TEMPERANCE COLUMN
Conducted by the McCook W. C. T. U.

That commercial travelers do not consider licenses an aid to business prosperity, is evidenced by the fact that sixty-two traveling salesmen of the city of Rockford, Ill., signed a petition for no licenses.

DORS PROHIBIT.

The United States internal revenue collections at Nashville, during the month of February, should be somewhat illuminating to those who claim that more intoxicants are consumed under prohibitory statutes than under the license system. The statistics given out by the collector indicate that exactly the opposite is true. Beer stamp collections by the Federal government at its Nashville office during February, 1910, were less by thirty one per cent than those for February, 1909, before state-wide prohibition had gone into effect. The figures were $15,270 for February, 1909, against $11,615 for 1910. The spirit stamps revenue fell off forty-seven per cent. In 1909 the collections were $117,185 61, in 1910 they were $79,200. These figures are pretty good evidence that prohibition does prohibit.—Knoxville, Tenn., Sentinel.

The Sound Sleep of Good Health.

The restorative power of sound sleep can not be over estimated and any ailment that prevents it is a menace to health. J. L. Southers, Eau Claire, Wis., says: "For a long time I have been unable to sleep soundly nights because of pains across my back and soreness of my kidneys. My appetite was very poor and my general condition was much run down. I have been taking Foley's Kidney Pills but a short time and now sleep as sound as a rock. I eat and enjoy my meals and my general condition is greatly improved. I can honestly recommend Foley's Kidney Pills as I know they have cured me."

A Dr. Johnson Story.

Dr. Johnson had some ideas on education, especially on that diversion known as "learning a piece by heart." One day Mrs. Gastrel set a little girl to repeat to him Cato's soliloquy, which she went through very correctly. The doctor, after a pause, asked the child, "What was to bring Cato to an end?" She said it was a knife. "No, my dear, it was not so." "My Aunt Polly said it was a knife." "Why, Aunt Polly's knife may do, but it was a dagger, my dear." He then asked her the meaning of "bane" and "antidote," which she was unable to give. Mrs. Gastrel said, "You cannot expect so young a child to know the meaning of such words." He then said, "My dear, how many pence are there in sixpence?" "I cannot tell, sir," was the half terrified reply. On this, addressing himself to Mrs. Gastrel, he said, "Now, my dear lady, can anything be more ridiculous than to teach a child Cato's soliloquy who does not know how many pence there are in sixpence?"

Pepps and the Comet.

They were watching a comet in Pepps' day, though Halley at the time was but eight years old. "My Lord Sandwich this day," says the diarist, Dec. 21, 1664, "writes me word that he hath seen at Portsmouth the comet and says it is the most extraordinary thing he ever saw." Again on the 24th: "Having sat up all night till past 2 o'clock this morning, our porter being appointed, comes and tells us that the bellman tells him that the star is seen upon Tower hill; so I, that had been all night setting in order of my old papers in my chamber, did now leave off all and my boy and I to the Tower hill, it being a most fine, bright, moonshine night and a great frost, but no comet to be seen." Later the same day, however, Pepps "saw the comet," which now, whether worn away or no, I know not, appears not with a tail, but only is larger and duller than any other star."

ROPING RHINOS

Exploits of "Buffalo" Jones With Lasso and Firecrackers.

EXPECTS TO TACKLE LIONS.

Leopards, Giraffes and Other Beasts Also Bagged by Famous Old Time Cowboy—Uses Lassos Made to Hold Up a Weight of Two Tons—To Bring Back Live Trophies.

"Buffalo" Jones (C. J. Jones), old time cowboy and still youthful at sixty-five, has gone Colonel Theodore Roosevelt one better in the African jungle. While the former president, who delights to be called "a great faunal naturalist," has been slaying wild beasts, "Buffalo" Jones has been roping the critters in true wild western style, and he will bring the animals alive to the United States.

Here is a cablegram dated Nairobi, Africa, which was received the other day from Jones by F. T. Bird, a lawyer of New York city:

Have roped and tied rhinos, giraffes, leopards, cheetahs and a variety of other wild animals. One immense rhino bull made trouble. He charged all of our party close to a hundred times and smashed the tripod of the photographer's camera. The operator escaped, and all his plates were unharmed. We are going after lions and African buffaloes next. Men, horses and dogs are in splendid condition.

