Do We Want a Fair?

On account of the activity and interest shown by the business men, about the first of the year, in the way of trying to promote different interests that would be of benefit to McCook and to the surrounding country, it looked as though something might be accomplished by the united effort and general interest taken in a number of enterprises that it seemed possible to secure.

This meeting resulted in calling a number of meetings to discuss the different projects; an organization was established, and everyone seemed willing to become a member and pay a membership fee. The organization was completed by electing officers and committees were appointed to look after the different enterprises that were desirable and which were thought within our here, this is the way to get it. reach. It is probable that on account of the meetings held, sugar-beet growing held at MdCook during the summer, is better understood and that there has under the supervision of the state sup't, been more interest taken among the people along that line, and while there defraying the expense of educators, is an increase of acreage secured for this would be worth in the way of advanceyear, yet the interest taken and the ment in education and in the reputation number of acres that will be put out to of our town, to say nothing about any sugar-beets are not so encouraging as the returns from sugar-beet culture warrant. It seems our people, both the businessmen and the farmers, are rather slow to take hold of this matter, but there has certainly been something accomplished by the industrial organization.

In the matter of the fair at McCook it seemed every one was in favor of forming an organization and holding a fair, this fall. No one seemed to doubt that it would be a success. Every one seemed to think it would be a benefit to feels the need of a building of this kind the stock men, to the town, to this part of the state in general, and that it would be practically self-supporting. In disbuilding. In the effort that is being building. In the effort that is being seasons has been wet and the councilcussing the enterprise, there were various opinions as to how funds should be ing a good many hope to be able to have will be for high license as the present council is constituted, and will be for high license no matter who is raised to back it and to insure success. Others thought that each precinct in the county shoud raise a certain amount of money in support of the fair, and various other methods were offered. The one thing that we all agreed upon was that we ought to have a fair and that it should be a success.

At the first meetings of the Southwest Nebraska Industrial association there was a great deal of enthusiasm shown furnish it which would have to be on account of bill introduced in the legislature establishing junior normal schools, sessions to be held during the summer, and naming McCook as one of the points where a school should be association the most of the business the benefits that would be derived from this institution of learning, and were hertily in favor of it. This bill passed much benefit from its organization. the house of representatives, but so far nothing seems to have been done for it in the senate, and it may lie there slee p-

While some money was raised and a considerable amount pledged, some two years ago for building an auditorium, and while everybody more intensely torium, yet it is doubtful whether a sufficient effort will be made to secure this from Mr. Carnegie. Like the dis trict fair, the library and auditorium will take money, and to secure them we must expect to have to put up the most of the money ourselves. We might get Mr. Carnegie to put up the building for the library, but it would take money right along to support it and this we would have to furnish. If we could secure a building so that we could have a part of it to use for a hall, it would take a considerable amount of money to raised by our citizens.
