Another Wolf Hunt.

There will be another wolf hunt, next Tuesday, January 27th, and following are the instructions:

All men belonging to the south line will meet at Perry at 9 o'clock. Those of the east line will meet at John Heinlein's place and S. D. McClain's place at 9 o'clock. The north line men will assemble at Jack Osburn's and H. T. Church's at 9 o'clock. Those of the west line will meet at George Brown's and John N. Smith's at 9 o'clock. The center of the round up will be the cornfield on the Easterday place on the big flat. All are invited to come and have a day of sport with us. Bring shotguns loaded with BBshot. We had a fine time at the last round-up, last Saturday, when 125 participated in the hunt.

Signed: Ben Doyle, Albert Smith, captains north side; Roy Stewart, George Brown, captains west side; Frank Carothers, W. M. Sharp, captains east side; John Real, Bert Sheldon, captains south side.

These additional instructions have been issued by the east side south division captain:

Be sure and bring a shotgun ready,
Be sure and have it loaded heavy.
Be sure that you do not leave the ring
To catch a wolf that's thro' the string.
Be sure to bring a hammer or pinchers
To pull out the barbed wire clinchers.
Be sure you come in time
And don't fail to keep in line.
We hope you'll not take us for a poet.
For we're neither a sheep nor a g-o-a-t.
Come one and all, come great and small
And help make the coyotes s-p-r-a-w-l.
It will be well for each captain to have an assistant at each corner.

Unconscious From Croup.

"During a sudden and terrible attack of croup our little girl was unconscious from strangulation," says A. L. Spafford, postmaster, Chester, Mich., "and a dose of One Minute Cough Cure was administered and repeated often. It reduced the swelling and inflammation, cut the mucus and shortly the child was resting easy and speadily recovered. It cures coughs, colds, lagrippe and all throat and lung troubles." One Minute Cough Cure lingers in the throat and chest and enables the lungs to contribute pure, health-giving oxygene to the blood. McConnell & Berry.

Developing Better Seed.

Every farmer knows, of course, that one of the worst mistakes he can make is to plant poor seed, but every farmer does not know the difference between the very best seed and that which is not so good. Poor seed is a bad investment, because if it makes a difference of only a few bushels to the acre it is a loss of many dollars. Some of the most interesting experiments of recent years have been the work of breeding better seed and improving it, just the same as livestock has been improved by intelligent breeding.

The Twentieth Century Farmer is publishing a most interesting series of articles by Thomas L. Lyon of the Nebraska Agricultural Experiment station on breeding wheat and corn. These and other articles along the same line should be carefully studied by every farmer who uses his brains in making his farming pay.

You can get a free sample copy by sending your name to The Twentieth Century Farmer, 2057 Farnam St., Omaha, Neb., but it would be worth your while to send in $1 for a whole year's subscription, or 25 cents for a three-month's trial subscription.

One Hundred Dollars a Box is the value H. S. Tisdale, Summerton, S. D., places on DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. He says "I had the piles for 20 years. I tried many doctors and remedies, but all failed except DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cured me." It is a combination of healing properties of Witch Hazel with antiseptics and emollients; relieves and permanently cures blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles, sores, cuts, bruises, eczema, salt rheum and all skin diseases. McConnell & Berry.

A Most Liberal Offer.

All our farmer readers should take advantage of the unprecedented clubbing offer we make, this year, which includes with this paper the Iowa Homestead, its special Farmers' Institute Editions and the Poultry Farmer. These three publication are the best in their class and should be in every farm home. To them we add, for local, county and general news our own paper, and make the price of the four one year only $1.25. Never before was so much superior reading matter offered for so small an amount of money. The three papers named, which we club with our own, are well known throughout the west, and commend themselves to the reader's favorable attention upon mere mention. The Iowa Homestead is the great agricultural and live stock paper of the west; the Poultry Farmer is the most practical poultry paper for the farmer, while the Special Farmers' Institute editions are the most practical publications for the promotion of good farming ever published. Take advantage of this great offer as it will hold good for a short time only. Samples of these papers may be examined by calling at this office.

Redwillow County Beet-Growers Organize.

the growers of this section in the scientific cultivation of the sugar-beets, this coming year, without expense to the growers, and we imagine much to their profit, as Mr. Leavitt is the father of Nebraska's sugar-beet industry.

As the Hitchcock county people had already organized a county association, Mr. Solomon of the committee declined to unite in the report, for that reason. The question of organizing a county or a district association was thus projected into the convention. There were strong advocates of each, but it was finally decided for the present to organize as a county, with the idea of branching out later into a district organization.

President Barnett of the Southwest Nebraska Industrial association read some interesting facts from a Loveland, Colorado, letter, about the sugar-beet industry, real estate values etc.

Perhaps no one man left so strong an impress on the meeting as did President Leavitt of the Ames factory. His statement that on the year following the cultivation of a total of 5,000 acres of sugar-beets in the Republican Valley he would build a factory of 500-tons-per-day capacity in the valley was met with a demonstration. He also stated that if the citizens of McCook would plant 400 he would plant the remaining 100 to make a 500-acre station here. THE TRIBUNE has no doubt but that this acreage will be largely exceeded, this year. As to the factory, however, he advised making haste slowly, but making permanent and sure progress in the industry; noting the fact which all conservative citizens will appreciate that one year of failure will do more damage to the industry than ought else. He offered the services of his practical and expert men of the Standard factory to assist local growers. Noted the need of developing our irrigation possibilities. Called attention to the necessity of rotation of crops. Gave assurances of assisting succesfully in the help question, answering many questions and in many ways adding to the interest of the meeting in his frank and prompt businesslike manner.

