THE MITTEN CODE

Brief Rules For the Guidance of Unfavored Suitors.

WHAT TO DO WHEN REJECTED

Always Try to Parry the Blow With a Ready Reply, Because Staring in Reproachful Silence Gives the Lady a Chance to Change Her Mind.

Incredible as it may seem, proposals of marriage are sometimes refused, usually because the lady thinks she knows better.

To comport one's self fittingly when rejected is no easy matter. The young beginner is advised to give something to his next move in the event of his proposal being declined. To stand staring in reproachful silence displays a lack of savior faire and incidentally gives the lady a chance to change her mind.

The really nice young man when rejected inclines to gloom. The average young man takes up an attitude of sprightliness. To display relief when rejected may not seem in the best taste, but if a girl has refused you that is sufficient evidence that she has no taste at all.

Let us consider the method of the really nice young man. He hints at a broken heart—a picturesque but improbable happening. He asks if there is no hope. Always he speaks in "low tone." There is the authority of the best fiction for this. Apparently he never shouts his query from the doorsteps as he is departing. He mentions suicide in a noncommittal way and eventually takes his leave "with one last fond, lingering look at her." One can only hope he does not spoil the dramatic value of his exit by tripping over the doormat.

So much for the really nice young man. The average young man has a variety of methods for keeping his end up in the event of being rejected. He imparts an air of levity to the proceedings which must be distinctly irritating when one is expecting time honored references to fractured hearts and blighted hopes.

Copying the average young man, you may therefore when rejected laugh heartily and then remark: "Well, but, joking apart, isn't the weather beautiful?"

There is something about this formula which prevents the waste of any emotion except annoyance.

Another gambit in taking refusals is to smile with satisfaction and say the simple words: "I win!"

While the damsel is puzzling out what the words may mean you can effect your escape.

In the event of an emphatic refusal you can always ask smilingly: "How did you guess I was jolting?"

An effective way to prevent a lady promising to be a sister to you is to get there first by promising to be a son to her, and you can follow it up by saying:

"Oh, well, I must be getting along I've got another call to make."

There is a subtlety about this remark which enables you to take your leave quite easily.

Always try, however, to be ready to say something at once. If after her "No" you think you have been silent overlong, assume a puzzled look and say:

"Let me see—what were we talking about?"

Should the girl give reasons for refusing you remark:

"Yes, that's just what Jane Jones said last month when I proposed to her."

It may happen that the lady answers your proposal thus:

"No, Harold, I can never be yours. I am affianced to another."

The best thing to do to avoid exposure of your disappointment is to exclaim:

"Yes, I knew that when I asked you."

Another formula when rejected lies in taking a list of names from your pocket, consulting it and remarking:

"You're Miss Susan Smith, aren't you?"

Then you put a tick against the name, sigh relievedly and take your leave.

BAILEY'S START.

How the Texas Statesman Secured His First Nomination.

Whose name is going to be at the head of the next Democratic presidential ticket? While, of course, it's a little early to answer that question, United States Senator Joseph W. Bailey is having quite a boom in that direction, and in some quarters it is confidently predicted that he will be the lucky candidate. Consequently the Texas statesman is much in the limelight, and some good stories are being told of his career. It is said that this is how he got his start in politics:

"Mr. Bailey was a struggling young lawyer in the new section into which he had moved. Time had rolled around to nominate a Democratic candidate for congress. The day of the convention had been set. It was expected that a certain old man in congress would be given the nomination.

"Having much leisure and but little money, he thought he would walk to the convention. After he had been on the road for some time a farmer drove up behind him. 'Wanter git in an' ride?' he said to the young lawyer, and Bailey accepted gladly.

"Going to the convention?" asked Bailey after awhile. 'Yep,' said the farmer. 'Ever hear of a young lawyer named Bailey round here?' asked Bailey. 'Nope,' said the farmer. 'Good speaker and bright fellow, I understand,' suggested Bailey. 'S'pose so,' said the farmer. 'Yes,' continued Bailey, 'and he will be over there today, and I tell you what we'll do. We'll call on him to make a speech. You see all your friends, tell them about Bailey, and we'll call on him.' 'The farmer said all right. No more was said about the matter until there was a lapse in the convention during the preliminary movements of the body. Suddenly the old farmer got up and suggested that the convention hear from Mr. Bailey, 'a risin' young lawyer of these diggin's,' he said, 'an' a feller who talks like puttin' out fire' 'Bailey! Bailey! Bailey!' more than a dozen yells went up, and Bailey came forth. Joe Bailey made one of the hottest speeches of his life, and the upshot of the whole thing was that the 'risin' young lawyer of these diggin's' got the nomination for congress and is now Senator Bailey."

JAMES G. CANNON.

The New President of One of the Country's Great Banks.

When the Fourth National bank of New York elected James G. Cannon as its president recently it came in for many congratulations, for its new head is known in banking circles the world over and has done much for the banks of this country. Few, if any, men attain the presidency of a great bank with better qualifications than Mr. Cannon. He was educated in New York schools and entered the banking business in 1876. He started as a messenger with the Fifth Avenue bank, the institution which has supplied so many of the most competent bank officials of

JAMES G. CANNON.

New York. It was not long before his extraordinary ability was recognized, and before he was elected to his present position in the Fourth National he had served as its vice president for twenty years.

Among bankers Mr. Cannon is best known by his reforms in systematizing the credit departments of banks. He is considered the best authority in the country on clearing houses and has always taken a prominent part in the New York clearing house. His book on "Clearing Houses" is an established text book on the subject.

R. F. D. No. 1.

Last Thursday evening, while Mrs. B. A. Frazer was driving home with the children in the buggy, little Don and another child complained of feeling cold and got out and catching hold of the buggy ran behind the vehicle. In some way, Don was caught by the wheel and painfully, though not seriously injured, cut about the head etc.

Miss Abbie Coglizer left, Sunday, for Hastings, to enter the Advent school at that place.

Mrs. A. O. Rodgers arrived home, last Friday on No. 10, from her visit up in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. William Baumbach are visiting in Denver and the mountains, this week.

While returning home, last Friday night, from the Dry Creek dance, Harry Roberson's horse became frightened at a bridge and rearing up fell backward onto him, bruising him up badly, though fortunately not breaking any bones.

Little Murice, daughter of Ira Kennedy, died on Tuesday morning of this week, after an illness with stomach trouble since last Saturday night. The remains were buried in the United Brethren cemetery in that neighborhood, Wednesday at three o'clock. Murice was 7 years and 5 days old.

Mrs. Hari Meyers is prolonging her stay in Denver on account of receiving treatment in that city.

I. O. O. F. Installed Officers.

The I. O. O. F. installed their new officers at the first meeting in September as follows:

W. A. Middleton, N. G.
Charles R. Woodworth, V. G.
Guy Hughes, Secretary.
Albert McMillen, Treasurer.

U. H. Jacobs was chosen delegate to the grand lodge which will meet in Lincoln about October 12th.
