He just came in to "try-on," because one of our ads caught his attention.

Does your suit fit like this?

SUPERSTITIONS.

They Find a Place in the Minds of Even Great Men.

A man more absolutely governed by pure reason than Lord Macaulay could not well be found. But in his diary he refers to an affair dinner talk about the feeling which Johnson had of thinking oneself bound to touch a particular rail or post and to tread in the middle of a paving stone, and he adds, "I certainly have this very strongly." In one of his Hibbert lectures Max Muller said to the students: "Many of you, I suspect, carry a half-penny with a hole in it for luck. I am not ashamed to own that I have done so myself for many years."

Charles Dickens refused to lie down unless his bed were placed due north and south. He gave notice of the rule before arriving at a friend's house or a hotel, but a compass was always handy in his baggage to make sure. Miss Justin McCarthy has told how Parnell gravely checked her stirring coffee "the wrong way" and insisted that she should take another cup. A gentleman of Portrush sent Lord Roberts an old horseshoe when things looked ill in South Africa. Gratefully acknowledging it, the general added that he would keep this horseshoe in company "with one I picked up the day I entered the Orange Free State and another I found at Paardeburg the day before General Cronje surrendered."—Pall Mall Gazette.

BLUE EYED BABIES.

They Are the Favorites For Adoption Out of Orphan Asylums.

"Every baby who expects to be adopted out of an orphan asylum ought to make it a point of being born with blue eyes," said an asylum director. "That precaution will insure him a maximum of home comforts with a minimum of endeavor. There is no doubt that in an institution of this kind blue eyed babies up for adoption are more popular than the dark eyed youngsters. The brown eyed, black eyed or gray eyed girl or boy may be just as pretty, just as amiable, just as likely to achieve future eminence as the blue eyed child, but it is hard to make benevolent auxiliaries of the stork believe so. In their opinion blue eyes indicate special virtues."

"I know he will turn out to be an honest, reliable little fellow because he has such heavenly blue eyes," is the way they explain their preference.

"So on the strength of these 'heavenly blue eyes' the baby is chosen. The youngster will no doubt do justice to his bringing up, but it is hard for the children with eyes of another color to be so discriminated against."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

As Smart as His Boy.

When Sir William Gilbert was twenty-seven and was known to the world as a promising writer, his father, who was a retired naval surgeon, wrote a semi-metaphysical, semi-medical book entitled "Shirley Hall Asylum," his first book.

Edith A. Brown, when preparing a biography of the younger man, having heard that the son was the incentive from without which spurred into action the inherent but dormant literary talent of the father, asked if such was the fact.

"Yes," replied the author of the "Bab Ballads" and the wittiest librettos ever written, "I think the little success which had attended by humble efforts certainly influenced my father."

"You see," he added, with a suspicion of a smile, "my father never had an exalted idea of my ability. He thought if I could write anybody could, and forthwith he began."

Antiquity of Death Masks.

Although there is no mention of death masks in the works of Homer or in any of the later classics, modern explorers have satisfied themselves that in the early burials of all nations it was the custom to cover the heads and bodies of the dead with sheets of gold so pliable that they took the impress of the form, and not infrequently, when in the course of centuries the embalmed flesh had shriveled or fallen away, the gold retained the exact cast of the features. Schliemann found a number of bodies "covered with large masks of gold plate in repousse work," several of which have been reproduced by means of engraving in his "Mycenae," and he asserts that there can be no doubt whatever that each one of these represents the likeness of the deceased person whose face it covered.

Dickens Characters.

All those elements that disgust Mr Pugh in Dickens, the clowning and caricature, the preposterous figures and the practical jokes, Mr. Pickwick getting into the wheelbarrow and Tony Weller hardly getting into his waistcoat—all this is simply the life and laughter of the actual English people. One has only to go down the Battersea park road on a Saturday night to hear it.—G. K. Chesterton in London News.

Couldn't Fool Johnny.

