Curtis Guild, Jr., Who Is Talked of For Vice President—A Lord Bishop's Crusade.

The Marriage of Prince Wilhelm of Sweden and the Pretty Grand Duchess Marie Pavlovna of Russia

CURTIS GUILD, JR.

CURTIS GUILD, Jr., governor of Massachusetts, who is recovering from a serious illness, is much talked of as a candidate for vice president on the Republican ticket. He is a newspaper man, as his father was before him, and took to politics naturally, as several of his ancestors occupied posts of high responsibility under the state or federal government. He graduated from Harvard, like all the Guilds for generations back except his father, who prepared for college, but was prevented from graduating by family reverses. He could repeat lines from Tennyson at three years old. A few years later he could recite entire plays of Shakespeare and deliver them with proper spirit and fire. At Harvard he was champion fencer and stood 90 per cent or over in all his studies.

It was his expertise in use of the sword that caused him to take interest in military affairs. He was brigadier general of state militia at the outbreak of the Spanish war and went to Cuba as a lieutenant colonel and inspector general on the staff of General Fitzhugh Lee. After the war President McKinley offered him a place on the Cuban reconstruction commission, but he declined it, also another offer of the post of first assistant postmaster general. He was elected lieutenant governor of Massachusetts in 1902 and governor in 1906, is forty-eight years of age and is now sole owner of the Boston Commercial Bulletin, founded by his father and on which the governor himself served from bill collector to editor in chief.

Prince Wilhelm of Sweden, who was married a few days ago to the Russian Grand Duchess Marie Pavlovna, is remembered as the handsome scion of PRINCE WILHELM OF SWEDEN AND HIS BRIDE.

The Swedish royal house who visited America last summer to represent his country at the Jamestown exposition. He commanded the cruiser Fylga, which the Swedish government sent to participate in the naval display held in connection with the exposition, and is known by his countrymen as the "sailor prince." He was born in 1884 and holds the title of Duke of Söderman. The Grand Duchess Marie is about seventeen years old and is a cousin of the czar, being a daughter of the Grand Duke Paul Alexandrovitch. The ceremony took place at the Tsarskoe-Selo palace and was conducted with all the pomp and brilliancy characteristic of the Russian court. The robing of the pretty little bride was performed by the empress herself, assisted by the dowager empress, their maids of honor and the ladies in waiting. The bride wore on her head a jeweled diadem and from her shoulders hung a long trained mantle of sapphire velvet lined with ermine. This train was borne in the procession by five court chamberlains. The emperor himself conducted the bridal pair to the dais in front of the golden gates of the high altar, where the marriage was solemnized according to the rites of the Greek church. After that ceremony there was another one, more simple, at which a bishop of the Swedish church officiated.

It was a picturesque procession which was led through a slum district of London by the "slum bishop," the Right Rev. A. F. Winnington Ingram, whose visit to this country last autumn attracted so much attention. The Episcopal church is generally conservative in its methods, but during mission movements or special attacks on the strongholds of sin its clergy sometimes make departures from the customary stately and dignified ritual of the church. The bishop of London has started a crusade against the public houses of his great diocese, or saloons, as they would be called in this country. At certain intervals he conducts midnight marches through the worst slum districts, gathering the people of the section up as the procession moves along. On the occasion of the first march, which started at 11 o'clock at night from the schools of the Church of St. James the Less, thousands of temperance workers were in line, carrying torches and acetylene lamps, which shed a brilliant radiance through the squalid streets.

THE BISHOP OF LONDON.

"I have come to lead this gallant church army as a comrade and brother," said the bishop as he took his place at the head of the parade, amid ringing cheers. One banner carried at the head bore the invitation, "Come, Drunk or Sober," another called upon the midnight roisterers of the district to "Come, Have a Drink With Me." Before the roundup began a short service was held, followed by the handing out of refreshments and sandwiches to the thirsty and hungry, at the Church of St. James the Less. The march included in its route every public house and drinking bar in the district. Hymns were sung in front of them, and as the procession advanced its ranks were swollen with the flotsam and jetsam of the streets, including hundreds of drunkards and women of the unfortunate class. The bishop had a great audience of such persons when he began his principal address at 1 o'clock in the morning.

