ROSS HAMMOND of Fremont is not afraid that the whole world shall know the fact that he would like to succeed Senator Millard. Wouldn't he make a lively running mate for Senator Burkett? Gimmine!

JAMES R. GARFIELD, commissioner of corporations, in a recent address at the banquet of the hardware manufacturers' association, laid down the law and the gospel on the corporation question very briefly and fully when he stated that:

"The question is whether the corporations shall rule the people or be ruled by the sovereign by which they are created."

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

The rule for loaning the new magazines has been changed. Before we kept them in the library until the next number came out; now as soon as six new ones come, one may be taken out for two days only, but as soon as the next number comes they may be loaned the same as a book; that is they may be taken out for two weeks.

It would be appreciated very much if people in and around McCook would visit and use the library more. You would be surprised at the number of good, wholesome books we have. We take twenty-two or twenty-three different periodicals, three daily newspapers and two McCook papers. When you have friends visiting you bring them and show them "our library"; it belongs to you as much as any body, and let them see that you are proud of it even though it is small. We have a good reading room, also stationery, pen and ink for the use of the public.

"The Bell in the Fog" by Gertrude Atherton, author of "The Conqueror" and "Rulers of Kings" has written nothing which powerfully portrays her style and her genius as a story-teller as do these tales. Their charm is beyond the reach of description. Subtle in conception and execution at times intensely dramatic. The stories cover a wide variety of subjects and are all refreshingly original.

A new series of stories of child life by Josephine Daskam Bacon, will begin in the early winter numbers of McClure's magazine. The first one, "A Little Victory for the General" is one of her own biggest victories. The amount of humor, tenderness, character and grace put into this strangely original little drama, whose hero is a baby, is a fresh revelation of what a short story can be. The pictures are by Reginald Birch, who illustrated "Little Lord Fauntleroy."

Library hours: Mornings from 10:30 to 12 o'clock, afternoons from 1:30 to 6 o'clock, evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock, Sunday afternoon, 2 to 5 o'clock.

IDA McCARL, Librarian.

Three Good Musicians.

The three purely musical members of the Chicago Lady Entertainers, the next lecture course number in McCook, are each as good in her way as Estelle Clark, the reader of the combination. Miss Stella Hitchcock, the first soprano, is a lyric soprano who knows how to sing. It is not often that such a high soprano voice possesses the clear, bird-like and lyric quality found in Miss Hitchcock's.

Mrs. Bessie M. Mercer is the contralto who is always pleasing. The low voice always has an advantage with an audience, and Mrs. Mercer's is an exceedingly round, full and deep one, possessing a sweetness and pathos not found in the voice of every contralto.

Marcia M. Moorhead, the second soprano, is also the hardworking accompanist who is never hallucinated by the fancy that she is playing a solo. She plays with an expression and spirit, and assists the voice of the solo singer, instead of detracting from the effect as do many accompanists.

As a quartette, the four voices blend very naturally, while their phrasing, articulation and time are fully up to the standard set by reader, accompanist and soloists.

Special Revival Services Successful.

The special revival services being held in the Methodist church every evening are well attended and the interest is deep and genuine. Last Sunday night the church was crowded and some failed to secure seats and went away. The gospel singing by Mrs. Lucinda Beck and daughter Miss Pearl is accomplishing much good. A chorus choir leads in the congregational singing. Up to this date thirty-five have bowed at the altar and confessed Christ. Next Sunday night will be the last service at which Mrs. Beck and daughter will appear. After that they go to Culbertson to hold meetings. The meetings will be continued next week by the pastor assisted by Rev. Erastus Smith of Indianola.

For Exchange.

A fine farm of 100 acres of rich, level land in Boone Co., Neb. 130 acres under cultivation, not a foot waste land; all fenced and cross-fenced; 120 rods American fencing; house 16x24 with kitchen 12x12; stable for 8 head of horses; cattle shed; hog house; well and windmill; 8 miles from R. R. town and 1 1/2 miles from store and postoffice; cash price $5,000; will exchange for a farm in Red Willow Co. on a cash basis. I also have buyers for farms; if you want to sell list, then with me. J. FLETCHER, Immigration Agent Burlington Route, Bartley, Neb.

To Telephone Subscribers.

Owing to the fact, that the construction of the new exchange is now in progress subscribers will be bothered more or less with their instruments not working as good as they might, until this work is completed, but I assure you our best efforts will be used to keep out all trouble, as near as possible. C. I. HALL, Manager.

It May Seem Early

Their First Effort Strenuous.

