Died in Denver.

George, son of Daniel Kraft of our city, died in Denver, last week. A sister Mrs. C. C. Sellen of north of town, attended the funeral, returning home on 10, Saturday evening. Deceased was formerly employed here as a boilermaker. He was working in a brick yard in Denver, and his death is attributed to an accident in the yard. A wife and three or four small children survive the unfortunate man.

Wright Wrong Again.

Fred Wright, the young man who was convicted in district court over a year since, for numerous forgeries, is again wanted by several McCook merchants, not for forgery, this time, but for obtaining goods under false representations.

Wright's first offense consisted in a number of forgeries of checks in this city. For this he was convicted and one of the several counts was sent to the penitentiary at Lincoln for five years. Five other counts were for a while held against him, but were at a recent term of court taken off the docket and quashed.

Wright's latest offense is receiving goods under false pretenses. Issuing his own personal checks and in most instances receiving small balances in cash, in payment of bills owing by him to local merchants. We are advised that some ten or fifteen individuals in the city are losers in various amounts, none of them, fortunately, in considerable sums.

After Wright had served about a year under his five year sentence, he was, on petition of friends in this city, released by Governor Shallenberger on parole.

Last Saturday he failed to report to his sponsors, disappearing from the city, and presumably is still at large. Shortly after his disappearance became known that several McCook merchants held his personal checks in various small amounts, and that no money was to his account in the bank.

Wright had received some money from England during this summer and the fact that he was a liberal buyer and paid for his goods gave him a credit among those he dealt with.

This last act places Wright among those who would rather be a crook than not, a fact The Tribune regrets the more on account of those who have done heroic work to give him an opportunity to make good.

The End in Sight.

The health officers of the city have every reason to believe that the end of the scarlet fever epidemic is in sight. It has been a strenuous period and the extreme warm weather has made the task doubly difficult. With a few notable exceptions, the citizens have responded to every order of the authorities, and for their cooperation in this respect the officers are deeply grateful. Very few new cases have developed this week and quarantines are being raised daily.

The one proposition which has up to this time baffled those in charge of the situation, was the source of the infection. Limited as the infected territory has been, to the residence portion of the city proper, the authorities felt that the search for the source of infection was the all-important problem before them. The water supply was suspected and investigated, the sewer system was thoroughly cleaned, the streets and alleys were cleaned as never before, and the source of infection remained undiscovered.

It is, however, confidently believed that the real trouble, at least the probable source of the later infections, was discovered on Tuesday afternoon by the city's health officers, when they made a personal inspection of the Carter dairy located several miles east of the city, and found a member of the Carter family, a young man who assists with the milking, infected with scarlet fever and in the desquamating stage of the disease. The authorities at once took charge of the matter and will see to it that no milk from the Carter dairy or from cows now thereon is imported into the city until the entire plant has been thoroughly disinfected and cleaned. It is possible that recent exposures have occurred from this source. All such cases should develop within the next ten days, but until this period has elapsed the matter is in doubt. It is important therefore that all cases of sickness be promptly reported to the health officers in order that proper inspections may be made. If the citizens will continue to cooperate with the health officers it is confidently believed that the end of the epidemic is near. The health officers can direct and advise, but results can be accomplished only by and through the unselfish and hearty cooperation of the people themselves.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

Work Progresses on Catholic Church.
Jasper Northrup of McCook started work Monday on exterior remodeling of the Catholic church. A substantial concrete foundation will be built, a concrete coating of one-half inch will be spread over the entire brick work, concrete steps and balustrades will be constructed and in other ways the edifice will be strengthened and beautified. The interior has been improved with steel ceiling and other changes made. When completed the church will be one of the best buildings in the city. No date has been set for its dedication and nothing definite has been given out as to the permanency of a priest for the parish, but it is certain that these things will come in time.—Benkelman News.
