The Superior commercial club pledges $1,000 to the good roads movement, offering prizes to farmers for efforts to improve the highways.

Postmaster Ed Allen of Arapahoe has resigned and will soon move to Seattle, Wash., to live. His successor is expected to be announced soon. Miss Madge Disbrow, R. J. Finch and D. S. Hasty are applicants.

C. H. Aldrich of David City announces his opposition to the initiative and referendum in unqualified terms, basing his opposition to the measure because perforce some Democrats favor it. The Tribune needs no better evidence of Mr. Aldrich's disqualification for the high office of governor.

The Holdrege commercial club will on May 20 give a banquet in honor of the Nebraska railway commissioners and in celebration of the promise of their fine depot to be. The fly in their unctious ointment is the designation of General Manager Holdrege and of Division Super't Koller to attend the liebus mohl.

Resistance to an officer of the law cannot be justified by objection to the nationality of the officer. Whether an officer be of German, Irish, Russian or other blood is but an incident. The law is American. The Tribune sees more than one indication in this city that the people need to see to it that the law is enforced. Mark this prophecy.

The Central Granaries Co. has indicated to the people of Holdrege that they would not rebuild the elevator destroyed by fire at that point, a few weeks since, until crop prospects became a reality. Unless crops are abundant no elevator will be built this season. In any event, it is not probable that the plant will be on the mammoth scale of the one burned, which was one of the largest in the state.

"The people of Nebraska are just now deeply interested in the initiative and referendum, and they find that here as in other cases, the great reform is bitterly opposed by the representatives of special interests. In Nebraska it is opposed by the liquor interests whose representatives helped to defeat it at the last session of the Nebraska legislature. They are equally active in opposing it at this time. The initiative and referendum is in brief a method of bringing about direct legislation. It means the bringing of the government nearer to the people—the making of the government more responsive to the will of the people. The initiative, as its name implies, describes the governmental process by which the voters compel the submission of a question upon which they desire to vote; while the referendum, true to its name, describes the machinery by which a measure is referred to the people for their decision. The initiative and referendum do not overthrow representative government, they merely bring the representative under the control of his constituents."—W. J. Bryan.

There is no such thing as a necessary evil—but many things are necessarily evil.

The supreme court of the United States on Monday fixed November 14th as the date for rehearing of the tobacco and Standard Oil cases.

The Odelsting of Norway has voted by a large majority to extend to women over twenty-five years old the franchise in cities.

The Maine is to be raised from its watery grave in Havana harbor. All perhaps Spain and other foreign representatives will be allowed a "look-in."

No man is fit to govern great societies who hesitates about disobliging the few who have access to him for the sake of the many whom he will never see.—Lord Macaulay.

There is an unmistakable odor of peanuts about the politics or partisanship which opposes an undeniably good and just measure because some voters of another political faith favor it.

To be good, one must believe at least a little in the good; or one must believe, not precisely that the world is good, but that it is made to become good.—Jules Lemaitre.

The conviction of Dr. B. Clark Hyde of Kansas City for the murder of his wife's uncle Colonel Thomas H. Swope of that city closes one of the remarkable murder trials of this western country. The jury, after remaining out so long that hope was abandoned that they would ever agree, finally brought in a verdict of guilty and placed the sentence at life imprisonment. The case will be appealed to the supreme court.

Washington dispatches under date of the 5th inst., contain the following interesting information to the people of McCook: "Senator Burkett today introduced the following bills: For erection of public building at McCook, $125,000; for purchase of site for public building at Wymore, $10,000; for purchase of site and erection of public building at Alliance, $135,000; for purchase of site and erection of public building at Broken Bow, $135,000."

Congressman George W. Norris has done the sensible thing again. He has decided that he will run for congress again in the fifth district where all the folks know him and where the sledding will be easy this time. Nebraska isn't as large as some states, but it would take a lot of time and some money to travel over it and make a campaign that would come anywhere near unseating Senator Burkett. Mr. Norris could not run for congressman and senator at the same time. It would be unfortunate for the state to lose him from the lower house anyway. Norris and Sloan will make a pair worth drawing to.—Geneva Signal.

The Tribune is in harmony with the genius of this government, that the people shall rule. Of course, if this rule is brought about by the intelligent and thoughtful expression of a free and honest people, unselfishly and unbiased and without dictation, so much the better. Nevertheless, and at all events, the people must or ought to rule. This suggests that the newspaper, and especially the weekly local paper, is in a sense the palladium of the people, wherein within reasonable restrictions and limitations they may express themselves on subjects pertinent to their affairs—city, county, state, federal or whatnot. So, the publisher makes the announcement that these columns are open to the public in this regard. It is required that these communications shall be brief and to the point, couched in respectful and moderate language, and that they shall appear over the writer's name.