The Board of Canvassers was in session for the first time under the statute enacted by the last legislature which makes it their duty, as jury commissioners, to prepare a list of names from which jurors for the ensuing year are to be drawn. The new law provides that 500 names shall be selected from the poll books of the several voting precincts of the county, in the following manner: The number of names to be selected is to be divided by the number of voting precincts in the county, and the quotient so obtained is the number of jurors to be allotted to each precinct. The number of names upon the poll books of each precinct is to be divided by this quotient. Then, counting from the top of the list, the name on the poll book corresponding to this number is first taken, and so on down through the list until the necessary number of jurors from each precinct is obtained. The names of persons disqualified for certain reasons prescribed by the law are to be discarded. The five hundred names thus secured are put into a receptacle, and when a jury is to be drawn, the requisite number of names is to be taken in a manner directed by the law. The statute is crude and defective in many of its features, and in counties of the population of Red Willow county is, in its present form, impractical. When its provisions are understood, however, and some of its more glaring imperfections are remedied, it is believed it will prove satisfactory, as, if its requirements are strictly adhered to, it is an absolute safe guard against dishonesty in the selection of a jury.

McCook Commercial Club Meets.

The meeting of the McCook Commercial club, Tuesday evening of this week, was quite largely attended and was in some respects one of the most business-like and important sessions yet held by that organization.

The usual routine business of the club was first disposed of and then several new matters were taken in hand.

Mayor Waite being present made a report on the action of the city council in its meeting, Monday evening, the details of which are elsewhere given in full, concerning the sewerage question. The reported action was heartily endorsed by the club. Incidentally, the sewer question was quite freely discussed by several members—all in favorable strain.

On behalf of the free library board G. E. Thompson then made a statement of the accomplishments, aims and hopes of the free city library, in the matter of securing a building, particularly, and then offered the following resolutions which were promptly and strongly endorsed by the club:

FREE LIBRARY RESOLUTIONS.

WHEREAS, it has come to our knowledge that the Board of Directors of the McCook Public Library is moving towards the erection of a library building upon its site immediately south of the M. E. church; and

WHEREAS, we believe that the City of McCook has no more important interest than its educational interest, therefore, BE IT RESOLVED, that we, the undersigned, hereby offer to the Library Board our active assistance and co-operation in such manner as they may indicate and we invite their communication on the subject.

The sugar beet industry of this city and vicinity was then brought before the club for consideration. It was developed from several talks made that conditions were not satisfactory with the beet raisers, who were annoyed and sustained loss by the inability or failure of the Ames factory to take the beets more rapidly. Indeed it was stated that the company's acreage was taken care of at the factory while the beets of individuals were held awaiting orders to ship. Other minor annoyances, delays and grievances were noted, out of the total of which it became quite clear that the industry would be very materially crippled for another year if conditions and contract requirements and agreements were not improved and amended to be more favorable to the producers in this section. It seemed to be the consensus of opinion that a factory in this city or vicinity would be the only adequate and satisfactory outcome of a situation becoming more and more unsatisfactory each year.

F. M. Kimmell, W. T. Coleman, G. E. Thompson, R. W. Devore and J. E. Kelley were appointed a special sugar beet committee to take this matter in hand to ascertain what if anything can be done.

RESOLUTION ENDORSING PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

Club rooms McCook Commercial club, McCook, Neb., Nov. 14th, 1905.—Reposing boundless confidence in the honesty and righteousness of President Roosevelt's purpose and recognizing the need of just such legislation as is justly proposed by the chief executive of this nation, we the members of this club wish to and hereby do most heartily endorse his position on the question of railroad regulation, involving the elimination of the rebate and discrimination evils from the transportation question and the securing of a "square deal" for all shippers.

In-cr-seal Cadets.

A few years ago all crackers and cakes were packed in large barrels and boxes and the idea of packing them in small pasteboard packages was not thought of, but in the last few years the manner of both baking and packing of crackers has been entirely changed so that now instead of buying them in quantities, it is possible to get them in a small air tight receptacle known as an In-cr-seal package.

Next week the ladies of McCook will be given an opportunity to become acquainted with some of the wonderful system used by the National Biscuit Company in baking and packing crackers. A crew of college bred young men known as the In-cr-seal Cadets will visit the city and tell us many things of interest concerning the famous In-cr-seal package.

On Saturday afternoon and evening the cadets will hold receptions in the leading stores where the ladies will be served with many new and delicious products of baker's skill found only sealed with the In-cr-seal trade mark.