Rev. Carlisle P. B. Martin, L. L. D.

Waverly, Texas, writes: "Of a morning, when first rising, I often find a troublesome collection of phlegm, which produces a cough, and is very hard to dislodge; but a small quantity of Ballard's Horehound syrup will at once dislodge it, and the trouble is over. I know of no medicine that is equal to it, and is so pleasant to take. I can most cordially recommend it to all persons, needing a medicine for lung or throat troubles." Price 25c, 50c, and $1.00 bottle at A. McMillen's.

Photographing Animals.

Until the last year or so, all of the pictures of fine live stock which have been appearing in the farm papers were made from drawings and, as the artist tried to picture an ideal animal, the illustrations looked as much like the real animal as a wooden Indian looks like a live Indian. The first paper to run its illustrations from actual photographs was The Twentieth Century Farmer, in fact even today it is the only publication which has its own photographic department and which spends the money to send its photographers to the farms of the best live-stock breeders in the west. They travel as well to the fairs, stock shows and the best farms and orchards, in fact everywhere, to get timely pictures to illustrate The Twentieth Century Farmer. If you have never seen it, send your name to The Twentieth Century Farmer, 2051 Farnam street, Omaha, Nebraska, for a free sample copy, or 25 cents for three-month's trial subscription. Price per year, $1.

It contains each week from 24 to 48 pages, and the illustrations are only one of the many features which make it the handsomest and most interesting farm journal.

BARTLEY.

Another dance at Vandoren's, Friday night.

G. W. Jones returned home, Friday, from Iowa.

Mrs. McCord returned home, Saturday, night.

Ed Curlee and wife went to Lincoln, Monday night.

The little daughter of Mr. Groush, who is visiting at Mr. Clouse's, is still quite sick.

A surprise party was given at the home of Katie Riter, Wednesday night of this week.

Otis Farrer from Havelock was visiting out home, Friday and Saturday of last week.

Several from this place were McCook visitors, the first of the week, attending the suit between Ed Curlee and an implement company of Lincoln.

James Epperly had the misfortune to tip over with a load of alfalfa, later part of last week, breaking the rack badly and spraining his ankle.

Hiram McCord began work in the mill at Indianola, one day last week, but evidently mill work does not suit his taste, for he returned to Mr. Vandoren's the next evening; or possibly the city air(?) didn't agree with his health. Ask him for further information.

DIED—At Hendley, January 16, 1903, C. E. Williams of this place, He was taken sick quite suddenly, Sunday, January, 11, and word was sent to his wife at this place, informing her if he became worse she would be sent for; on Wednesday she received a letter stating he was getting better and the following evening a telegram saying he wasn't expected to live. Mrs. Williams and son Arnold started for Hendley at once, arriving there between five and six o'clock a. m. Mr. Williams passed away at six, just a few minutes after his wife reached him. The deceased has lived in this community a good many years and was well and favorably known by all. He leaves a wife and four children to mourn his death. The funeral was held at the M. E. church Sunday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, after which interment was made here.

Dislocated Her Shoulder.

Mrs. Johanna Soderholm of Fergus Falls, Minn., fell and dislocated her shoulder. She had a surgeon get it back in place as soon as possible, but it was quite sore and pained her very much. Her son mentioned that he had seen Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised for sprains and soreness, and she asked him to buy her a bottle of it, which he did. It quickly relieved her and enabled her to sleep which she had not done for several days. The son was so much pleased with the relief it gave his mother that he has since recommended it to many others. For sale by McConnell & Berry.

Lincoln Daily Star.

A modern newspaper published every day except Sunday. Eight to sixteen pages. Full associated press, leased wire service, full state news by special correspondents, a strong editorial page. The Star always has an option.

The Star has many other features which give it a strong individuality. It is the most complete newspaper in the state, for while classed as an evening paper it is in reality an all day paper, reaching subscribers in different parts of the state in daylight. Every edition is complete and contains news from all parts of the country, covering the twenty-four hours previous to the hour of publication. Its first edition at at 11 a. m. is issued in time to reach many parts of the state by noon or a little later, on the same day it is published. This is the first newspaper of the day. Work begins at 3:30 a. m. It is the Star's "Sunrise Edition." This edition is followed by others every two hours until the last edition is sent out on late trains to reach all points in time to go out on the rural routes in the morning.

No other daily paper in Nebraska equals this splendid news service which is given exclusively by the Lincoln Daily Star.

The coming session of the legislature will be of great interest to the people of Nebraska and the Star's report of legislative proceedings will be the best to be found in any paper in the state. There will possibly be "something doing" when the legislature meets and the Star will keep you posted.

THE BIG SATURDAY STAR

with its sixteen pages, illustrated, full of news and special articles, makes an ideal paper for Sunday reading.

The Daily Star will be sent by mail for one year to any address for $3.00, six months for $1.50, or three months for 75 cents.

The Saturday Star alone is sent one year by mail to any address for $1.00
