Oman Promises Wonders For His Gyroplane.

STARTS ON LAND OR WATER.

St. Louis Inventor Expects to Carry in His Monster Airship a Hundred Passengers at One Hundred Miles an Hour—Machine Can Stand Still at One Spot in the Air Indefinitely.

The incorporation of an aerial navigation company at St. Louis has revealed plans for a commercial passenger airship that rivals the wildest dreams of Jules Verne. Officials of the company declare that within a year they will have a ship that will carry up a hundred passengers in a forty mile wind and at a speed of 100 miles an hour.

The machine is the invention of J. W. Oman, formerly of San Antonio, Tex., but at present at St. Louis. One is in process of construction in the shops of the inventor at St. Louis. The inventor claims that his ship can start either from the land or water. He declares it will ascend straight into the air or can be launched in the manner of an aeroplane.

May Be Built in Any Size.

The new airship is called a gyroplane, so named from the fact that it is a combination of gyroscopes, the helicopter and the aeroplane. Its promoters say it can be built in any size from a two man runabout or a seven passenger touring car to a monster of the air that will carry fifty or a hundred passengers.

"A thirty or forty mile breeze would be a help rather than a hindrance to our machine," said the inventor the other day. "We will maintain absolute equilibrium in anything short of a cyclone. The usual obstacles that prevent the flight of an ordinary airship will be as nothing to this machine of ours."

It is planned to construct machines that will maintain a regular service between cities and states and even countries.

Carries Four Huge Propellers.

The gyroscopes and the helicopter are familiar principles in heavier than air navigation, but never before have they been applied in the manner employed by Oman. The model of his ship is fitted with four huge propellers, twelve feet in diameter, which may be used in turn for drawing the machine from the ground or carrying it through the air.

The machine has been inspected by government engineers and pronounced superior to all others, it is declared. Ten patents have been granted, covering almost every feature of the machine. The machine is to be constructed entirely of aluminum and macadamite and besides carrying four propellers is fitted with two engines.

The inventor asserts the machine can be made to stand still at one spot in the air for an indefinite time. "We could drop a thousand bombs on a warship from a height of two miles without moving a foot," he declared. Oman has studied aerial navigation twenty years.

One of Life's Problems.

It is often more difficult to forget than it is to remember.
