

Just One-Half

the money you "blow in" foolishly, if invested in a bank account would soon put you on "easy street."

You owe yourself the protection a Savings Account will afford you.

If you are spending all you earn it is unfair to yourself and those who may be dependent on you.

You have noticed the manner in which small amounts expended count up in a month—a part of such expenditures saved will allow you to have an account at this bank.

Start with a dollar—have money in the bank.

McCook is the only "wet" spot in Red Willow.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN lides up with Governor Shallenberger in favoring the "Daylight Saloon" law. And it wasn't on "our or my platform," either.

THE Benkelman News-Chronicle has been sold by C. L. Ketter to Will C. Israel, who assumed charge of the paper, last week. Mr. Ketter has purchased a drugstore and will remain a Benkelman business man.

EXAMINER H. S. WIGGONS in a report to the Nebraska Insurance department states that both Workman and Woodman insurance rates must be advanced, or the margin between income and death claims will disappear within the next two or three years.

MAYOR "JIM" DAHLMAN of Omaha insists that Governor Shallenberger has killed Nebraska Democracy. Well, insofar as the party may be judged by "Jim" and his ilk, THE TRIBUNE is prepared for the solemn decision. Requiescat in pace. May it never see resurrection day.

THE Hastings Tribune is as proud over Hastings going "wet" as the little red wagon of its load of manure.

ARAPAHOE carried water bonds at the late election by a close margin of four votes majority. She also went "wet".

ALL of Phelps county, one of the best settled counties in Western Nebraska, is now "dry." It is also one of the most prosperous of the western counties.

CONGRESSMAN GEORGE W. NORRIS departed, Wednesday for Colon, on the ship Panama, to look over the canal zone, together with a number of other members of the house of representatives.

ABOUT three-score Nebraska state bankers met in Lincoln, close of last week, and decided to test the constitutionality of the Nebraska bank guaranty law in the courts. John L. Webster, who doubts the constitutionality of the law, has been engaged to prosecute the test to a decision.

THE TRIBUNE has been under the impression for years that Omaha's growing greatness has been due to the fact that that city is the distributing point for several rich and expanding states. That great manufacturing enterprises, the railroads, and numerous commercial interests have provided the rich red blood of business upon which prosperity has fed and developed in Omaha. Alas, 'twas a dream. That superb and magnificently developing business structure, according to the brewing and allied interests of that city, is based upon "booze," and restricting the hours of its sale, is choking the life out of that great community! In seriousness, of course, this claim is a gross libel on the manhood and intelligence and patriotism of better and greater Omaha, which stands to gain from this measure—though some interests will and should suffer.

THE Omaha Bee takes the following measure of the Douglas county delegation in the last legislature. And it "fits like the paper on the wall":

The Bee does not hesitate to say that, with not to exceed two exceptions, the Douglas county delegation in the late legislature could scarcely have been worse. Instead of making friends for Omaha and shaping legislation to benefit their constituents, their disgusting behavior and brazen subserviency to corporation masters antagonized and alienated the decent membership of the legislature ordinarily disposed to be fair.

Assuming that the roustabouts and tricksters constituting the Douglas delegation were truly representative of the people who sent them there, and that their flagrant misconduct was typical of Omaha as a whole, the lawmakers from the outside districts simply refused to give Omaha any consideration whatever or to place any dependence upon the Douglas county gang. Advocacy of a measure by the delegation from Omaha came to be equivalent to its condemnation either as a boodle job or a corporation scheme.

VIC WILSON's name is not writ high on the walls of Brewer Metz's hall, but rather in the hearts of many Nebraskans who love their state and seek to promote its sobriety.

GOVERNOR SHALLENBERGER's account of that Omaha interview does not harmonize with that of Brewer Metz. The governor's statement bears the trade mark of honor and reasonableness and is accepted at this office without discount.
