English Clay Pipes.

The clay pipe, which is vanishing from the Fleet street chophouse, was the only variety smoked in this country until quite recent times. The clay pipe made its appearance in England in the later years of the sixteenth century.

Writing about a century later, a French author remarks that the English "invented the pipes of baked clay which are now used everywhere."

"Broseley, in Staffordshire, has been famous for its pipes and clay from the days of Elizabeth," writes W. A. Penn in "The Soverane Herb." "Now all the clay of which white pipes are manufactured comes from Newton Abbot and Kingsteignton, in Devonshire. It is sent to all parts of England and the world in rough lumps about the size of quarter loaves, weighing some twenty-eight pounds each."

—London Spectator.