The distinguished financier Henry Clews, who recently received from the mikado the highest imperial decoration given by Japan to foreigners, has rendered many services to the Japanese government. He was identified with the establishment of the modern financial system of the empire, and it happened in the following way: Some thirty-seven years ago a commission headed by Marquis Ito came to the United States to study its financial system. It was accredited to President Grant, who received the members in a friendly manner and then turned them over to Mr. HENRY CLEWS.

Clews. The suggestions he gave them were considered very valuable and were largely adopted in the financial system finally chosen for the modernized Japan. The eminent banker has since kept in close touch with the statesmen of this remarkable country. Mr. Clews tells a story of an old dandy he met one day trying to reason with a balky mule.

"That your mule, uncle?" he asked. "He am, sah." "Does he ever kick?" "Kick, sah? He don't have no 'casion to kick. I's the one to kick, sah. He's gettin' his own way right along."

That grand old man Dr. Edward Everett Hale is often absentminded. One Sunday he visited the New York state reformatory at Elmira, where he was asked to occupy the pulpit of the chapel and address the convicts. When he arose he found every seat occupied. Beaming with pleasure, he astonished his hearers by saying: "I am pleased and gratified to see so many here today."

Judson Harmon, who has been nominated for governor of Ohio by the Democrats, was attorney general of the United States during a part of the second administration of President Cleveland. He was born in Hamilton county, O., in 1846 and is a son of Rev. B. F. Harmon. He graduated from Denison university in 1866 and from the Cincinnati Law school in 1869. In 1876 he was elected to the bench of the common pleas court in Cincinnati and two years later to the superior court, serving until 1887. On resuming the practice of his profession he built up an extensive legal business and at the time of his appointment as attorney general by Mr. Cleveland was supposed to be enjoying an income of about $25,000 a year. His choice for the post of attorney general was a surprise to every one, including Mr. Harmon, and was called one of the president's "inspirations." He held the office until two days after the inauguration of President McKinley.

Two Red Willow County Decisions. The recent session of the supreme court of the state of Nebraska handed down two decisions effecting Red Willow county.

The first in effect declares that the election changing the location of the school from Shiloh to Marion is valid. The syllabus of this decision is as follows:

Hess vs. Dodge. Appeal. Red Willow. Affirmed. Fawcett, C. Department No. 2.

1. A general denial puts in issue every material averment in the petition. 2. Where, in an action against a school district to enjoin the changing of the site of the school house and the appropriation of the moneys of the district for the erection of a school house on the new site, plaintiff alleges that "he is a resident taxpayer and qualified voter" of said district, such allegation is a material allegation, without which the petition would be demurrable; and where such petition is met by a general denial, the burden is upon the plaintiff to prove such allegation.

The other decision is in favor of the city of McCook, and is in effect that the city has the right to vacate a certain part of lower Manhattan street, if such action is desired.

Lee vs. City of McCook. Appeal. Red Willow. Temporary injunction dissolved, judgment district court affirmed. Good C. Department No. 1.

1. Where a part of a street is vacated, the general rule is, that only those property owners whose property abuts upon the vacated part of the street and those who are thus cut off from access to their property, are entitled to damages on account of such vacation. Eiders vs. Friday.—Neb.—, 111 N. W. 140, followed.

2. A private party cannot enjoin a threatened wrong, where the injury which he would sustain would be no other or difference from that suffered by the community generally.

3. As a general rule, courts will not enjoin the passage of unauthorized resolutions or ordinances by a municipal corporation. An injunction should not issue until some effort is made to enforce the unauthorized resolutions or ordinances.

4. When a city enlarges its corporate limits and annexes territory, over which there existed a highway previously laid out and established by the county board, such highway becomes impressed with the character of a street, and the city council is the only body thereafter vested with jurisdiction to vacate such highway, or street.

$8,000 Appropriated for Site.

At the late session of congress, through the efforts of Congressman Norris, McCook received an appropriation of $8,000 for a site for a government building. Postmaster McLean has received from the office of the supervising architect of the treasury department, the following statement of the methods employed by the treasury department in securing sites for federal buildings, which may be of interest to our readers:

Upon the enactment of a law authorizing the acquisition of a site for a Federal building the treasury department invites, through a local newspaper, proposals for the sale or donation of a suitable corner. This advertisement gives such information as to the dimensions of the site and the general requirements as will enable preparation of proposals.

The offers are opened in Washington at the time stated in the advertisement, and as soon thereafter as practicable an agent of the department is sent to make a personal examination of the proposed locations and such others as he deems desirable. Upon this report, together with representations in writing from other sources, the department selects the site and, if the property is to be acquired by purchase, accepts the offer of the successful bidder, subject to the conditions stated in the advertisement and the Attorney-General's approval of the title.

