RAILROAD NEWS ITEMS.

Eno is the name of the new station on the west end.

The car cleaners have a new platform on the rip-track.

The new cinder track is gradually being lengthened out.

Engine 611 went out of the shop, this week, and 1239 replaced her.

Harry Froy, formerly in the train service some years since, is now a machinist here.

Fred Landberg succeeds R. H. Turner as foreman on the erecting side of the machinshop.

Casius Dodge of Marion, this county, has gone into the storehouse to work—the office force.

F. E. Larson has been transferred from the storehouse to the office of Machinshop Foreman Young.

The boys operating that whistle on the 1682 are having more fun out of the exercise than the other fellows who want to sleep nights.

The engine in the blacksmithshop is being overhauled and a wheezy little fellow from down the creek is making a try at it meanwhile.

Engineer W. W. Archibald was over from the Kansas line, close of last week and fore part of the present week, visiting the family here.

Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Lane and Miss Mary Harrison arrived home, Monday on No. 1, from their visit of a few weeks in Terre Haute, Indiana.

In anticipation of winter weather, the engines are being equipped with their curtains and other arrangements made for approaching cold weather.

Engine 2043 is having done some steam pipe and front end work, this week. The 2814 has been over the drop-pit, but will go out into service, this week.

Wesley Rozell of Coleman precinct has purchased the Nels J. Johnson property on Marshall street and will eventually become a resident of McCook, where he has business interests of an expanding nature.

R. H. Turner departed, Wednesday night, for Osawatomie, Kansas, where he has been given a foremanship under Schultz, formerly general foreman here. This makes six foremanships secured by boys from McCook in the Missouri Pacific shops at Osawatomie.

It is understood that Agent George S. Scott, who will shortly engage in the grocery business in McCook in partnership with Will Stoner, will retire from the Burlington's service on October 15th, the date when the new firm expects to commence business.

Captain Dailey of the Havelock drill team, M. W. A., is a gentlemanly fellow, as are all the boys of the team. Dailey is a machinist at Havelock, and most of the boys are in the company's service there. They made a fine impression and deserved the royal treatment accorded them by McCook during the log-rolling and races, last week.

A HERO OF THE BUSH.

The Daring and Devotion of a Brave Maori Youth.

Courage is not an attribute peculiar to the white man, nor is self sacrifice the prerogative of civilization. In Mr. J. C. Fifth's "Nation Making" is told a story as touching in its brave devotion as any tale of the Victoria cross. The incident occurred at Oraikan, where the English soldiers had just defeated the Maoris. A little party of colonial troops, pursuing fugitives, came upon three natives, two old men and one young fellow.

The youth, seeing the soldiers, dropped on one knee and aimed with his gun at the advancing party, which halted a moment, while the old men ran toward the forest. The old men had thrown away their firearms in order to make escape easier.

The soldiers fired at the youth, but missed. Without discharging his gun he sprang to his feet and ran on in advance until he caught up with the old men once more. Then, facing about, he presented his gun as before, but reserved his fire.

The weary old men gradually drew near cover. Once more the soldiers fired and missed; once more the gallant fellow turned and bounded on. The old men were close to the forest when the youth, nearly fainting, again knelt and took aim, but still did not fire.

The soldiers shot him as he knelt and rushed to the forest, but failed to capture the two fugitives, who, safe in the dense underbrush, made their escape.

On their return the soldiers found the brave young fellow lying dead. His gun was empty; it had not been loaded at all. With it he had covered the retreat of the old men and secured their freedom by the loss of his own life. No more gallant deed of heroic devotion was ever accomplished in any land.

Dreams of the Healthy.

There has been much discussion as to whether one dreams only on falling to sleep and during the act of waking up, or whether dreams take place at any time during sleep. While not definitely determined as yet, the evidence seems to be rather in favor of the view that one may dream at any time during the night or the whole night through. Dreaming is common to perfectly healthy persons, and in itself is no evidence of disorder.—Harper's Magazine.

Mount McKinley.

In mountain climbing the world over the climber usually arrives fresh and unfatigued at the base of the peak he wishes to storm and, as a rule, begins his ascent at a high altitude. On Mount McKinley, as described by a writer in Outing, it is the opposite. There are twenty-five miles of rugged foothills and glaciers to be crossed—with heavy packs—before the base of the mountain is reached, and then the climber is confronted by 18,000 feet of rock and ice.

Worse Still.

FIRST WIRELESS MESSAGE.

Colonel Clowry of the Western Union Claims to Have Sent It.

The strike of the telegraph operators has brought into prominence the president of the Western Union Telegraph company, Colonel Robert C. Clowry, who succeeded General Thomas T. Eckert in this position about five years ago. It may not be generally known that Colonel Clowry has some claim to being the first to use wireless telegraphy. Strange to say, his employment of it was as long ago as the period of the civil war. Born in 1839 in Will county, Ill., he entered the employ of the Illinois and Mississippi Telegraph company at Joliet in 1852 as messenger boy, and in the service of that and other companies acquired a thorough knowledge of the telegraphic science of the day. When the civil war broke out he went to the front in the Union army, and in 1863 President Lincoln commissioned him captain and assistant quartermaster of the United States army and assigned him to duty in charge of the United States telegraphic system in the southwest, with headquarters at Little Rock, Ark. Afterward he served at St. Louis.

At one time he found himself in command of the lines at a certain point in Missouri, but unable to communicate with the Union forces across the Mississippi owing to the fact that the enemy had cut the wires. The message he desired to transmit was of the utmost importance, says the Saturday Evening Post in relating the story, and could on no account suffer delay. It was pitchy dark and the rain was descending in torrents, the wind was high and Colonel Clowry could conjure no way out of his difficulty. Suddenly he heard the toot of a locomotive on the other side of the river. An idea came to him. Only a short distance from him stood a locomotive, and climbing into the cab, he set the whistle cord and began to jerk it in a manner that made the engineer and fireman think he had gone crazy. There was a series of wild toots such as nobody had ever heard before in the history of railroading, but pretty soon they brought from the other side of the river answering whistles. The operator at headquarters had heard his call and realized that locomotive whistles instead of telegraph keys must be used in the transmission of an important message.

At the close of the war Colonel Clowry entered the service of the Western Union and rose to become its head.

POSITIVE PROOF.

Should Convince the Greatest Skeptic in McCook.

Because it's the evidence of a McCook citizen.

Testimony easily investigated.

The strongest endorsement of merit. The best proof. Read it:

Charles Weintz, constable, living in the northwestern part of McCook, Neb., says: "When I began the use of Doan's Kidney Pills I was suffering a severe attack of kidney trouble. My back was very weak and I experienced the most terrible pains if I brought the slightest strain upon the muscles of the back. I was often so weak that I was unable to walk up town and it was all that I could do to get around. When I felt an attack coming upon me, I would have to lie down at once and it would be many hours before I would be able to straighten again. At times the secretions from my kidneys were copious, while at others scanty, dark in color and contained a heavy sediment. I saw Doan's Kidney pills advertised and procured a box at McConnell's drug store. They came to my relief at once. I continued taking them and was soon restored to perfect health."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name — Doan's — and take no other.
