Burlington Acquires Interest.

QUINCY, ILL., Feb. 18.—The officials of the Quincy, Omaha and Kansas City railroad were here, this morning, on an inspection trip. The party was composed of W. G. Brimson, general manager; W. J. Stoneburger, superintendent of transportation: E. M. Collins, chief engineer; A. W. Quackenbush, master mechanic: E. N. B. Reicords, superintendent of bridges and buildings; J. J. Hughes, general roadmaster; H. H. Sparks, traveling freight and live stock agent, and L. A. Irwin, stenographer. The officials left for the west on a special train, this forenoon.

Mr. Brimson confirmed the supposition that he had been retained as general manager for this road, and also for the Kansas City, Novinger and Centerville railroad, in the interest of the Burlington system. He reported that the coal mines along the lines of these roads were making excellent developments and greatly increasing the freight traffic. Mr. Brimson said that there would probably be no changes made in the officers of the road in Quincy; excepting that the officials might decide to run the passenger trains into the Burlington depot as a matter of economy.

The Last Heard of It.

"My little boy took the croup one night and soon grew so bad you could hear him breathe all over the house," says F. D. Reynolds, Mansfield, O. "We feared he would die, but a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure quickly relieved him and he went to sleep. That's the last we heard of the croup. Now isn't a cough cure like that valuable?" One Minute Cough Cure is absolutely safe and acts immediately. For coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis and all other throat and lung troubles it is a certain cure. Very pleasant to take. The little ones like it. McConnell and Berry.

PUBLIC SCHOOL ITEMS.

Miss Mary Powers spent Saturday and Sunday at here home in Trenton.

State Superintendent W. K. Fowler addressed an interested audience of city school teachers, high school pupils and patrons, in the east ward assembly room, last Saturday night. The announcement that Mr. Fowler could be here was received late, and insufficient opportunity was afforded to make it generally known that he would speak to those interested in school problems, that evening. His talk, however, was inspiring and thoroughly enjoyed by his audience. He dwelt upon many of the faults of public school teaching, yet praised the system of instruction generally, and pointed out the advantage to be gained by the young man and woman who pushed on to acquire a still higher education. Miss Blanche McCarl and Miss Olive M. Howe added to the evening's pleasure by piano numbers. J. L. McBrien, the deputy state superintendent, was also present.

Death of Mrs. R. P. High.

A Lebanon friend sends us the following brief obituary notice of the death of Mrs. R. P. High of that place in Omaha, last Friday. In giving the notice THE TRIBUNE wants to express to the bereaved husband and relatives its tenderest and most profound sympathy:

OBITUARY.

[MRS. SARAH E. HIGH of Lebanon, Neb., died at Omaha, Neb., February 14th, 1902, after undergoing an operation in that city.

Mrs. High was born in Lycoming county, Pa., March 30th, 1844. She was married to Robert P. High in February, 1866. They came from Pennsylvania to Redwillow county, Neb., in March, 1873, and were among the pioneers of the Beaver valley.

The funeral services were held at the Presbyterian church, and the remains interred in the Lebanon cemetery, Monday afternoon, Feb. 17th. The husband, son and grand-daughter, who survive her, have the sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends in their hour of sore bereavement.—X.]

A Legacy of the Grip

Is often a run-down system. Weakness, nervousness, lack of appetite, energy and ambition, with disordered liver and kidneys often follow an attack of this wretched disease. The greatest need than is Electric Bitters, the splendid tonic, blood purified and regulator of stomach, liver and kidneys. Thousands have proved that they wonderfully strengthen the nerves, build up the system and restore to health and good spirits after an attack of Grip. If suffering, try them. Only 50. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed by McConnell & Berry.

Native Novels in Favor.

What was the average character of the books published, last year? Of the 8,141 books issued in America, how many deserve to live? The lists show that 1901 was not remarkable for the number of its important original works. Biography was the strongest class of the year, and even the number of important biographies was not large. The truth seems to be that, although there are more readers than ever before, those readers are wasting a good part of their time on the most ephemeral of literature. The remarkable thing about the history of fiction in 1901 was not the number of great novels that appeared, but the hundreds of thousands of copies of certain books sold. The pleasantest feature of the situation is the fact that the cheap British novel appears to be yielding its place to the native novel, which, if no better than the other, is at least American.—Buffalo Express.

Got Rid of His Rheumatism.

"During the winter of 1898 I was so lame in my joints, in fact all over my body, that I could hardly hobble around, when I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. From the first application I began to get well, and was cured and have worked steadily all the year.—R WHEELER, Northwood, N. Y. For sale by McConnell & Berry, druggists.

Frequently accidents occur in the household, which cause burns, cuts, sprains and bruises. For use in such cases Ballard's Snow Liniment has for many years been the constant favorite family remedy. Price, 25 cents and 50 cents. A. McMillen.

The E. A. Mann Sale.

Bills are out announcing the sale of stock, farming implements, household goods andsoforth, by A. E. Mann, at his farm 14 miles southwest of Curtis and 4 miles north of Center Point, on Tuesday, February 25th, commencing at ten o'clock. Usual terms of sale. Free lunch at noon. H. H. Berry, auctioneer.

"I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for a number of years and have no hesitancy in saying that it is the best remedy for coughs, cold and croup I have ever used in my family. I have not words to express my confidence in this remedy."—MRS. J. A. MOORE, North Star, Mich. For sale by McConnell & Berry, druggists.

Change to Change a Quarter.

"How much does it take to change a quarter?" asked the bartender. "Twenty-five cents, eh? Not on your life. It takes seventy cents to do the trick. How many ways do you suppose a quarter dollar can be changed? Just exactly eleven. A fellow of limited means may like the jingle of coin in his clothes. In that event you can give him twenty-five pennies or twenty pennies and one nickel. He may like to have a little sprinkling of silver in his clothes, and you can accommodate him with fifteen pennies and a dime or ten pennies, a dime and a nickel.

