REPUBLICAN TICKET.

CONGRESSIONAL. Congressman, George W. Norris, McCook

STATE.

Governor, John H. Mickey; Lieutenant Governor, E. G. McGilton; Secretary of State, George W. Marsh; Treasurer, Peter Mortensen; Auditor, Charles Weston; Attorney General, Frank N. Prout; Land Commissioner, George D. Folmer; Sup't Public Instruction, Wm. K. Fowler

LEGISLATIVE.

State Senator—29th District, D. S. Hasty; Representative, J. E. Hathorn

COUNTY.

County Judge, S. L. Green; County Attorney, C. E. Eldred; Commissioner—First District, D. A. Waterman

THE TRIBUNE would urge the Republicans of Redwillow county to be wide awake, lest in great confidence they be caught napping. The whole ticket can be and should be elected without the loss of one.

JASPER PHILLIPS of the Indianola Reporter is quite unnecessarily shocked because he failed to recognize Dr. S. L. Green, the Republican nominee for county judge, who recently visited old friends in Indianola, his former home. Enough and to spare of the voters of Redwillow county will recognize the doctor to insure his election to the office of county judge. The tooth of time is not overlooking even Jasper though he is impervious to the tender sentiments that many considerate people hold dear.

REPUBLICANS of the First commissioner district should make a united and energetic effort to return Commissioner Waterman to the board of county commissioners. He has made an honest, honorable and conscientious member of the board. He keeps in mind the best interests of the people of the entire county and has always earnestly sought to do his duty along this line. There are no good and sufficient reasons why he should not be reelected and nothing personal or factional should stand in the way of his election. Vote for Waterman.

Strenuous Effort Demanded.

The Republicans should make strenuous efforts to roll up the largest possible majority for Judge Norris. He stands for the American idea of giving work to American workmen and keeping the wheels of industry running. Judge Norris is a young man of courage and conviction and could be depended upon to assist the present administration in its efforts to curb the encroachment of the trusts and gigantic corporations and at the same time avoid doing anything to disturb the financial and industrial structure of this country so as to bring disaster and ruin to our country.—Holdrege Citizen.

The $1. bottle contains 2 1/2 times the 50c. size.

Hon. George W. Norris.

Judge Norris, Republican nominee for congressman from the Fifth congressional district, was born on a farm in Sandusky county, Ohio, July 11, 1861. When but a mere child his father took sick and died and in later years he was called upon to support his mother and several sisters who were in rather destitute circumstances. This he did by working as a farm hand for neighboring farmers during spring, summer and fall months and going to district school during the winter months. He has plowed, picked corn and run a threshing machine. After passing through the district school he went to school at the Baldwin university and later the Northern Indiana normal school, after which he taught school for a number of years, during which he devoted his spare time to the study of law. He then decided to abandon teaching and took a course in law. 1885 he came to Nebraska to open up a law office at Beaver City, and while there held the office of county attorney with marked ability.

In 1895 he was elected judge of the district bench of the Fourteenth district, as a Republican, when the district was considered a Fusion stronghold.

In 1898 he was reelected by a majority of 400 and ran 1,100 ahead of his ticket. Personally, Judge Norris is a self-made man and has schooled himself out of his own hard earnings, besides rendering much valuable assistance in the support of his mother. As a judge on the bench it is freely and frankly admitted by attorneys who have pleaded before him, that he is beyond a doubt the most competent judge on the district bench.—Grand Island Press, (Populist.)

Compare the above clean and honorable record of Judge Norris with that of his opponent. Mr. Shallenberger in the president of the Bank of Alma. His father was a banker. Two of his brothers are bankers. Another one of his brothers is collector for the great harvesting machinery trust. It was Shallenberger's Alma bank which bought up quack doctor notes, given by unwary farmers of Harlan county, and it was his bank that enforced collections on the same. But Mr. Shallenberger is ashamed of his record and tries to leave the impression that he is a farmer by removing his name from the bank stationery and advertising matter during campaign. He should be given an opportunity to resume active management of note-shaving and mortgage-foreclosing in the Bank of Alma.

A Merited Endorsement.

Now that President Roosevelt has successfully brought about arbitration in the great anthracite strike it is of supreme moment to Republicans all over the country that his splendid and essentially courageous administration be gloriously endorsed by the people. And let it be known clearly that in no possible way can the hands of our manly and energetically persistent president be better upheld and his policies carried out and maintained than by returning to congress, this fall, a house of representatives, (which directly voices the sentiments of the people,) fully in accord with President Roosevelt, who has just given the people of the United States additional and unmistakable evidence of his worth and laid upon the people the added proof of his high claim to their confidence and sturdy endorsement.

And now THE TRIBUNE wants to bring this matter home directly to the people of the Fifth Congressional District of Nebraska and lays the burden upon the hearts of the voters of the district. The success of A. C. Shallenberger in the coming election can mean nothing but a rebuff to the president. The election of G. W. Norris carries with it the hearty and unqualified endorsement of the president, (who certainly deserves well of the people,) and at the same time places in congress a man in every respect well equipped to give the people of the district an able and efficient representative, who has given a good account of himself in every public trust imposed upon him.

Let every Republican in the district put his shoulder to the wheel and the result will be a glorious victory and a merited endorsement.

Republicans Called to Duty.

