Try Preventics, At My Risk With Book on Colds.

Just to prove merit—to show you how quickly Preventics can and will check colds or the Grippe—I will mail you free on request these samples and my book. Simply address—Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. Preventics are thoroughly harmless little Candy Cold Cure tablets. No Quinine, no laxative, nothing sickening whatever. To check early Colds or Grippe with "Preventics" means sure defeat for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is surely safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterward. Preventics will however reach a deeply seated cold. But taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break or head off these early colds. That is surely better—that is why they are named "Preventics." Promptness however is all-important. Promptness in the use of Preventics may save half your usual sickness. Feverishness, night or day, with child or adult, suggests the need of Preventics. Write Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis., today for samples and booklet. Preventics are sold by

NEW BODIES FOR OLD.

The Point Toward Which Modern Surgery Is Tending.

The family physician of the near future can be pictured in the mind's eye making out a work sheet for the guidance of the surgeons to accompany a hypothetical patient to the hospital, which might read something like this: "Amputate rheumatic right leg and graft on a new one. "Cut out kidneys, which are developing Bright's disease, and transplant sound ones, preferably from a healthy young boy. "Reverse circulation of the blood in the thyroid gland to produce hyperaemia and thus reduce diseased condition. "Overhaul the intestines and patch where needed. The rest of him is hardly good enough to stand the expense of a new set. "Overhaul circulatory system replacing unserviceable veins and arteries with new ones. Put in a new heart only if absolutely necessary. "Cut out stomach. It is completely worn out and has a well developed cancer. Besides, he won't have much use for it hereafter, as it will take all his earnings for a long time to come to pay his hospital bill. "Cut out left lung. It is so far gone with tuberculosis that it is good for nothing and only endangers the rest. "Trim off fifty or sixty pounds of fat. With reduced stomach and lung capacity he can't carry so much ballast. "Make all minor repairs needed to keep him going for ten or twelve years more."

Nonsense, say you? Not a bit of it. Perhaps no one man could stand it to have quite all these things done to him at one time, but the surgeons could do their part, all right. They know they could, because they have already performed all these seemingly impossible feats and a great many more besides.

Unbelievers may find at the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research in New York some living circumstantial evidence in support of these staggering assertions. — Technical World Magazine.

Divorce in England Is Costly.
Divorce in England today is a luxury reserved for the rich and the moderately well to do. The poor man or woman who finds that the bonds of matrimony are too heavy to bear cannot be relieved of them. All the relief that is open to persons of this class is a police court separation, which does not carry with it the right of either party to marry again. It is estimated that the bare costs of a suit for divorce in England are $450 unless the suitor receives permission to sue "as a pauper," in which case the fees will amount to about $150. It is very difficult, however, to secure permission to sue "in forma pauperis" and the proceeding is almost unknown in the divorce court. The estimate of $450 is for residents of London. If the suitor resides in the country the expense will be much greater, for divorce suits are tried only in London, and the suitor must travel to London and bring all his witnesses there. Thus the average cost of divorce suits in England is $1,000.—Exchange.

Travel in Persia.
In great contrast to the extraordinary progress made in transportation in Africa is the backwardness of Persia, one of the oldest countries of the world. Its transportation facilities are much the same as they were in the days of Alexander the Great and Marco Polo. There are only six miles of railroad in the whole country, and often these are not under operation. There are only three or four good dirt roads, and almost all transportation is done by pack trains. Camels, horses, mules, donkeys and men are used as beasts of burden. The traveler can usually ride the post horses, but these are rather poor animals, and it is customary to buy or hire horses and pack animals. This costs a native about 20 cents a day, but no foreigner can hope to travel so cheaply. It would be prodigal, however, for any one to pay more than $5 a day for two servants, four or five animals and their feed.—Travel Magazine.

A Good Steak.
"A steak that has the fat marbled in is the best to eat," said Dr. P. F. Trowbridge, professor of agricultural chemistry in the Agricultural college of the University of Missouri, in a recent lecture. "Pale, pinkish steak is from 'baby beef' and is not nearly as palatable as more mature meat," said Dr. Trowbridge. "The juiciness of a steak varies inversely with the water in it." He explained that the "juicy" appearance of a steak that delights the epicure comes from the fat melted into the fibers and that the flavor comes from the amino acid nitrogen and the fat in the fibers.

