Quick-Wiehe.

One of the charming home weddings of the fall was that of Mr. Neal Quick of Indianola and Miss Ruth Wiehe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Wiehe of our city, which occurred on last Thursday evening at the family residence in our city, in the presence of a small company of relatives and friends of the high contracting parties.

Rev. R. T. Bayne of the Congregational church performed the ceremony in the use of the ring, the betrothal being consummated under an arch in white and green in the swell window of the parlor—the young couple approaching from an upper chamber to the familiar strains of the wedding march in Lohengrin, played by Miss Nina Tomlinson.

Miss Marval Jimison of Cherokee, Iowa, and Mr. Will Wiehe, brother of the bride, were respectfully bridesmaid and best man.

A dainty two-course luncheon followed the ensuing congratulations. During the serving Misses Minnie Viersen and Florence Rosebush sang the sextette from Lucia and Miss Tomlinson played several selections on the piano. The wedded ones and families were served at a large table in the dining-room, which was decorated in pink and green, with streamers of white; pink carnations were the flowers.

The bride was simply and prettily gowned in white Persian lawn, with Valenciennes lace and insertion, mesh-satin silk bodice and streamers; and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The young folks were handsomely remembered, a check for $1,000 from the groom's father being especially noteworthy.

Among the guests from out of the city were: C. S. Quick, Miss Flora Quick of Indianola, and Miss Angie Quick of Lincoln, father and sisters of the groom; Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Mackenzie, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Delan, Mr. Jesse Hadley and Mr. John Hedges of Indianola; Mrs. W. N. Jimison and daughter Miss Marval of Cherokee, Iowa.

Mrs. T. F. Rowell and Mrs. H. Brown assisted in the refreshments—Miss Florence Rosebush and Miss Minnie Viersen in the serving.

Miss Marval Jimison caught the bride's bouquet.

The young couple departed same night on No. 6, for Lincoln and Council Bluffs on a wedding trip. A prepared cottage awaits them in their future home—Indianola—where the groom is employed in the State Bank.

The Tribune feels personal word to be superfluous. Two more worthy, excellent and charming young people have not in years come into our life and experience.

We most heartily congratulate.

Reynolds-Wendland.

Mr. Eddie W. Reynolds and Miss Lillie Wendland, both of Benkelman, Neb., were married in the M. E. parsonage, Wednesday, October 26, 1910, Rev. L. E. Lewis performing the ceremony. They returned to Benkelman on No. 3, same day.

Nelson-Eckloff.

Mr. Oscar A. Nelson of Holdrege and Miss Hulda J. Eckloff of Axtell, Nebraska, were united in marriage at the M. E. parsonage in McCook, Wednesday, October 26, Rev. Lester E. Lewis, pastor, officiating.

Kirchner-Caffrey.Wm. Macauley in "Classmates."*Mr. Dahlman.

The charm of Duncan Irving, the chief character in "Classmates," which will be played by William Macauley and a large company at the Temple theatre on Wednesday, November 2, lies not so much in what the other characters say of him as in what he really is and does. "Classmates" is not a "talky" play, but an acting one, and Duncan Irving does not rely upon the good word of his friends for his position in the drama, but upon his own sterling qualities. No one can see him in one act of the play and not know him to be a man of sweet and fine honor. His eyes and his words carry conviction to everyone that he is the possessor of a clean and honest soul. Duncan Irving is a man innately critical. A reticent man as to his own thoughts and feelings, he takes an inward measurement of everyone with whom he comes in contact—often the reverse of what had been supposed. It hurts him to acknowledge defects in others and he has the impersonal good qualities in those who are un congenial to him. And so, even to his rival, Bert Stafford, he is chivalrous to the danger point. But once his honor is aroused, once he finds that it is his father's good name that Stafford is dragging into the mire, all caution, all restraint leave him and he strikes a blow that ruins his life.

Remains Were Buried Here.

The remains of the late Dr. A. C. Harlan arrived from Hillsboro, Iowa, Tuesday morning, and interment was made from the home of S. D. McClain of this city, same afternoon at one o'clock, the body being buried in Riverview cemetery beside those of his departed wife and daughter.

Brief services were conducted at the home by Rev. L. E. Lewis of the Methodist church, W. B. Whittaker, an old-time personal friend of the deceased in Frontier county, paying a short personal tribute to the departed, especially enlarging upon and emphasizing the unselfish devotion of the doctor, professionally and personally, to the welfare of others.

Quite a number of friends joined with the few relatives who accompanied the body in the final services.

Dr. H. A. Harlan, a cousin from Hillsboro, Iowa, W. S. Harlan, a nephew from Lincoln, Neb., and Miss Rena Huddleston of Hillsboro, Iowa, a grand niece, accompanied the remains here for interment.

DORWART & BARGER.

Mr. Dahlman.

In the course of his auto tour of this section of Nebraska, James Dahlman, Democratic nominee for governor, reached McCook, Saturday evening last, and addressed a large audience in the Temple theatre.

The Tribune desires to be fair and generous to Mr. Dahlman, even charitable—for there is use for the broadest mantle of charity in his case; but we cannot stretch imagination, much less the truth, far enough to style his efforts a speech. Perhaps it were just and fair to call it a dull stunt in comedy—a colorless vaudeville between-curtain act. While it was most disappointing to one who has taken him seriously at all. Mr. Dahlman, if he made any impression upon you that lasted over night, made you feel that he was quite a common wind merchant with more egotism and braggadocio than is necessary or useful in any one man.

In general, his talk was along the same line as reported in the dailies of his York, Aurora and other speeches. The same plea for local self-government. The usual, rude and crude "roast" of preachers, tight-wads, etc. The same incessant self-gloryification and self-bloviating. The same ringing in of his estimable wife and daughters. The same jibes at prohibitionists. The same drinking repeatedly out of a pitcher of water with a wink out of the other eye.

A few attempts at being serious and argumentative, but when not tiresome he was worse.

In a sentence, his plea was for the wide-open theory as practiced in Omaha and his contention was against county option.

He laid special stress on his claim that you can't legislate men temperate or chaste.

Neither can you make a buffoon thus serious; or a thief honest; nor can you thus restrain the hand of the murderer, the skill and cunning of the forger, or the stealth of the embezzler; but we do have laws against them, and when these laws are honestly enforced, they each and all reduce the crimes they are aimed to curtail.

Mr. Dahlman is disappointing.

There were also speeches by R. D. Sutherland, Democratic nominee for congressman, Fifth district. Mr. Sutherland is of the "warming pan" variety—and a jolly good fellow, too.

Full of optimism and there with the jolly. In case we can't land Norris, why Roderick will Dhu, but he had better retain his law offices in Nelson for use after November 8th.

Then "The Little Giant" from Grand Island favored the audience. Hon. W. H. Thompson has a reputation for silver-tongued oratory, but on this occasion he could not get up steam enough to attain the footholds even of eloquence. He labored as under a handicap—besides he was weary and worn with much speech-making. He is capable of much better work under more pleasing circumstances. He was not well staged here.

Francis Colfer, the clever deputy oil inspector, was chairman and introduced the speakers with his well-known blarney, though Frank was not tuned up to full concert pitch.

It was a magnificent audience of many motives, but the players on the stage did not make good.

The McCook band furnished outdoor-in-door music.
