Hastings, Nebraska, March 17, 1904.
J. E. KELLEY, Secretary. HENRY FOX, JR., Chairman.

SENATOR BURTON OF KANSAS will have a long time to be sorry that he ever knew the Rialto Grain Co. in the capacity of special solicitor before the P. O. D.

IN THE TRIBUNE'S report of the Republican county convention which appeared in the issue of April 8th, the list of congressional delegates appeared under the title of senatorial delegates and the senatorial delegates were printed as congressional delegates. The reader will make a note of this fact. Also that A. D. Johnston's name should be added to the list of senatorial delegates.

WELL HARRY LINDSAY gets left. THE TRIBUNE knows little about the merits of the case and cares less about the factional element in the contest, if any there be—for political party factionalism is a good deal like dog eat dog, but in it all one can't help experiencing a sensation of regret and sympathy for Lindsay, although the chances are that he would be better off in every material aspect in a few brief years if he should definitely "cut out" politics and confine himself to his profession.

Of General Interest.

George F. Bacon has been appointed postmaster at Carriaco, Hayes county.

Judge Norris has accepted an invitation to deliver an oration at Sutton, July 4th.

Judge Norris' bill for holding federal court at Grand Island in April once a year has passed the house.

The senate has confirmed the appointment of A. V. McNear as postmaster at Blue Hill, a nominee of Congressman Norris.

The Bank of Holbrook, capital stock $6,000, has been incorporated by Samuel Patterson, C. M. Brown, A. M. Keys, R. F. Patterson and E. Brown.

The Beaver Valley Breeding & Importing company of Wilsonville, has incorporated. The capital stock is $9,000 and the incorporators are W. A. Hunt, J. H. Phelps, J. V. Anderson, G. A. Anderson, C. T. Paris and P. P. Pierce.

The Wray Telephone company of Wray, Colo., has filed articles of incorporation in Nebraska. The company will construct a line to Culbertson, Neb., connecting the lines of the Colorado Bell Telephone company with those of the Nebraska Telephone company and will construct independent exchanges in this state.

On the Burlington lines west of the river a vast amount of track work is to be done this year. There will be little or no rebuilding, but the main lines are to be put in the best of shape for the heavy traffic to follow the latter part of the year. Some of the main lines are not fitted with steel of sufficient weight and strength to carry the big freight engines safely, and to make their use practical there should be no main line where they cannot be run. A few days ago a gang of track men were put to work near Riverport, where they will put down heavier steel. About forty men are included in this gang. Another gang will be put to work west of Wynore in the near future. During the latter part of the week forty Italians were sent out on the main line between Lincoln and Hastings, and another gang of nearly equal size will soon be at work on that line.—Lincoln Journal.

SOFT CORE

Like the running brook, the red blood that flows through the veins has to come from somewhere.

The springs of red blood are found in the soft core of the bones called the marrow and some say red blood also comes from the spleen. Healthy bone marrow and healthy spleen are full of fat.

Scott's Emulsion makes new blood by feeding the bone marrow and the spleen with the richest of all fats, the pure cod liver oil.

For pale school girls and invalids and for all whose blood is thin and pale, Scott's Emulsion is a pleasant and rich blood food. It not only feeds the blood-making organs but gives them strength to do their proper work.

In the summer of 1675 there sailed from France, for Quebec, a vessel that included among the passengers, Father Louis Hennepin, who was destined to become one of the most intrepid adventurers in the new world. Louis Hennepin was born about the year 1640 in Belgium, while that country was under the dominion of Spain. He became a Recollet friar, but his temperamental did not permit him to submit patiently to the strict discipline imposed by the superiors of his order. He was a wanderer, a lover of adventure, and he went from place to place in the seas to which he was assigned, so far as, under the rules of the church, he was able to do. He was not content with the narrow horizon of the old world, but longed for the opportunities afforded by America. It is said, and it may readily be believed, that he employed every art of which he could avail himself, to secure the appointment that brought him to this side of the Atlantic.

Arrived at Quebec, Hennepin spent most of his time for several years in the wilderness, following the hunters and trappers, and visiting the Indians in their villages, as a missionary priest. In the winter his clothing and a portable camp were carried on dog sledges, he following on snow shoes. Afterward he came to the water-ways in canoes. Afterward he came to Fort Frontenac, where he came in even closer contact with the frontiersmen and natives, and from which he made excursions into the country of the Iroquois.