Widow Jones—How would my little Johnny like a new papa? Johnny (aged five)—Oh, you needn't shove the responsibility on to me, ma! It isn't a new papa for me, but a new husband for yourself, that you are thinking of.—Boston Transcript.

Our Helpful Maids.

Louise—I'm in an awful boat. After I started to bleach my hair I found I had only enough to do half of it, and Nelson is coming tonight. Julia—Never mind, dear. Let him sit on the perox-side.—Harper's Bazar.

A Booster.

The senior class of the high school proposes to get out a school annual this spring that will feature the leading interests of the school. We have a deservedly high standing as a school both at home and in the state at large. There are 27 nonresident pupils in the high school now. We draw already from long distances for these nonresident pupils. This proposed annual will emphasize the prominent phases of student life with half tone illustrations and short concise descriptions.

HALF TONES.

The book will have cuts of each of the school buildings, each grade of the school, faculty, high school band, glee clubs, athletic organizations, assembly hall with a number of cuts of general interest to the school and public. It will be possible to pick out the picture of every child in school.

DESCRIPTIVE MATTER.

A prominent place will be given to the Alumni association. If possible a complete directory of the graduates of the McCook High School will be given covering the complete history of the school.

The senior class will have a special department given to illustrations, jokes and materials descriptive of the things particularly interesting to seniors.

The board of education will occupy some space with statistics and information about the whole school system and policies.

All of the descriptive matter will cover from 55 to 60 page of matter.

COMMERCIAL CLUB.

There is now a movement on foot to enlist the interest of the Commercial club and include a number of half tone illustrations featuring items of general interest to the city of McCook, with appropriate descriptive matter.

RAILROAD.

Being largely a railroad town it is desired to include matter of particular interest to this phase of our little city.

MECHANICS OF THE ANNUAL.

The book will be about 6x9 inches and contain about 100 pages in all. Only the very best of paper and material will be used. The whole effort of the class will be to make a book representative of the best that can be produced in this line.

The price will be 25c which will be about 10c less than cost. There will be no advertising matter in it. How many copies do you want?

Send in your name to the office of the Superintendent with the number of copies you will want at 25c each book to be ready for distribution about May 20th. Boost for McCook and her schools.

A Religious Author's Statement.

Rev. Joseph H. Hesperman, Salisbury, N. C., who is the author of several books, writes: "For several years I was afflicted with kidney trouble and last winter I was suddenly stricken with a severe pain in my kidneys and was confined to bed eight days unable to get up without assistance. My urine contained a thick white sediment and I passed same frequently day and night. I commenced taking Foley's Kidney Remedy, and the pain gradually abated and finally ceased and my urine became normal. I cheerfully recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy." A. McMillen, Druggist.

THE HYMN WRITTEN BY GUY IRVING WALTZ

And Now Being Sung in the Revival Services Being Held in the M. E. Church Every Night.

Come Unto Me Ye Weary.

MINNIE RANKIN HOYT. GUY IRVING WALTZ

1. Has life for thee grown weary, Has all its bright-ness fled?
2. The thorns a-long life's path-way, May wound your tire-ed feet,
3. It may be sin that binds thee, Then cast it from thy heart,
4. Oh life, with sor-rows bur-dened, Oh heart with cares bowed down,

Do heav-y bur-dens crush thee? Think thou what Je-sus said!
Dark clouds may blind your vis-ion, Will lift the heart opp-ressed.
From all the joy of liv-ing, It holds thy life a-part,
Come to the cross and wor-ship, And peace shall be thy crown.

Oh lis-ten to his mes-sage, Ye sad, with cares opp-ressed,
But Je-sus' words of prom-ise, Will lift the heart opp-ressed.
Oh! come to him and serve him, He soothes the heart dis-tressed,
Oh! lis-ten to his prom-ise 'Twill calm thy troub-led breast.

"Come un-to me ye wea-ry, And I will give you rest,"

"Come un-to me ye wea-ry, And I will give you rest."
