Simple Services of Love.

Last Saturday afternoon, after simple, touching services at the home, the remains of Eva Lewis were tenderly mingled with Mother Earth in Longview cemetery, whither many neighbors and friends followed in paying the last tribute of sympathy and love.

Services at the residence were conducted by Rev. Frank W. Dean of the Congregational church and were numerously attended, the members of the Awl-O's social club of which departed was a member, attending in a body.

The floral tributes were especially lavish, that of the "Awl-O's", a harp done in white and yellow with the name of the club done in purple, was particularly beautiful. Wreaths, pillows, etc., and pink and white carnations fairly covered the casket in their profusion.

The pall-bearers were young men schoolmates of the departed.

OBITUARY.

[Eva Lewis, only child of William and Adele Lewis, was born in Villisca, Iowa, September 2nd, 1882, coming to McCook, Nebraska, two years later with her parents and making this her home continuously except two years, 1891-2, spent in Culbertson. Eva was a member of the class of 1901, but at the close of her junior year was obliged to give up schoolwork on account of failing health. Despite every effort made to restore health | and vigor she joined those on the other side, Thursday, October 2nd, 1902. Departed was an exceptionally sweet and lovable girl, and was loved by all. The heart of the community goes out to the bereaved parents.]

A CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to return sincere thanks to the many friends who showed their sympathy during the years of Eva's illness in the closing hours of her life. From Harris, in Denver. full hearts we are grateful to them all. Particularly do we wish to thank those who sent such beautiful floral tributes to her whom we loved.

MR. AND MRS. WM. LEWIS. John Flohr At Rest.

Sunday morning about four o'clock, John Flohr, an aged resident of South McCook, passed away after a prolonged and painful illness. The deceased was 73 years of age at his last birthday, February 14th. He was born in Germany, but spent many years of his life in America,-perhaps fifteen years in McCook. His aged wife survives and quite a large family of grown children, none of whom, however, have lived here for years, and none were present at the funeral.

Kind friends made the old man's de clining days as comfortable as possible and assisted in his burial, which took place on Monday afternoon at three o'clock from the residence in South Mc-Cook. Rev. Frank W. Dean of the Congregational church officiated at the fu neral, conducting brief, touching ser vices at the home, after which the remains were laid away in Longview cemetery, a few friends and neighbors following the remains to their last resting place and paying a tribute of flowers and sympathy.

The deceased was especially well known among the railroad men in the roundhouse, for whom in years agone he and his wife washed before disqualified by old age and disease.

The aged bereaved wife is the object of tender sympathy and solicitude.
