35c and 50c. Secure seats at McConnell & Berry's.

No Change in Management.

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 12.—The Tribune will say, tomorrow, regarding the meeting of the stockholders of the Burlington road on Thursday:

"It is understood that all the eleven directors have agreed upon by the Hill and Harriman interests. It can be stated that three of the directors will represent the Harriman interests, one the Rockefeller, one the Vanderbilts and the rest will be on the Hill side. It is also stated that there will be no change in the management of the Burlington for the present, except that Darius Miller will be elected second vice president to fill a vacancy, and he will be the traffic director of the Hill roads, with headquarters at Chicago.

The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad company, the Missouri lines of the Burlington and the Burlington & Missouri River railroad in Nebraska will be leased to the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad company, which will operate all the Burlington lines.

To the Public.

Allow me to say a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I had a very severe cough and cold and feared that I would get pneumonia, but after taking the second dose of this medicine I felt better, three bottles of it cured my cold and the pains in my chest disappeared entirely. I am most respectfully yours for health, RALPH S. MEYERS, 64 Thirty-seventh St., Wheeling, W. Va. For sale by McConnell & Berry, druggists.

Talk of New Train.

It is rumored that the management of the Burlington is considering a proposition to continue No. 13, the fast mail train that now arrives from Chicago at 11 o'clock in the night, west of Lincoln to Denver. General Passenger Agent Francis is quoted as saying that he knows nothing about the matter, but that it is purely a general manager's proposition and would not come to him. No. 13 leaves Chicago a little after 8 a. m. and arrives here in time to catch No. 41 with the northwest mail. If the train was continued to Denver it would put the Colorado mail in that city in the early morning, thus greatly benefiting the territory served by morning trains from Denver as well as Denver itself.

It is not believed that should this be done the time of No. 1 would be changed or the train taken from service. The westbound business of the Burlington has been heavy, and with the addition of the mail that would be routed this way with a through train on the card there would be almost enough business to justify running both. At least that is the way it looks at present.—Journal.

The North Platte Valley

in Northwest Nebraska, offers some wonderful good opportunities to the man or woman with a little money to invest in irrigated lands.

Excellent irrigated land can be had now for $12 to $15 an acre, but it is plain to those watching the development of the North Platte valley that this low price is just about to fade away.

The farmers of this valley are now reaping an abundant harvest. Alfalfa, corn, wheat and garden vegetables yield good profits. There are also good openings in the live stock business.

If you are interested in the North Platte Valley write for our booklet describing it. It is free.—11-8-4ts.

Help... Nature

Babies and children need proper food, rarely ever medicine. If they do not thrive on their food something is wrong. They need a little help to get their digestive machinery working properly.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME & SODA will generally correct this difficulty.

If you will put from one-fourth to half a teaspoonful in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to a teaspoonful, according to age, dissolved in their milk, if you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. If the mother's milk does not nourish the baby, she needs the emulsion. It will show an effect at once both upon mother and child.

AN EFFECTIVE REMEDY.

A Series of Orders That Rejuvenated the Ailing Slaves.

A correspondent sends the following story of an old Virginia gentleman: Some years before the war a gentleman of large landed interests counted among his possessions a plantation on the James river, an estate of considerable dimensions. Other interests kept him away from the old place for some years, during which time there was a marked decrease in the revenue. Upon his return to the plantation he discovered that many of the slaves were laid up with rheumatism and other miseries, the farming implements were in bad order and the old homestead was fast going to rack and ruin. Calling his overseer he said:

"Anderson, I notice a great many old wagons, plows and harrows about the place. Have them brought and piled in front of the house, and on Monday next order all the niggers on the place to be present."

At the appointed time they came. The pile was set on fire and the implements destroyed. The following week he called the overseer's attention to the sick and infirm horses, hogs and cattle and gave the same order. When the negroes had assembled all the animals were knocked in the head. The Friday following the landlord again called his overseer.

"Anderson, I see a great many sick niggers around here—many who seem to be laid up with rheumatism and are good for nothing. Give orders that on Monday morning at 10 o'clock they all appear in the front yard."

The effect on the slaves was magical. On Saturday men who had been unable to walk were skipping around like children; the sick grew well suddenly, and from that time on the plantation was most prosperous.—Exchange.

FOOD OF AMERICANS.

An English Woman Tells of the Strange Things She Ate Here.

An English woman who visited America a short time ago has been telling her country women about the "strange food across the water." Of course she discovered green corn, but she had been prepared for that. Oyster crabs were quite new to her.

"They look like Boston baked beans," she explains, "but they taste much better."

An oyster cocktail filled her with awe and enthusiasm. She tried it at Delmonico's and thought it was soup. Of course in England one didn't serve soup in a glass; but then, neither did the English serve boiled eggs in a glass. One could never be sure of Americans.

Of canvasback duck she has a poor opinion, but thinks she might like it better if Americans would have it cooked or even warmed. As for terrapin, she sings its praise. She found it much like calf's head, and she always liked calf's head. Shades of Maryland gourmets, what a slur is there!

"All the puddings in America are pie or ice cream," she says, but it must be understood that pie does not mean game pie. The Yankee pie is a tart and is ubiquitous, she explains.

She sat next to an American man who ate a lump of cheese with his strawberry pie and turned a plateful of ice cream over both, but she doesn't know that that is a general custom.

The oysters were good, but had most impossible names, and the cockles (meaning clams) are excellent. On the whole, Yankee food and cooking are good, but there is too much of the food on the table at one time.—New York Sun.

Portrait of Cocker.

Edward Cocker, who lived in the reign of Charles II., is chiefly known to the present generation by the saying in common use, "According to Cocker," which means in accordance with arithmetical rules. I saw the other day amid the treasures of a private collector a copy of the first edition of Cocker's immortal work on arithmetic, published by T. Passenger at the Three Bibles on London bridge. Only two, or at most three, perfect copies are known to the book collector. One is in the British museum. This particular copy, its brown morocco pitifully faded, bears on its title page the inscription, "Cocker's Arithmetick, Perused and Published by John Hawkins by the Author's Correct Copy."

It contains what purports to be a portrait of "ingenious Cocker." Experts, however, shake their heads over the authenticity of this work of art. There are many engraved portraits of the epoch, but there was only one Cocker. The British museum copy has no portrait, and there is too much reason to fear that this embellishment was added by some ingenious owner of an earlier century. Cocker died in 1675. This rare relic of the past bears date 1678.—Scotsman.

George's Father.

Augustine Washington, the father of George Washington, was engaged in 1732 in making pig iron at Accokeek furnace, in Stafford county, Va., about fifteen miles from Fredericksburg, when his famous son was born. This furnace had been built by the Principio company, composed of English capitalists, as early as 1726, on land owned by Augustine Washington, aggregating about 1,600 acres and containing iron ore, Mr. Washington becoming the owner of one-sixth of the furnace property in consideration of the transfer of his land to the company.

In my opinion the man who kills his fellow is the hero of barbarism; the man who risks his own life to save the lives of others is the only hero that a true civilization can honor.—Andrew Carnegie.

Jumped on a Ten Penny Nail.

The little daughter of Mr. J. N. Powell jumped on an inverted rake made of ten penny nails, and thrust one nail entirely through her foot and a second one half way through. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was promptly applied and five minutes later the pain had disappeared and no more suffering was experienced. In three days the child was wearing her shoe as usual with absolutely no discomfort. Mr. Powell is a well known merchant of Forkland, Va. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and heals such wounds without maturation and in one-third of the time required by the usual treatment. For sale by McConnell & Berry, druggists.