The work of the church was always carried on simultaneously with that of exploration by the Catholic nations, and missionaries were members of every band of adventurers. When LaSalle started upon his explorations, Hennepin was selected to accompany him. An account of LaSalle's discoveries and fate has heretofore been given in this column, and so far as Hennepin's course was the same as LaSalle's, the story will not be repeated. Hennepin, with two companions, left LaSalle's party in central Illinois.

Following down the Illinois river to its confluence with the Mississippi, they ascended that stream for some distance, when they were captured by the Sioux, by whom they were carried on long hunting trips into the interior. It is impossible to determine the extent of their wanderings, but it is certain that Hennepin saw the Falls of St. Anthony, he being, in fact, the first to describe them, as he was the first to tell the European world of Niagara. He traversed much of the country embraced within the states of Iowa and Minnesota, and he may even have come within the state of Nebraska. If so, he was, with the exception of Coronado, who is known to have crossed what is now the boundary line between Kansas and Nebraska, the first white man to stand upon our soil. At any rate, in his map of the region covered by his explorations, Hennepin traces the Missouri river to its source, which he conceived to be a lake among mountains.

The friar and his companions were rescued by a party of hunters, and after pursuing the tedious and weary journey back to Quebec, he eventually returned to France, where he published the account of his discoveries. His book attracted wide attention. Though filled with inaccuracies and absurd claims as to the part he took in the expeditions of which he was a member, his discovery of a New Country and an earlier work, Louisiana, are among the earliest chronicles we have of the exploration of the interior of our country. For these they are of inestimable worth, though they should be read with caution, and in connection with other and more authentic accounts of explorations in America. An excellent, though brief, account of Hennepin's adventures will be found in LaSalle and the Discovery of the Great West. Hennepin's own narrative has recently been published in two magnificent volumes issued by A. C. McClure & Co.

Cone Bros. Success.

Cone Bros., the enterprising druggists, rather than await the ordinary methods of introduction, urged the Dr. Howard Co. to secure a quick sale for their celebrated specific for the cure of constipation, and dyspepsia by offering the regular 50c bottle at half price.

The wonderful success of this plan was a great surprise even to Cone Bros., and today there are scores of people here in McCook who are using and praising this remarkable remedy.

So much talk has been caused by this offer and so many new friends have been made for the specific, that the Dr. Howard Co. have authorized Druggists Cone Bros. to continue this special half-price sale for a limited time longer.

In addition to selling a 50c bottle of Dr. Howard's specific for 25c, Cone Bros. have so much faith in the remedy that they will refund the money to anyone whom it does not cure.

When your head aches, your stomach does not digest food easily and naturally, when there is constipation, speaks before the eyes, tired feeling, giddiness, bad taste in mouth, coated tongue, heartburn, sour stomach, roaring or ringing in the ears, melancholy, and liver troubles, Dr. Howard's specific will cure you. In Earnest Then.

"I have noticed," said the offhand philosopher, "that a woman will get a golf dress when she has no intention to play golf."

"That's so," agreed the man with the incandescent whiskers.

"And," continued the offhand philosopher, "she will get a ball gown when she cares nothing about dancing and a tennis dress when she wouldn't play tennis for fear she will freckle and a bathing suit when she has no thought of going into the water and a riding habit when the very thought of climbing on a horse gives her the chills and"

"Yes," interrupted the man with the incandescent whiskers, "but when she gets a wedding dress she means business. Ever notice that?"—Judge.

Woman's Cruelty to Woman.

Another illustration of how mean a woman can be was given the other night when a young lady was calling on an elderly spinster who dresses and acts with unbecoming youthfulness. The spinster showed her visitor a beautiful handmade lace collar and said proudly, "This is over fifty years old."

"It is beautiful!" purred the girl. "Did you make it, dear?"—New York Press.

Indigestion Causes Catarrh of the Stomach.

For many years it has been supposed that Catarrh of the Stomach caused indigestion and dyspepsia, but the truth is exactly the opposite. Indigestion causes catarrh. Repeated attacks of indigestion inflame the mucous membrane lining the stomach and exposes the nerves of the stomach, thus causing the glands to secrete mucus instead of the juices of natural digestion. This is called Catarrh of the Stomach.