Hunting Lions With Firecrackers.

There can be no doubt that "Buffalo" Jones has been "going some." When he first announced to the world that he intended to get into the jungle with some good strong rope and some trustworthy firecrackers and gather in some wild animals many persons laughed at him.

"Whoever heard of hunting lions with firecrackers?" asked one of his friends in derision.

"Nobody as yet," Jones replied. "But if a lion gets into a thicket where we can't get at him I guess a firecracker or two will make him think it's a mighty unhealthy locality, and he'll change his base of operations mighty fast."

Just before he left the United States Jones was a guest of the Campfire club of New York at a banquet given in his honor. The next day he slipped quietly aboard his steamer. It was not until he reached London in the middle of February that the mission of Jones was entirely known.

To a London newspaper man who interviewed him about roping lions he said:

"Well, the African lion is a difficult problem. It's got to be solved. I'll catch him, all right, but what will happen after that I don't pretend to know, being a hunter and not a prophet. I am taking my branding irons, and the lions I don't want I'll brand and turn loose to fight another day."

"I shall try the rhinoceros, and the buffalo, too, if I can get him out of the bush. My lassos are of Russian hemp, hard twisted so that they will go through the air with the least possible resistance. Though no thicker than a little finger, my lasso will hold up a weight of two tons. When I have made a capture I tie it with a rope through which runs a steel wire. "I believe in giving these wild things a fair sporting chance, and I'll make good or know the reason why. Other men may bring trophies of the hunt in the form of skins and skeletons, but yours truly will bring the real live article back to the United States of America or miss his guess entirely."

Personnel of the Hunting Party.

One of the most interesting features of the trip of the "Buffalo" Jones party to Africa is the personnel of the party itself. Besides Jones himself, the party is made up of four men. Arthur A. Fowler, the manager of the party, is a member of a firm of iron merchants. He is a great sportsman and had arranged for a trip to Africa and was prevailed upon to take the management of the "Buffalo" Jones party. He accepted on condition that he pay all his own expenses, but was to have a full share of the sport. Mr. Fowler has a country house at Peapack, N. J., where he hunts regularly with the Essex hounds.

Guy H. Scull is a Harvard man who has been a newspaper correspondent in two wars—in Manchuria and South Africa—and he also led the party of Harvard men who went to the Bahamas on the Mayflower a little more than a year ago in search of hidden treasure. The other members of the party are Marshall D. Loveless of Roswell, N. M., and Ambrose I. Means of southern New Mexico. Both are expert cow punchers.

Naturally the most interesting personality in the party is "Buffalo" Jones himself, because he is the last of the great plainsmen in active life. To be sure, Buffalo Bill and Pawnee Bill are still alive, but they no longer trail big game over the prairies as a means of livelihood. This Jones does. For years Jones was government game warden of Yellowstone park, and while there he made numerous captures of full grown mountain lions by roping them. Also his feat of manuring the grizzly bears of the park made him known all over the country. One of the exciting incidents of his career was the whipping of the bad bears of the Yellowstone park "to put the fear of man into their hearts."

EUGENE N. FOSS.

New Massachusetts Congressman Won His Seat on National Issues.

The election to congress recently of Eugene N. Foss, Democrat, of Massachusetts to succeed the late William C. Lovering is considered of more than state wide importance, as he stumped his district, the Fourteenth, on national questions and easily won out. Where the towns in that district returned Republican majorities only a few months ago there was a complete change in this election. Foss' plurality over his Republican opponent, William R. Buchanan, being 5,610. This is the first time that district has ever before elected a Democrat to congress.

The new congressman is a prominent and wealthy manufacturer, banker and capitalist of Boston. He is a brother of Representative George Edmund Foss of Illinois, chairman of the house committee on naval affairs and a staunch supporter of the Cannon machine. The brothers came originally from Vermont. Both left home early in life and went into business for themselves, Eugene in Massachusetts and George in Illinois. The former had always been a Republican, but left that party on the tariff and other issues.

Mr. Foss is one of the leading advocates of reciprocity with Canada and is a tariff reformer pure and simple. He withdrew from the Republican party because he believed that raw materials should be on the free list, and he has since worked and voted with the Democrats in the cause of tariff reform.

NEW AFRICAN STYLES.

CANADA WANTS THE FARMERS.

Holds Out No Welcome to Other Immigrants.