Doom of the Ear.
The new Paquin gowns leave no room for improvement—nor anything else. Recent authorities on dress give it as their opinion that the ear will have to go. It is beginning to interfere with the movements of the Nazimova collar, which is steadily rising in the world. Several dressmakers have already recommended its painless removal. When it comes to a case of the ear versus the collar, why hesitate?—Life

HOPELESS CASE.

Energetic and assertive—
Say, she's nearly dead!
Exercises when she rises,
When she goes to bed.
Flexing, bending, never ending—
Must be sick of that—
All this labor for our neighbor
Just because she's fat.

Icy tubbings, Indian clubbings,
Dumbbells, too, she swings,
Swedish movement, no improvement,
She can swear to, brings,
Must be tiring, this perspiring,
Weaker than a cat
She is getting; still she's fretting
Just because she's fat.

Never quiet, has to diet,
Starves herself to death
With her banting; always panting,
Running out of breath.
She will shortly be more portly
Or I'll eat my hat.
Nothing to it! I'd not do it
Even were I fat.

—Chicago Daily News.

Or "Oscillation?"

Freddie—Are you fond of motoring?
Mamie—Oh, yes! And the constant "oscillation" doesn't bother me a bit!

Superior Way of Dying.
He was excessively fond of dancing; also he was very clumsy. Like a good many other people, he was fond of doing the thing he did worst.

She, too, was excessively fond of dancing, with the difference that she was the personification of grace. But now she was suffering. Already he had torn her hair with his ungovernable feet, and her dainty slippers bore the marks of his shoes. At last she could stand it no longer.

"Let us sit out the rest of this dance," she suggested. "I am tired."
He was reluctant. "I thought you said you could die waltzing?" he said.

"So I could," she replied, "but there are more pleasant ways of dying than being trampled to death."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Who's Who?
Little Johnny Bell saw a long bearded man and a bear coming down the street. He ran home, grabbed his mother's skirts and cried:

"Oh, mamma, mamma! Look what's coming down the street!"
"Be still," said his mother, for the man was now in front of the house. "It is only a man and a tame bear. They won't hurt you."

"But—but, mamma," said Johnny, "which is the bear?"—Woman's Home Companion.

Necessity Is the Mother, Etc.
We saunter into the workshop of our friend, the inventor, and find him puttering over a strange contrivance of wings and sails and propellers.

"Inventing an airship?" we ask quite unnecessarily.
"Yes," he replies without looking up. "Think it will fly?"

"It's got to. I've got to get out of this town some way, and my creditors are watching every road and railway station."—Chicago Post.

A Little Dialogue.
Alicia—Jack is so handsome.
Glady's—Yes?
Alicia—And so courteous.
Glady's—Yes?
Alicia—Always addresses me as "fair miss."
Glady's—That's force of habit.
Alicia—How so?
Glady's—He used to be conductor on a street car!—Bohemian Magazine.

Time Saving.
"Do you approve of chemicals and other foreign substances in food?"
"Certainly," answered the imaginative scientist. "I am now engaged in experiments by which a cure for dyspepsia can be introduced into every pie."—Washington Star.

Scorching Records.
Mrs. A.—Yes, it was a great sale. Why, the audience knocked down over a hundred places of rare china in an hour.
Mrs. Z.—Grecians! He almost equalled the record of our maid.—Detroit Tribune.

Too Tough.
The Lady—Banting again? Why, you didn't eat that piece of steak I gave you.
The Hebe—Lady, I didn't ask you for work. What I wanted was something to eat.—Cleveland Leader.

Still a Question.
"Did she marry for love?"
"That's what everybody is wondering. Her husband is charming in manner, wealthy, has no bad habits and moves in the best society."—Judge.

Likewise Many Boasters.
"Any man can boast that he is as regular as clockwork about business."
"Sure! Mine clockworks out of ten are more or less fast or slow and given to freakish spells."—Kansas City Times.

GOT THE WHOLE VOTE.

A Pledge That Was Freely Given and That Was Easily Kept.

