The train on the St. Francis branch, last Saturday, was stalled on the western end of the line, not by snow, but by Russian thistles. The cuts were full of the thistles, and the engine was unable to plow through them, as it would when the cuts were filled with snow. The funny part of it is that the train men did not think of burning the thistles and saving a whole lot of trouble.—Beaver City Tribune.

SENATOR TOOK THEM BY STORM

One of the Warmest, Pithiest Thirty-Minute Speeches Ever Heard in This City.

THE MENARD WAS CROWDED TO OVERFLOWING

And Hundreds Were Unable to Get In.—The Senator Reiterates His Unanswered Question to Hon. W. J. Bryan in His Brief but Convincing Address.

The speech of United States Senator Albert F. Beveridge of Indiana in the opera house, Thursday morning, was the most inspiring incident yet of a national campaign quite lacking in active enthusiasm.

Arriving on his special train from Denver at 9:30 in the morning, an automobile was in waiting at the depot to convey him and party to the opera house, which was already overflowing with an audience full of eagerness to hear him.

He was most briefly introduced by Chairman McCarl of the Congressional committee and was received with warmest and heartiest applause.

Realizing the brevity of his opportunity, Senator Beveridge at once "got down to the ground," as the senator expressed it, and warmed up to his subject in vigorous fashion.

The senator's speech was pithy, practical, pointed, forceful, devoid of the charm of his matchless and polished oratory so well known to the platform and press of America, but carrying home to the minds of his hearers the telling facts presented.

Covering the past seven years of Republican party history and marvelous accomplishment under President Roosevelt, enumerating a few of the laws passed and now being enforced,—the pure food act, railroad legislation, labor laws etc.—the senator repeated his question propounded to Hon. Wm. J. Bryan at Portland, Oregon, recently, namely, "Whether he, (Mr. Bryan) if elected president, would repeal any of these laws, or any material part of the same?" Senator Beveridge stated that Mr. Bryan had not as yet replied.

Senator Beveridge placed the Democratic U. S. senators in the position of being the most pronounced reactionar-

A three-inch connection water main was laid for the new temple-opera house building, yesterday afternoon, which made it necessary to shut off the water on Main avenue for a few hours. The connection was made from the hydrant line just above the building, corner of Main and 4th street.

The Nebraska Republican Convention of 1907, which gave its unqualified approval of the splendid work of the last Republican legislature, and which nominated that magnificent Nebraska jurist, M. B. Reese, for judge of the Supreme Court, was the first state convention in the United States to declare for William Howard Taft for President. It should be a matter of pride on the part of every Nebraska Republican to see to it that Nebraska approves this endorsement at the polls next November.
