

A Chicago Preacher Coming to CHAUTAUQUA

When a pastor of Plymouth church, Dr. Hopkins asserted that society women were becoming habitual drinkers in the restaurants and that social vice was fostered in the shadow of city churches, it created a furore that threatened to drive the fearless preacher from his pulpit. But he proved it to the people and the press and the greatest crusade of a generation was begun in Chicago. Hopkins is a popular lecturer and will please you at

BACK GIVES OUT.

Plenty of McCook Readers Have This Experience.

You tax the kidneys—overwork them. They can't keep up the continual strain. The back gives out—it aches and pains.

Urinary troubles set in. Don't wait longer—take Doan's Kidney Pills.

L. H. Saybold, living S. E. Cor. of Third St., and Railroad St., Kearney, Neb., says: "I can heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all sufferers of kidney complaints. This remedy acted strictly up to the representations in my case, and proved to be a kidney cure in every sense of the word. My work obliges me to do a great deal of stooping and lifting and also exposes me to inclement weather. These combined conditions probably caused my kidneys to become disordered and backache was the result. Though I did not take Doan's Kidney Pills as regularly as I should have done, they nevertheless benefited me greatly and I willingly give them my endorsement."

Plenty more proof like this from McCook people. Call at McConnell's drug store and ask what customers report.

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

PINCH THAT MADE A PRESIDENT

Senator Platt's Own Story of Himself and Roosevelt.

SECRETS OF 1900 REVEALED.

Declared in Autobiography That Odd Incident Led to the Presidency—"Instead of Shelving the Governor," He Wrote, "I Plead Guilty to Kicking Him Upstairs."

If Frank H. Platt, son of the late United States Senator Thomas C. Platt, had not pinched Theodore Roosevelt on the leg just at the critical moment in a conference of the New York delegation at the Republican national convention in Philadelphia in 1900 Mr. Roosevelt, then governor of New York, would not have been president of the United States, succeeding Mr. McKinley.

"Instead of 'shelving' Roosevelt I must plead guilty to the charge of 'kicking him upstairs.' I believe Roosevelt himself would convict me of this."

So wrote Senator Platt in his autobiography, of which part is published in the June number of McClure's Magazine. The senator, the Republican boss of New York state, dealt with two nominations of Theodore Roosevelt—that for governor of New York state and that for vice president in the Republican national convention of 1900 in Philadelphia. Senator Platt sought to answer the critics who had asserted that in nominating Mr. Roosevelt for vice president Platt sought to send him to the political mortuary chamber in which vice presidents have reposed.

What a Pinch Did.

Senator Platt wrote: "A pinch may be said to have made Roosevelt president, for had he executed the threat of declining (the nomination for vice president) and had it been accepted he would never have reached the White House."

Again: "I may be pardoned if I remind my readers that but for my insistence upon his nomination for the vice presidency Roosevelt certainly would not have succeeded McKinley in 1901, and perhaps he never would have been president of the United States."

As to that "pinch," Senator Platt thus described what happened in Philadelphia before the convention:

Excited at Plan.

"Governor Roosevelt was in his room, protesting to everybody that he would, if nominated for vice president, arise in the convention and unequivocally decline. I heard about this and asked my son Frank to go to him and say that he would be nominated, that he could not stop that, and I wanted his promise that if he were made McKinley's associate he would run. Roosevelt and my son soon came to my rooms. The governor was in a state of rare excitement even for him.

"I shall go to the New York caucus and tell the delegates that I shall, if nominated for vice president, arise in the convention and decline. I can serve you, Senator Platt, far better as governor than as vice president," said Roosevelt pugnaciously.

"But you cannot be renominated for governor, and you are going to be nominated for vice president," was my retort.

"I cannot be renominated?" queried Roosevelt.

"No; your successor is in this room," said I, pointing to Chairman Odell. "Now, I want your promise that if you are endorsed by the New York caucus you will not refuse and that if you are nominated by the convention you will run." I added.

"Roosevelt showed his teeth, paced up and down the room and chafed as a horse does under a tight rein and curbed bit.

Gave Word Not to Decline.

"Well, Senator Platt," finally returned Roosevelt reluctantly, "I will pledge myself not to decline formally the New York caucus endorsement. But I shall certainly urge the caucus to name another."

"And remember that I shall pinch you if I see any signs of your getting up and declining," put in my son.

"All right; you may pinch me as hard as you like," answered Roosevelt as he and Frank hurried to the caucus of the New York delegation then in progress on the main floor of the Hotel Walton.

"Senator Depew was presiding, and at length Mr. Roosevelt arose and addressed him. He reiterated in most emphatic terms his statement that he was not a candidate for the vice presidency and his associates from New York must respect his wishes and neither work among the delegates to bring about his nomination nor present his name to the convention for that office.

"Just as Dr. Albert Shaw, Frederick W. Holls, Nicholas Murray Butler and others of Roosevelt's self constituted friends clustered about him and whispered audibly, 'Say you'll decline if nominated, governor,' my son pinched Roosevelt in the leg and said, 'Remember your contract with the senator, governor.'"

"Roosevelt kept faith. He ignored the solicitations of Shaw and the others and sat down."