It is related of a certain candidate for office in a certain Kansas campaign that he billed himself for a speech in a southern Kansas town on a certain October day and wrote ahead to a number of friends there to give him "tips."

One of them told him to see a certain colored man upon his arrival in the town. "If you can get the vote of this negro," wrote the friend, "you can get the vote of the whole negro population in this town. Don't fail to see him and get him to your way of thinking."

About the first thing the candidate did after registering at the hotel was to look up this negro. It was only a little while after the introduction that he was calling the negro by his given name, filling his pockets with cigars, passing him compliments and generally "giving him the taffy." The negro took it all and enjoyed the occasion immensely. The candidate spent several hours in the negro's company and after he thought the proper degree of warmth had been obtained bronched the real object of his friendship:

"Say, John, I want the negro vote of this town."
"All right," replied John. "I'll vote for you, sah. I'll vote for you. I'm for you, sah."

"That's all right," said the candidate. "That's all right. I'm sure you will. I'm sure you will. But I want to have the whole negro vote of this town. I want to get all."

"Dat's all right," responded the negro. "I done said I'd vote for you. I'm yo' friend. I'll suttinly cast my vote for you."

"But, say, John, I know that," said the candidate. "See here, I'll be frank. The fellows told me that you are a big man among the colored folks down here and that if I got your vote I'd get the whole negro vote in this place. Do you catch on?"

"Sho," replied John. "Sho I do. You'll git de whole niggah vote, all right. Dey won't be trouble bout dat, sah. You see, I'm de only niggah in dis here whole town."—Mobile Register.

FEATS OF STRENGTH.

A Blacksmith Who Fairly Outdid Augustus the Strong.
Not all the world's strong men have been performers on the public stage. Indeed, instances might be multiplied in which the feats of professionals have been equaled or excelled.

Charles Louvier, a carpenter of Paris found it child's play to roll a tin basin between his fingers into a cylinder. On one occasion he carried off a soldier on guard who had gone to sleep in the sentry box and deposited both the box and the soldier on a low churchyard wall near by.

Another man who sometimes found his great strength a source of amusement was a Danish locksmith, Knut Knudson. While standing in a window on the ground floor he lifted with one hand half a bullock from the shoulder of a butcher who was toiling past with his load.

Augustus the Strong, the elector of Saxony, once entered a blacksmith's shop to have his horse shod. To show his suit how strong he was he picked up several horseshoes and broke one after the other, asking the blacksmith as he did so if he had no better. When it came to paying the bill the elector threw a silver piece on the anvil. It was a very thick coin. The blacksmith took it up and broke it in half, saying:

"Pardon me, but I have given you a good horseshoe, and I expect a good coin in return." Another piece was offered him. He broke that and five or six others. Then the humiliated elector handed him a louis d'or, saying, "The others were probably made of bad metal, but this gold piece is good. I hope."

An Italian, Luigi Bertini of Milan, performed a similar feat. Besides horseshoes, he broke nails a finger thick.

The Duke of Grammont, the minister of Napoleon III, frequently astonished the women at court by bending a twenty franc piece in his hand.—New York Tribune.

Early Italian Surgery.
Benvenuto Cellini (1500-1571) tells of early Italian surgery. He had got a bit of chipped steel in his eye, "so far into the pupil that it was impossible to get it out, so that I was in very great danger of losing that eye. But the surgeon came to the rescue with the pigeons. The surgeon, making me lie upon my back, with a little knife opened a vein in each of my wings, so that the blood ran into my eye, and I was thereby greatly relieved. In the space of two days the bit of steel issued from my eye, and I found that I had received considerable ease and in a great measure recovered my sight."

Live and Learn.
Among the words given out for analysis recently by a district school teacher in Pennsylvania was "bank-note." The instructor's astonishment may be imagined when one male pupil turned in the following unique paper:

"Bank-note is a compound, primitive word, composed of 'bank' and 'note.' 'Bank' is a simple word, meaning the side of a stream; 'note,' to set down. 'Bank-note,' to set down by the side of a stream."—Lippincott's.

A Gambler.
Tommy—Pop, how would you define a gambler?
Tommy's Pop—Well, my son, a man's wife thinks he is a gambler if he loses, and his friends think he is a gambler if he wins.—Philadelphia Record.