"If he prefers to have change handy for a beer and a car fare, why, fifteen pennies and two nickels will fix him up, and if he wants a cigar in addition, besides having a little stock of cash in his jeans, give him ten pennies and three nickels. That makes six ways. Now, then, a fellow with a quarter can trade it off for five pennies and two dimes, five pennies and four nickels, two dimes and one nickel, one dime and three nickels or five nickels, just as he prefers. And to accommodate him in any way that he might select you have to possess twenty-five pennies, two dimes and five nickels—seventy cents in all."—Philadelphia Record.

Pound Foolishness.

One of the commonest forms of pound foolishness is countenanced by many high authorities. This is the purchase of certain household provisions in large quantities. Few writers on domestic topics fail to lay stress upon the economy of buying groceries in bulk. That sugar and flour, potatoes and apples should be bought by the half or whole barrel, cereals by the case, butter by the tub and other things in like proportion is one of the early precepts in the "Young Housekeeper's Complete Guide to Domestic Economy."

The ignorant young things buy the provisions first and the experience afterward. The flour grows musty, the cereals develop weevils, the potatoes and apples rot long before they can be eaten, and the cook exercises a lavishness in the use of the butter and sugar she would never show were they bought in such limited amounts that the housekeeper could hold close watch over them. Even after these events the young mistress feels as if she were absolutely reckless and no manager at all when she so far departs from household law as to buy food in small quantities.—Independent.

Loneliness and Health.

A medical journal has of late been discoursing on the indigestion of loneliness. By this title is meant to be indicated the disorders of digestion which are believed to follow the practice of taking one's meals in solitary state. The topic is by no means an uninteresting one. Thousands of men and women living alone are compelled to take their meals for the most part without company. Week in and week out they feed themselves without a soul to talk to, and the medical journal devotes its energies to showing that the practice is not one that is likely to be conducive to digestion, to proper bodily nourishment or to health. The solitary man soon tires of merely eating, and, if he is not of a literary turn of mind, his tendency is to hurry through his meals to escape from his loneliness into the society of his fellow men. Herein, it is held, lies a danger to health.

Discovery of Coal In Wales.

During the reign of Henry VIII. many attempts were made to discover coal in north Wales, and a Shrewsbury man, named Richard Gardner, was the only person who succeeded. The old records read: "He attemptyd and put into proofe to fynde out coles about the town (Shrewsbury) in soondry placys, and in one place especiall callyd Ematine Haye, hard by the sayd towne, he found by his great dyligence and troball great store of see cole, the which is lyke to come much commoditie bothe to the riche and poore, that he is not only worthy of commendacon and mayntenance, but also to be had in remembrance for ever."—Cardiff Western Mail.

The Russian Climate.

The Russians count upon their climate as one means of defense, as it was when Napoleon invaded Russia. Their troops are accordingly trained in winter maneuvers, including loading a battery, with its war transport and material complete, upon sleighs, moving it for some distance over a difficult, snow covered country and bringing it into action again.

A Curious Eating Custom.

The Dyaks divide in pairs when the hour arrives for taking food, the father and mother at one platter, two sisters at one and still two brothers at another. When the family is not equally divided as to sex, a brother and sister may eat together, but this must always be the youngest and oldest of the family.

Her Pet Name.

"Ah!" he sighed after she had blushingly whispered "Yes" in his bosom. "My own Mehitabel! Oh, that name's so formal! Surely your friends use some shorter one, some pet name!"

"Well," she murmured, "the girls at boarding school used to call me Pickles."—Philadelphia Press.

His Mistake.

"What curious mistakes men make sometimes! I've just been reading, for instance, that Columbus imagined that he had discovered the Indies."

"Ah, I made a worse mistake than that! When I married my wife, I thought I'd discovered paradise!"

Candid.

Miss Alma—When did you become acquainted with your wife, doctor?

Something That Will Do You Good.

We know of no way in which we can be of more service to our readers than to tell them of something that will be of real good to them. For this reason we want to acquaint them with what we consider one of the very best remedies on the market for coughs, colds and that alarming complaint, croup. We refer to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it with such good results in our family so long that it has become a household necessity. By its prompt use we haven't any doubt but it has time and again prevented croup. The testimony is given upon our own experience, and we suggest that our readers, especially these who have small children, always keep it in their homes as a safeguard against croup.—Camden (S. C.) Messenger. For sale by McConnell & Berry.

A Doctor's Error.

I was under the doctor's care and confined to my room a month. I had such a terrible pain in my right lung I could hardly breathe. The doctor said I would not be able to go out of doors until warm weather—I think this would have been the case if I had not stopped taking his medicine which did very little good, and commenced taking your Dr. Kay's Lung Balm. After taking this remedy the pain stopped and I was able to go out.

My cough soon left me. We think there is nothing that equals your Dr. Kay's Lung Balm. My husband, who is subject to bronchitis, thinks the Dr. Kay's Lung Balm is the best remedy he has ever used. We recommend it to all our friends. DORA L. STEVER,

Been Hunting Twenty Years.

Winfield, Iowa, Nov. 24, 1900.

Gentlemen:—I write to say that I have been troubled with dyspepsia and indigestion for the past twenty years, and have tried many medicines and spent much money to no purpose until I tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. I have taken two bottles and am entirely relieved of all stomache trouble. I cannot say too much in favor of this remedy. I cheerfully recommend it to all sufferers from indigestion or dyspepsia.

Yours truly, WM. RUEBSAM.
