TWENTY-FIRST YEAR.

McCOOK, RED WILLOW COUNTY, NEBRASKA, FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 13, 1902.

NUMBER 5

Union Fraternal Memorial Services.

Sunday witnessed a characteristic expression of McCook life and spirit in the union fraternal memorial exercises held by the Knights of Pythias, the Odd Fellows, the Degree of Honor and the Workmen orders, that afternoon.

At two o'clock the members of the three orders named, in organizations, marched to the Congregational church, (J. A. Wilcox being marshal of the day and on horseback,) where they were addressed by Rev. Frank W. Dean, who spoke feelingly and eloquently to the theme of charity—love. A solo by B. B. Gillespie, of Republican City, a number by the male quartette, Messrs. T. E. McCarl, S. B. McLean, J. R. McCarl, B. B. Gillespie, and "America" by the audience, made a splendid and appreciative musical program. Miss Olive M. Howe presided at the organ.

After the services at the church the line of march was taken up to the city cemetery, many citizens in carriages joining the procession, which was imposing in length. The ritualistic services of the Odd Fellows and Pythians were held in Longview; those by the Degree of Honor and Workmen in Calvary. Singing by the male quartette, Messrs. McCarls, McLean and Gillespie, was a feature of the Pythian services. After services in Calvary and Longview, the Workmen and Odd Fellows decorated graves of deceased members in River view, this duty having been performed by a committee on the part of the Pythians previously. Graves of deceased members of families of members of all the orders were also decorated and the cities of the dead presented scenes of touching, appealing loveliness. Some of the decorations were in order designs and very tasteful, and there was no lack of flowers and evergreens.

The various emblems and colors of the several orders were utilized in the church decorations effectively. The three links, the Pythian shield and sword and the Workman anchor and shield being in evidence among the other special designs.

The graves of the following named deceased men of the several orders in the three city cemeteries were decorated:

Notice to My Customers.

I wish to announce that my place of business will be open in the evening the usual hours. I do this believing that the requirements of the country trade demand such action, as the 8 o'clock-closing hour now practically shuts out the trade of the farmers during the season when they are busiest and are compelled to trade after the day's work is done.

Death Came Peacefully.

After an illness of about three months, Mrs. J. H. Ludwick quietly passed into the spirit land, Wednesday morning, about six o'clock, being surrounded by husband and children and conscious almost to the last. Up to a short time before the fatal change it was thought that her condition was improving, but about fifteen hours before death internal hemorrhages set in and hope was abandoned. Deceased made a heroic fight for health and life, but succumbed to the inevitable with as remarkable resignation and cheerfulness.

SARAH E. WHEELER was born on February 26th, 1853, in Long Point, Livingston county, Illinois. At the age of 16 years she moved with the family to Onarga, Iroquois county, Illinois. At the age of 21 years she was united in marriage with J. H. Ludwick. After living in Onarga two years they moved to Texas, from which state they in 1884 moved to Nebraska, locating in McCook, where they have since resided. Ten children were born to them, of which but four survive (together with the father) namely, Earl, Vergie, Lewis and Lorne. Mrs. Ludwick joined the Methodist church at the tender age of eight years, and was all her life a faithful, zealous and enthusiastic member. In her death a faithful wife and loving mother has gone on before.

The funeral services were held in the Methodist church, this afternoon at 2:30, Rev. L. M. Griggs conducting the same. A crowded church paid a last sad tribute of respect to her memory. The floral offerings were rich and beautiful, and the service touching.

The deepest sympathy of all hearts goes out to Mr. Ludwick and the children in this great sorrow and loss.

Mrs. Trowbridge of Lincoln and other relatives from away were here to attend the funeral.

Snyder and Mrs. Albert McMillen at the refreshment table.

Mrs. Frank Kendien ushered into the dining-room, Mrs. C. F. Babcock into the punch-room. Celestine Kendien received the cards and Dolly Pennell attended the door.

The following named committee was selected at the Tuesday evening meeting: George E. Thompson, Frank W. Dean, D. C. Marsh, Howe Smith, Sylvester Cordeal, J. A. Gunn, R. A. Green, J. A. Wilcox, Mrs. W. S. Morlan and Mrs. Sylvester Cordeal.

A Beet Sugar Factory.

THE TRIBUNE appreciates the fact that to secure a beet sugar factory is a large undertaking, and yet cannot be dissuaded from urging that the effort be made notwithstanding. Smaller towns than McCook have accomplished it. Sterling, Colorado, is a late example of what energy can do. They are within 600 acres of the required 5,000 acres to guarantee them a factory. An organized effort can surely secure guarantees that 5,000 acres of beets will be planted and cultivated in this neighborhood, next year. The effort is certainly worth while. Help comes to those who help themselves. Will McCook make the effort to help herself in this matter.

Burlington Baseball Notes.