J. H. Mickey and Judge Norris will be elected just as sure as Republicans do their duty. The state is Republican and has the smallest percentage of illiteracy of any state in the union. This means it will go Republican. Intelligence is a birth-mark of Republicanism. Mr. Mickey and Judge Norris are in line with the most intelligent political sentiment of the day. If you want the glorious policy of President Roosevelt on the Cuban reciprocity question carried out vote for Judge Norris. If you want the trusts controlled vote for him and he will help the president in this all-important work. He will assist in giving congress power to control these trusts. The Democracy, controlled by the south, will oppose the giving to congress this power. So there you are. It is up to the voters to say whether or not the trusts shall be controlled. A vote for Norris is a vote to put these great corporations under intelligent regulation. We take it therefore that you will do your duty and have a clear conscience hereafter.—Hastings Tribune.

Now is the time when the campaign grows good. The Democrats orate and the Republicans saw wood. Out on the highways the great "unwashed" go With tales of calamity and never-ending woe. They trample on prosperity, and all wise laws assail, But always dodge the issue of the "full dinner pail."

SEVERAL Lincoln preachers, (notably he of the convention-hall voice, Rev. L. P. Ludden,) are unduly agitated over the recent decision of the Nebraska supreme court pertaining to the use of the Bible in the common-schools. The doctor looks for an imminent "reign of terror;" but he will look in vain for "outlawry, immorality, all that is evil, to follow the banishment of the Bible from the public schools." THE TRIBUNE does not oppose the use of the Bible in the public schools, nor does it believe with certain English divines in high places that the "Bible can no longer be regarded as an infallible guide in morality and religion;" quite the contrary. But the use of the Bible in the public schools, so far as our experience and observation go, has been practically obsolete for years. So much the worse. The present decision will not seriously aggravate the situation. If the court please, THE TRIBUNE believes that there is more damage and danger in the too evident banishment of the Bible from the churches and homes, and in the splendid isolation of the precepts and practices of the religion of the lowly Nazarene by His followers, than there is in the important decision of any court on this terrestrial ball.

THE Fusion clackers are appealing to the old soldiers for votes to secure the re-election of Shallenberger, a "dye in the wool Democrat," on account of his wonderful and laborious efforts in securing pension allowances for the old veterans. Now, comrades, don't let such campaign flim-flam blind your eyes for one moment as concerning the Democratic position taken on every general pension law ever enacted by congress, it being fully established in a record that can never be "blotted out" that the whole Democratic party, as a party, rank and file, man and man, with scarcely a single exception voted against the passage of such bills. Republican voters alone gave the veterans their dues and that in spite of the opposition of the Democrats. It will be many long years yet before the old soldiers, their sons or even their grandsons will forget who stood for their rights in all pension legislation, when old age and weakened constitutions from wounds received or sickness incurred in the line of duty made their call an imperative one. Comrades, judge them by their record—then vote for a loyal son of a loyal father who gave his life for his country—don't let the "made-to-order" eulogiums of frothy campaign tooters for one moment cause you to forget that the whole Democratic record for the last forty years has been flatly against the claims of the veterans, then when the morning of November 4th dawns see that every loyal voter old or young gathers at the polls and casts his ticket for the election of a man who needs no whitewashing and whose whole record is above suspicion or reproach concerning pension or any other question of public policy. That man is Hon. G. W. Norris.—Curtis Courier.

A Victim of Typhoid Fever.

Ora Fortune, a young lad of 15 years, died of typhoid fever at the home of Omer Hale, Sunday morning last. The remains were shipped on No. 6, Sunday night, to Chariton, Iowa, whence they will be taken to Dallas, Iowa, for burial. The deceased had been working for William Byfield, where he was taken down with the fever together with the two Byfield boys. He died shortly after his arrival at the Hale home, where his parents were living.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Fortune and son Ora had been in Colorado for the mother's health, during the summer, but were compelled to return eastward, as the elevation was too great for the invalid wife and mother. Arriving here they secured quarters with Mr. Hale, where the lad passed away.

The parents returned to Iowa, Sunday night, with the remains of the son.

Gave Little Judgment.

The time and patience of County Judge Eldred were both employed, last Thursday night, in the hearing of the case of J. W. Little vs. Thomas Franklin. There was $70 and interest involved in the case, and the jury found for the plaintiff in the sum of $75.25. Little sold Franklin a horse, which died within a short time. Defendant failed to prove that the horse was sick at the time of purchase. Hunter & LeHew defended and Starr was for plaintiff. The jurors were: W. E. Hart, foreman, R. A. Green, Peter Foxen, C. D. Custer, James Cain, D. W. Colson. The case was not terminated until the wee small hours of Friday morning, and attracted not a little attention in the city.

Dislocated His Spinal Column.

W. P. McGinnis of Fountain, Colorado, mistook a train being made up in the yard here, Sunday evening, for departing No. 5, and in running along the side of the train collided with a switch-target, dislocating his spinal column and cutting a gash in his head. The injured man was made as comfortable as possible, and later placed on a cot and sent to Denver as per his request. The Denver officials sent him on to his home in Fountain, where his wife and children are. The man was somewhat intoxicated and endeavoring to bum his way to Colorado. He and his traveling mate, E. H. Newman, had recently worked at Edison a short while.
