Senator Burkett will open the campaign in McCook, October 18th. He should be accorded a rousing crowd.

Your Uncle Sam is "liquidating" the shaky national banks over the country. During the twelve months ending October 1st, 113 national banks went into liquidation; of this number 4 failed and 4 no longer wished to continue in business.

The Republicans of Cambridge could not select a better man to open the campaign than Senator Elmer J. Burkett. His address will be a recital of the achievements of the republican party under the progressive administrations of President Roosevelt and Taft.—Cambridge Clarion.

The Baptists of Nebraska held their state convention in Grand Island, last week. At the close they adopted a resolution to the effect that the candidacy of James C. Dahlman for the governorship necessarily involves the issue of Dahlmanism. Dahlman opposes the most sacred interests of morality and public order. Its unconcealed friendliness for the elements of vice and crime renders Dahlmanism a menace to public morals. We therefore appeal to all patriotic citizens to resist the threatening invasion of our moral heritage as a people and its resultant humiliation to the good name of our state by voting against James C. Dahlman for governor."

The Tribune is not assuming to dictate what are the rights of any voter—broadly speaking he has a right to vote as he pleases. But in connection with the governorship of Nebraska, the Tribune assumes that an opportunity, a privilege is offered the voters of the state to vote for Hon. Charles H. Aldrich, the Republican nominee. He represents pretty much everything the Democratic candidate does not. He stands for progress and advancement in temperance, law enforcement, civic betterment and purity, for order and decency in all things. So, while we do not insult the intelligence of any American citizen by urging indiscriminate "straight" voting, we do unhesitatingly urge voting for Aldrich.

When the people of Nebraska will use the same business judgment in selecting their representatives in congress that they do in the ordinary business life, then will Nebraska take the place in national life that she as a progressive agricultural state deserves. No business man would think for a moment of discharging an employee who had been with him for years and in his place engage a man who had the business to learn before he could be of good service. Just so in the selection of a United States senator. Senator Burkett has the experience which is necessary to bring results for his state. Many of the older senators, on account of old age and other causes, will retire this year. Standing as he does at Washington, if re-elected for another term, Senator Burkett will be in a position to do more for Nebraska and its people than any man ever sent from the state. It should be the duty of every Republican to vote for him at the general election Nov. 8.—Benkelman News.

Governor Hughes is now Supreme Justice Hughes.

The Lincoln Star under its new ownership and management is showing decided improvement in class.

It is feared that W. H. Cowgill, state railway commissioner, is fatally ill of a third attack of paralysis.

Bert M. Taylor, the Minden murderer, must hang on the afternoon of October 28th, says the Nebraska supreme court.

With Cordeal in the senate the interests of southwest Nebraska will be looked after in an able manner.—Cambridge Clarion.

It is promised that Senator Cummins of Iowa, will deliver two or three speeches in Congressman Norris' district, this campaign.

When it comes to speaking out in meeting for Dahlman they do say that Governor Shallenberger puts on the soft pedal so softly that you can't hardly hear him at all.

The Trans-Mississippi Commercial congress will meet in San Antonio, Texas, November 22-24th, Charles H. Boyle of our city has been appointed one of Nebraska's delegates by Governor Shallenberger.

The reports coming in from the congressman Norris meetings over the west end of the Fifth district are most reassuring: Large attendance, keen interest, and marked satisfaction over the telling manner in which congressman is handling the situation.

Last Friday the Democrats of the Bay state held a state convention in "Cultured Boston." The rioting and fighting reached such a stage of violence that the police were unable to cope with the ruffians and the police reserves had to be summoned to the convention hall. And that is going some—for Massachusetts—and Boston.

Honest and clean and right on public questions of the day, The Tribune hopes no Republican in Red Willow county will forget Frank Moore, Republican nominee for representative in the state legislature from the 65th district, when he comes to making an X on his ballot, November 8th. Knowing the man personally for many years we write with confidence. He will faithfully and honorably and with every ounce of his ability serve the people of this county.

Congressman Norris is making a telling campaign, especially throughout the west end of the Fifth district. At Benkelman, last week, standing room was at a premium, and like reports come from other localities where the congressman held meetings. The Benkelman News describes his arguments as unassailable and pays tribute to the congressman's courage. The congressional situation in the Big Fifth is taking on a most encouraging hue.

The U. S. government has announced its determination to weed out the weak national banks, on the theory that national bank failures are unnecessary and inexcusable. U. S. Senator Burton of the monetary commission makes a sensible suggestion in the following paragraph.

"An important reform would be to require directors of national banks to give closer attention to the management of banks with which they are connected so that they may not be mere deadheads in determining its policies."

Miss Fay Hostetter departed on Sunday morning for Idaho, where she has a position in the state university at Moscow. She will be in harmony in the music department of the university. Judging from her preparedness, Miss Hostetter will make good in this opportunity.

Says Colonel Hitchcock to Colonel Howard you are "one of the breed of sanctimonious reformers who open a poker game with prayer and wind up by failing to pay their poker debts, start the attack if you want to." Colonel Howard insinuates that Colonel Hitchcock has some unpaid borrowed state money.

Mr. Sidney Dodge,
McCook, Nebraska,

Dear Sir:

I see in last week's issue of McCook Tribune, a statement by Chas. Skalla. He states a falsehood when he says Mr. Darnell who assisted in liquor cases last Dec., when he said he helped pay him. I got him to come with your permission. Mr. Darnell gets a salary and he came to us without charge. He probably did take a collection at the church when he spoke for the state anti-saloon league. All our workers do this; but Mr. Darnell's salary would have gone on just the same, if he had not come to McCook or taken a collection for or for a cent. I thought I would let you know this.

Very respectfully,
MERRILL D. GARDNER.

Reply of County Attorney to Skalla, Ritchie & Co., of Last Week.

At last they have a statement from the district clerk, which no one disputes.

Keep the BUZZ SAW running kids, let the people know how much of a fool you can make out of yourselves. The fact will still remain that Dodge has put $1,520.00 into the county treasury from fines, with no expense to the county for attorney fees. Beat that record if you can; it has never been done in this county before (What odds does it make to the taxpayers if all of the attorneys in Lincoln and McCook assist the county attorney in the prosecution of criminals if it costs the county nothing?)

SIDNEY DODGE,
County Attorney.

"The Wizard of Wiseland."

Look out for the lion! He will appear at the Temple theatre on Saturday evening, Oct. 15th, when the "Wizard of Wiseland" holds the stage. This is the newest thing in the musical-comedy extravaganza line, and it is great. The music is great, the comedians are greater and the fun is greatest. The jokes are new and rich and the singing as good as you've ever heard. Scenery O. K. Dialogue and lyrics ALL RIGHT, and the story—yes, it has a story, an absorbingly interesting story well worked out, through it, is as fanciful as a Grimm Fairy tale. If you want to have two and a half hours of solid enjoyment, don't miss "The Wizard of Wiseland."

THE VELIE TOP WILL STAND THE TEST

The practical value of the rail brace which is an important feature in VELIE VEHICLES is becoming more and more appreciated.

The seat is braced so that the strain is equalized between the back and the seat end, preventing opening of seat joints at the corners.

The illustration demonstrates the strength of this seat brace, and shows how superior features in construction are stacked up to bring the finished product.
