Preventics are thoroughly harmless little Candy Cold Cure tablets. No Quinine, no laxative, nothing sickening whatever. To check early Colds or Grippe with "Preventics" means sure defeat for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is surely safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterward. Preventics will however reach a deeply seated cold. But taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break or head off these early colds. That is surely better—that is why they are named "Preventics." Promptness in the use of Preventics may save half your usual sickness. Feverishness, night or day, with child or adult, suggests the need of Preventics. Write Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis., today for samples and booklet. Preventics are sold by

LIFE IN MEXICO.

Where They Bar the Windows and Leave the Doors Open.

The City of Mexico swarms with life, yet it is still life. It is the hour of the siesta when you arrive and the streets are deserted of moving things, though every darkened doorway possesses its own colony of slumberers who have cast themselves down where they stood to sleep away the heat laden hours when no man works. Even the very dogs slink into the shadow of the dazzling walls and lol pitifully. The tinkle of mule bells is hushed. The cry of the muleteer sounds no longer. To walk through these streets with imperious foot, after the British fashion, seems sacrilege. One might be walking through a city of the dead.

But the hot hours pass, the city awakens, the mules strain and plunge at the collar, the dogs prowl about between the legs of those who pass, the shops are opened, the scent of garlic saturated cookery rises strongly, mantilla shrouded faces peep from ancient casemates protected by massive iron bars, and the city of sleep becomes a city of leisurely wakefulness. You notice these barred casemates particularly. They are a feature of Mexico. Household bars the windows and leave the doors unfastened, and here you have an epitome of Mexican character: Do nothing openly, everything on the sly, even to wooing your lady-love.

You might spend a long lifetime in the City of Mexico and still leave much unseen, there are so many features to note—the actual city life, the life beyond those jealously guarded windows, the life lived in the flower scented patios where cooling fountains play with musical softness. Here comes a vaquero riding nonchalantly up the street, a typical product of Mexico, a cattle hand from one of the outlying ranches, a perfect fury unchained when the liquor of the country is in him, a gentle, dreamy child when the liquor has evaporated, and yet between the two events he might have committed a dozen murders without the slightest compunction. His swarthy face is alight with merry laughter. His earrings sparkle in the declining sun. The gay trappings of his magnificent horse fling back dazzling specks of color. In his charajos those fringed overalls which protect the speckless white riding breeches from the dust of the way, his bell buttoned jacket, his sombrero, with the haft of a machete protruding from his crimson sash, he might be a hero of old legend instead of a commonplace cowboy.—Frank H. Shaw in Chambers' Journal.

Why Men Wear Trousers.

No living man of this age ever deliberately chose to "adopt trousers." He was forced into them and all other eccentricities of dress by woman. In the very earliest sartorial experience of every man he is swathed in a queer bundle of incoherent bandages by a woman. Later she puts him into cute little dresses so that the neighbors can't tell him from his little sister. Still later she cuts off his curls and puts him into knickerbockers, and he puts on "long pants" when she gives the word and not before. That is all that man has to do or ever had to do with wearing trousers. Woman forced him into them in the first place, and now he is afraid to wear anything else for fear of making a sensation.—Providence Journal.

Virginia Cabbage.

Select a small, fine pointed head of cabbage, cutting off the top for a lid. Cut out the center, leaving a wall an inch thick. Chop one cupful of cabbage very fine, then add one cupful each of ground ham and veal, one grated onion and finely chopped green pepper, six rolled crackers, two beaten eggs, one cupful of milk, two table-spoonfuls of melted butter, one-half teaspoonful each of celery salt and salt, one saltspoonful of white pepper and two dashes of cayenne. Mix thoroughly, fill cabbage, tie on the lid, put in a cheesecloth bag and boil in salted water for one hour. Slice crosswise and serve with cream sauce. Delicious. Serve the potato croquettes on the same platter.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Fatherly Advice.

"Dad," said the country youth who had just graduated from the district school, "I have long cherished a desire to go on the stage and have at last decided, with your permission, to—"
"My boy," interrupted the old stranger, "all the world's a stage. You hitch the mules to the big red plow and transfer the outfit to the ten acre lot behind the barn, where you can enact the star role in that beautiful drama entitled 'Down on the Farm.'"—Chicago News.

Courtsip in the North.

The old Eskimo lit a cup of walrus oil and peered over the sealskin curtain.
"Auroa," he called, sharply, "is that young man down there yet?"
"Yes, pa," answered the Eskimo belle.
"Well, I want you to cut him out, understand?"
"Er—you'll have to do it yourself, pa. He has been here so long he is frozen to the snow settee."—Success Magazine.

Qualified.
The great magazine editor sneered. "What right have you," he asked, "to think you'll ever make a poet?"
"Well, sir," the youth said timidly, "I've been 'astng man in a sidshow for the last two seasons."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

No man is wise at all times.—Pliny the Elder.

MRS. H. H. ROGERS.

The Widow of the Vice President of the Standard Oil Company.

The widow of the late H. H. Rogers, who under the terms of his will inherits a large share of his vast estate, was Mrs. L. R. Hunt. The great old man was married first, in early manhood, to a Massachusetts girl, who became the mother of his four children, a son and three daughters, all now married. The first Mrs. Rogers died in 1893. Three years later Mr. Rogers led Mrs. Hunt to the altar. She is a well preserved woman approaching middle age and is much interested in carrying out the ideas of her late husband in respect to benefiting the people of his boyhood home in the Old Bay State, Fairhaven. Mrs. Rogers was at her husband's bedside when death came.

JAMES S. CASSIDY.

Congressman Who Takes Former Seat of Theodore E. Burton in House.

Congressman James S. Cassidy of Cleveland, who succeeds to the seat in the house of representatives vacated by Theodore E. Burton when he was promoted to the senate, is one of the younger members of the house. He was formerly secretary to Senator Burton and is well posted on many of the matters to which Senator Foraker's successor has given so much study.

JAMES S. CASSIDY.

Although as a new member of the house Mr. Cassidy is not supposed to take much part in legislative doings, the fact that he holds the seat occupied for so long by a man of Mr. Burton's prominence and ability gives him a certain amount of prestige that a new member would not ordinarily enjoy. He was born in Cleveland thirty-eight years ago, graduated from the Central High school of Cleveland and is a lawyer.

A QUEER STREET CAR.

How Methods of Transit Were Improved During Philadelphia Strike.
The big street car strike in Philadelphia caused improvised cars and coaches of every description to be brought into requisition, and many a owner of a wagon not ordinarily used for conveying passengers turned a few honest dollars by taking advantage of the unusual situation. Oftentimes the scenes were amusing as some portly and dignified person in search of a ride on an improvised coach climbed to a high perch by means of a box or chair. Though such experiences were not always pleasant to the people who furnished the amusement, in general the exigencies of such transportation were taken good naturedly.