Whenever the department is unable to purchase an acceptable site at a reasonable price, or where acceptable title can not be secured by voluntary conveyance, a selection is made and the title acquired by condemnation proceedings, in which the price to be paid is judicially determined.

The buildings (if any) on the site should be reserved by the vendor, to be removed upon notice after payment for the land has been made. Generally, notice to move is not given until the construction of the federal building is about to begin, if the vendor is willing, pending such removal, to pay a reasonable ground rent.

Plans for public buildings are taken up in the order in which the titles to the sites therefor are vested in the United States, and the contracts for their construction are let at as early a date as practicable.

Farmers, Attention.

I am receiving cream for the Fairmont Creamery Co. of Crete, Neb. Bring your cream to me and I will guarantee good results. You get your checks every shipment. To those parties that are delivering cream to other creameries, if you will divide—give one-half to me—I think after a few shipments you will bring it all to me.

A Notable Visitor.

McCook briefly entertained a notable visitor, Saturday and Sunday, in the person of Very Rev. M. F. Fallon, O. M. I., D. D., of Buffalo, New York, Provincial of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate of the first province of the United States. The Very Rev. Fallon is one of the best known priests in the great diocese of Buffalo, not only in his sacerdotal office, but as a brilliant lecturer and a man of large and commanding influence. He preached the sermon in St. Patrick's church, Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock, using as his subject "The Catholic Church," which is pronounced as having been one of the ablest ever heard by his auditors. In this connection, the Provincial took the opportunity of thanking the congregation of St. Patrick's parish for the warm reception accorded Father Kirwin and the hearty cooperation extended. Father Lawrence, missionary, accompanied the Provincial. They are just returning to Buffalo from a mission of three months in Canada, extending from Winnipeg, Manitoba, to Vancouver, British Columbia. They left for the east, Sunday night.

A Bouquet From "BIX."

McCook is enterprising. The people seem united in going after and getting the things they need. In a commanding location stands the new high school building, in architectural beauty one of the handsomest in the state, with the inside a model of comfort and convenience. It cost the city $40,000. If Lincoln does as well in proportion to population her new high school building will cost $350,000, exclusive of furnishings. Won't that be nice?

But this city doesn't propose to stop at a high school building. Already $27,000 has been subscribed for a Masonic temple and opera house and that sum will be increased a third in order to erect such a building as the place demands.

Another big thing the city is reaching after is a municipal water plant. The present one, under private ownership, has not given universal satisfaction, and the people are inclined to get into the class with Lincoln at the risk of being accused of favoring paternalism.

Mammoth Building

The contractor is just completing the cement floor in the new cattle barn on the state fair grounds at Lincoln. This barn is a mammoth building 17x 255 and will have stalls for 636 head of cattle, superintendent's office and toilet rooms and the total cost will exceed $23,000.

Cattle Superintendent O. E. Mickey of Osceola reports the receipts of entries daily, and the management confidently expect that the ample provisions for caring for cattle will result in the largest exhibit Aug. 31st to Sept. 4th ever held in Nebraska.

The Farmer.

The happiest man in this beautiful land of ours to-day is the successful farmer. In the evening when he is tired from his day's labor, he sits down with his family of boys and girls, and is undisturbed by the maddening noise and evil temptations of the great city.

Banks fail, railroads go into the hands of the receiver, booming towns collapse, all business stagnates, but the farmer can snap his fingers at all these things. He spends his leisure hours reading his farm journals, under his own vine and shade tree and smiles as he glances across his broad acres of wheat, oats and corn. He is the monarch of all he surveys.

And bringing up his boys and girls to follow the straight and narrow pathway he gives to the nation its best blood. Many of the world's best and greatest men and women were sons and daughters of the happy farmer.

The American farmer is to be envied, and if he is not content with his lot he is lacking in wisdom. Which do you think is the happier, the contented farmer or the city man?—Institute Paper.

Filed $300,000,000 Mortgage.

Saturday last, Right-of-way Agent Westover of the Burlington filed with the clerk of Red Willow county a mortgage covering the value of "Q" system, running to the Central Trust Co. of New York city, in the vast sum of $300,000,000.00. The filing fee was $18.70. This is by all odds the largest filing ever made in this county. The mortgage will be formally filed in each county in the state.