MANY AMERICANS GOING THERE

Made Large Share of Homestead Entries in the Last Eight Years—Total Number Admitted From All Sources 1,244,597—Population Increased More Than One-fourth.

Canada has been much in the public eye of late owing to the settlement of the threatened tariff war, and nation wide interest is being taken in that country and its affairs. Each year many Americans seek homes there, and that the number is growing annually is shown in the report just transmitted to congress by Senator Dillingham, chairman of the immigration commission.

Of the homestead entries in western Canada from 1900 to 1909, 66 per cent were by immigrants, and 44.91 per cent of these were by newcomers from the United States.

W. W. Husband, one of the secretaries of the commission, prepared this report, which bears solely on the immigration situation in Canada. Especial attention is given Canada's policy of stimulating immigration of the kind desired and discouraging the classes deemed undesirable. Official statements are quoted to show that Canada wants immigrants whose purpose it is to enter agricultural pursuits either as owners, tenants or laborers and that it is the purpose of the government to exclude immigrants whose presence in Canada would tend to add to the congestion of towns and cities.

In pursuing this policy organized effort is made to secure immigrants from countries which furnish the classes or races desired. The countries favored by Canada in this regard are the United Kingdom, France, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Denmark, Iceland, Finland, Norway, Sweden and Switzerland and, of course, the United States. No effort is made to get immigrants from southern and eastern Europe, and unless it is the purpose of such immigrants to enter agricultural pursuits their admission to Canada is doubtful.

Under Official Direction.

In the United States the Canadian propaganda is carried on under the general direction of an official designated as inspector of agencies and press agent, and salaried agents are stationed in Detroit, Marquette, Mich.; Spokane, Kansas City, Mo.; Milwaukee, Watertown, S. D.; St. Paul, Omaha, Grand Forks, N. D.; Toledo, Chicago, Great Falls, Mont.; Indianapolis, Boston, Syracuse and Pittsburg. About 200 subagents are employed in various parts of the United States. To these is paid a bonus of $3 a man, $2 a woman and $1 a child on bona fide settlers induced by them to settle in western Canada. During the years 1901 to 1908, inclusive, 333,908 emigrants from the United States were admitted to Canada.

During the thirty-three months ending March 31, 1909, the number of emigrants from the United States to Canada was 153,119. The states furnishing the bulk of this emigration were as follows:

- Illinois, 8,123; Iowa, 5,163; Massachusetts, 3,432; Michigan, 5,547; Minnesota, 2,232; Nebraska, 2,822; New York, 5,343; North Dakota, 29,595; Oregon, 2,257; Pennsylvania, 2,236; South Dakota, 3,587; Washington, 15,705; and Wisconsin, 5,416.

Concerning emigration from the United States to Canada the report says:

Probably no other considerable movement of population from one country to another at the present time is so largely composed of agricultural people as the emigration from the United States to Canada. * * * 129,450, or more than 75 per cent of the total number, going to Canada in 1907, 1908 and 1909 were classed as farmers or farm laborers, which includes also accompanying members of families, while less than 23 per cent of all other emigrants to Canada during the same period were of those classes.

There is at the present time a large emigration from Canada to the United States of persons who intend taking up a permanent residence there.

1,244,597 Persons Admitted.

The total emigration to Canada from all sources from 1900 to 1909 was 1,244,597, or a number equal to 26.1 per cent of the total population of the Dominion in 1901. The races of nationalities furnishing the largest numbers of emigrants to Canada during that period were:

- United States, 333,908; English and Welsh, 37,801; Scotch, 34,273; Gallician, 62,500; Italian, 48,349; Jewish, 40,347; Irish, 39,181; Russian, 28,106; German, 17,973; Swedish, 14,119; French, 12,468; Japanese, 12,429; Bukowinian, 10,433; Finnish, 9,904.

While Canada has been successful in encouraging immigration along desired lines, she has been equally successful in pursuing a rigid exclusion policy with reference to those classes of immigrants who were not desired.

The law is peculiarly elastic in that it permits the governor in council, whenever he considers it necessary or expedient, to prohibit the landing in Canada of any specified class of emigrants who have gone to Canada otherwise than by continuous journey from the country of which they are natives or citizens.

In dealing with oriental immigration Canada has recognized the necessity of a policy which practically excludes Asiatic laborers.
