Consistence.

More Riots.

Disturbances of strikers are not nearly as grave as an individual disorder of the system. Overwork, loss of sleep, nervous tension will be followed by utter collapse, unless a reliable remedy is immediately employed. There's nothing so efficient to cure disorders of the liver or kidneys as Electric Bitters. It's a wonderful tonic, and effective nervine and the greatest all around medicine for run down systems. It dispels nervousness, rheumatism and neuralgia and expels malaria germs. Only 50 cents, and satisfaction guaranteed by L.W. McConnell, druggist.

PUBLIC FREE LIBRARY NOTES.

One of the most widely read novels of a few years ago, read all too seldom now, is Lorna Doone. Blackmore was not a voluminous writer. He wrote nothing else that attained the popularity that this book enjoyed. Lorna Doone is worthy of any novelist, and ample to found a reputation on.

The scene is laid in rural England, something more than two hundred years ago. John Ridd, 3 the hero of the tale, is the son of a farmer of the better class. In the book, which is autobiographical in style, John tells us that his ent thereat be authorized to cast the full vote of the county represented by them. father, "being a great admirer of learning, and well able to write his name," sent his son to be well able to write his name," sent his son to be schooled at a neighboring town, where in time the son "could make bold with Caesar,-by aid of an English version," and could read as "much as six lines of Ovid." The chapters that describe the school life of that period are Eventually the depredations of the Doones beoming intolerable, they were hunted out of their nest and killed. It fell to John Ridd to 3 kill Carver Doone, who was the murderer of John's father. The story of their fight is one of the most realistic and horrible descriptions in fiction. In the end John marries Lorna, who is found not to be a Doone at all, but one who, as a child, the outlaws had stolen.

The story, not only because of the theme, but because of the manner of its telling, is one of deep interest. The book, too, is unique in English literature because of its quaint style. It is an accurate account of the life of the times From no other source, so easily accessible can we gain a better impression of how the people of that day lived. In fact its realism is the .125 chiefest reason for our interest. While human nature is as it has always been, still the customs,-the relations in which men stand to one another, change, and knowledge of how the men It is further recommended that the several of the past have met difficulties of a sort similar

Lorna Doone has been dramatized, but the stage version is not wholly satisfactory. The book is too full of incidents, to render an abridgement coherent. The omission of any delegates to the state convention give the matter portion leaves an ellipsis that is distressingly noticeable to one who has read the story. Few

Colds Cause Pneumonia.

One of the most remarkable cases of a old, deep-seated on the lungs, causing pneumonia, is that of Mrs. Gertrude E Fenner, Marion, Indiana, who was en tirely cured by the use of One Minute Cough Cure. She says: "The coughing and straining so weakened me that I ran down in weight from 148 to 92 pounds. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the New and Larger Building, New Presses, cough, strengthening my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength." In the language of the poet (Jim Hill): 'The property is still here."

In his senatorial aspirations Congressman Burkett seems to have the right-of-way so far at least.

It is becoming more and more evident each day as the date for the Republican state convention approaches that there is not sufficient reason for even the attempt to "turn down" Governor Mickey and that his renomination will come easily and customarily.

Hon. W. E. Andrews has honored Nebraska in every capacity in which he has served her, and Nebraska would honor herself by transferring him to the senate from the auditor's office, where his highly efficient services have received the highest approval of the government. There is no one seeking the United States senatorship in this state whose qualifications of heart and mind and honorable experience excel those of the "Little Parson."

LIKE FINDING MONEY. Cone Bros. Offer Popular Medicine at Half-Price.

Cone Bros., the popular druggists, are making an offer that is just like finding money, for they are selling a regular 50 cent bottle of Dr. Howard's celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and lyspepsia at half-price. In addition to this large discount they agree to return the money to any purchaser whom the specific does not cure.

It is quite unusual to be able to buy 50 cent pieces for a quarter, but that is the better way, see the Secretary of the what this offer really means, for it is onv recently, through the solicitation of Druggists Cone Bros. that this medicine could be bought for less than 50 cents, they urged the proprietors to allow them to sell it at this reduced price for a little while, agreeing to sell a certain amount. The result has justified their good judgment, for the sale has been something remarkable.

Anyone who suffers with headache, dyspepsia, dizziness, sour stomach, specks before the eyes, or any liver trouble, should take advantage of this opportunity, for Dr. Howard's specific will cure all these troubles. But if by any chance it should not, Cone Bros. will return your money.

Colonist Rates.

During March and April the Burlington will sell one way tickets to the Pacific coast at very low rates. Here are some of them:

$16.75 to Big Horn Basin, Wyo. Proportionately low rates to hundreds of other points.

If you will tell me where you are going, I shall be glad to give you full information about rates, train service. sleeping car service and send you advertising matter descriptive of these wonderful sections. J. Francis, General Passenger Agent, Omaha, Neb. 2-26-4-29
