A Correction.

We desire to correct the statement made in last week's paper concerning the 4th of July celebration at Marion.

There was a good crowd present—extra good considering that towns on either side of us celebrated—some coming from a distance of twenty miles. Splendid order was maintained throughout the day. A good stand was on the ground. Ice water was furnished free to all, hay was furnished for all horses, free; and temporary tables erected for the convenience of the crowd.

The ball game in the afternoon was free. The program was well rendered. The Woman's Christian Temperance Union furnished the music. "The Declaration of Independence" was read and several other patriot selections given, after which every one joined in singing America. Clyde Wright gave the oration of the day. It was free from politics and has been highly spoken of by our most intelligent citizens. At four p. m. Mr. Wright gave a lecture on Socialism. He had a good audience and held them throughout his address. The only thing to be regretted is that the knockers, who have not advanced in ideas since the days of their grandfathers, couldn't have heard Mr. Wright. He was a gentleman in every sense of the word and a "thinker turned loose." It seems silly put that those who oppose free speech should talk of Independence Day. As to the "poor judgment" of the committee, there are some men in our burg and community, who are intelligent and conservative and willing to let each person think and act according to the dictates of his own conscience. Our celebration was not a grafting scheme, it was a clean, orderly, patriotic picnic. Any person on the ground was entitled to shade, ice water, hay for his team and admittance to the ball game free of charge.

Don't be a knocker. By order of the 4th of July committee, Marion, Nebraska.

AMERICAN WOMEN AND THEIR RESPONSIBILITY.

Dr. Aked, the noted English preacher now in New York, who has delighted Epworth Assembly audiences, in his address before a large mass meeting in that city, said: "We Englishmen have been taught to regard American women as the picked women of the world. It seems strange to find such women disfranchised, left far behind by less favored women of less progressive countries and curiously indifferent to the fact. The scepter is passing away from you, women of America, and other women are to do the world's work to which you were originally called. Countries which you have laughed at as old fogy are making their women citizens and you do not seem to care. You have been the freest, the most favored, the best educated of womankind, but you cannot rule by virtue of the past. It cost the women of Massachusetts fifty five years of agitation to secure the law making mothers equal guardians with the fathers of their children. The women of Colorado placed that law on their statute books one year after their enfranchisement. Only thirteen states have made mothers equal guardians with the fathers of their own children. Five million women in this country are working for wages and not one has a voice in making the laws which vitally affect her condition of life and employment.

"The government of many of our cities is a byword on the face of the earth. Our politics need some new breath of interest, of conscientiousness and patriotism. Why do I expect women to be less corrupt and less corruptible than men? Because they are less ignorant, less drunken and less criminal. The drunkenness of American women is notoriously insignificant compared to that of American men. Only 5 1/2 per cent of our criminals are women. We are told that the home is woman's sphere, and I acknowledge it. What must it mean for a mother who is herself a citizen, trained and intelligent in the duties of citizenship, to train those young minds?"

An immense petition for equal suffrage will be presented to Congress at this session. Dr. M. Carey Thomas, president of Bryn Mawr college, and Miss Mary Garrett, the philanthropist, were the first to sign this petition.

Nebraska women have been doing a good part to lengthen this petition, and so they will work and pray until the day comes when women's hands shall be unshackled for the performance of her whole duty in the protection of the home and her obligation to society.

FOR BOWEL COMPLAINTS.
