VIERSEN & OSBORN CORNER MAIN AND B ST REPAIRING

FIRST CONSEQUENTIAL RAIN.

In Many Months Falls in This Section of Nebraska.

Monday and Tuesday the first rain of consequence in many months fell all over this part of the state. The precipitation was mingled with some snow at times, and falling slowly soiled into the soil, all practically being conserved.

This somewhat delayed rainfall, however, is most welcome, and puts a brighter face on farming operations in Southwestern Nebraska.

The total rainfall was.

P. E. O. Initiation.

One of the most pleasant evenings in the history of Chapter X, P. E. O., was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Anna Schobel, last Friday evening, March 31.

This meeting served a two-fold purpose: To give the beautiful new home of the president a satisfactory "house warming" and introduce to the mysteries and initiate into the P. E. O. two novitiates, Mrs. Carrie Pade, and Miss Ada Skjelver. The work of initiation was presided over with her customary grace and dignity by ex-President of Chapter X, Mrs. Callie Wilcox, following which the hostess and Mrs. May Hanson served refreshments at tables placed in the "club room" of the Schobel home.

Here when the plates were emptied and the fire leaped higher and brighter in the grate at the end of the long, comfortable room, the lights were turned off, and the chairs moved from the tables that each might see the beauty of the open fire. Quotations were indulged in by some, reminiscences by some, and then, unconsciously, silence, that rarest of all accomplishments took hold of each one. A deep-toned clock from somewhere told of the lateness of the hour, and all felt as they started homeward, that another evening of perfect understanding and mutual improvement had been theirs, and that new strength had been given Chap. X. in the two new members added that night.

COMMUNICATED.

DEATH OF AN EARLY SETTLER.

Thomas J. Ruggles Passed to the Beyond Monday Morning.

Word reached here Monday morning of the death of Thomas J. Ruggles, in Indianola that morning, after an illness of some duration. Burial was made Tuesday afternoon in the Indianola cemetery.

T. J. Ruggles was an early settler near this city, where he lived until a few years ago, when he retired from active farm life and moved into Indianola. He has been ailing for a long while, and death came as a relief from pain.

The wife and daughters have much tender sympathy from friends in McCook and this part of the county.

Tom Ruggles was a rugged and sturdy character, such as developed this west land.

EXPENSIVE MOTHS

Experience has probably already taught you how expensive it may be to have moths in the house. Don't let them feed on your furs and valuable garments this year. Use liberally when putting away furs, etc., Sprinkle in clothes, trunks and all other places where moths might work mischief and you need have no fear of damage from the pests.

REXALL CEDAR FLAKES

A New Cafe.

Mr. Lasiris of Hastings is having the former Smith restaurant on lower Main avenue enlarged and completely overhauled and renovated and will shortly open therein one of the finest restaurants in this part of the state. Mr. Lasiris is connected with the famous Greek cafe of Hastings—The Union Cafe—and they propose to furnish and equip their plant here in splendid fashion.

L-r-w-r Silk.

A handsome record it is making for itself in sales and in service. If you buy any black taffeta silk without seeing this recognized leader of them all we will believe that you have money to burn. The Thompson D. G. Co. Utmost Value.

Plan Spring Painting Now.

It SHOULD have been done last year. It MUST be done this year. By using Lincoln Pure Mixed Paint, you are assured of a lasting and satisfactory job.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

McCook Is the Logical and the Ideal Location for This Great School.

SITUATION AND ADVANTAGES ARE UNEQUALLED

In Every Essential Particular McCook Stands Preeminent in the Territory to be Served by This College.

A meeting of members of the McCook Commercial club was held last Wednesday, and a committee was selected to go to Lincoln and present McCook's splendid advantages for the location of the Agricultural College recently authorized by the Nebraska legislature.

Messrs. A. Galusha, J. E. Kelley, L. W. McConnell, William Woods, J. R. Stansberry, P. Walsh, F. A. Pennell, F. M. Kimmell, H. P. Waite, W. H. Mills, Chas. Skalla, Lon Cone, C. L. Fahnestock, Jeff Gallagher and Frank Phillips were named, and took the night train for the state capital.

Last Thursday morning they met with the State Board of Public Lands and Buildings, presenting through selected speakers its claims and advantages as a location for the proposed and authorized school.

These claims and arguments seemed to make a very favorable impression upon the board, who will in due time come to McCook and look over the situation before making final decision in the matter of location.

Among some of the arguments advanced by the members of the committee were the following:

Location.

A glance at the map of Southwestern Nebraska, or a moment's consideration of the territory embraced within the lines drawn by the legislature—west of the 99th degree of longitude and south of the 41st degree of latitude—establishes one of the chiefest and unanswerable arguments why McCook should be designated by the Nebraska Board of Public Lands and Buildings as the location for the Agricultural College, namely, its geographically ideal and logical location. There is no greater consideration. It affords the greatest good to the greatest number.

Properly assuming that the legislature's wise purpose in appropriating $100,000 for an Agricultural College is the development of Southwestern Nebraska, where conditions make such assistance from the state especially desirable, McCook offers unexcelled attractions from this viewpoint, being the conspicuous hub of the greater portion of the large territory to be thus served.

As to Soil.

McCook presents the widest possibilities for scientific and experimental work to an Agricultural College in its broad diversity of soil, in its available Republican river bottom land and adjoining upland, embracing the advantages of irrigation and dry land cultivation and experimentation.

Sugar Beets.

In no section of the west does the development of Sugar Beet culture present more interesting study than in the near vicinity of McCook. This is destined to become a prominent feature in the intensive agriculture of this part of Nebraska, and deserving and demanding all the schools can add to the practical agriculturist, is a fruitful reason for the establishment of the Agricultural College at McCook, where so many and vital problems are presented for solution

Ex-Governor Shallenberger Will be Here, Saturday

Arrangements have been made with ex-Governor Shallenberger for a lecture in McCook in the very near future on "The Benefits of an Agricultural College." The ex-governor was deeply concerned in the passage of the measure authorizing a state agricultural college for Southwestern Nebraska, and having made a study of the matter is well qualified to give us an instructive and enthralling address. The ex-governor will appear here under the auspices of the McCook Commercial club and the date will be announced at the earliest possible moment.

A telegram from the ex-governor, received this morning, announces that he will be here on next Saturday, April 8th, and will address the people of McCook and surrounding country on the subject of "The Benefits of an Agricultural School."

The governor is an expert agriculturist and stock-raiser, and his utterances will have weight and instruction in them. Give him a crowded house. Remember the time—Saturday next; and the hour, 2:30 in the afternoon; and the place, the Temple theatre.

A "Dead" Man.

The McCook-Quick mail carrier startled the city last evening, by reporting there was a dead man out near Longview cemetery in the road. Several from town went to the scene at once, only to find an automobile and a man temporarily "dead" to the world perforce of having on board too much tanglefoot.

Mother Carty Buried Here.

Wednesday morning on No. 2, the remains of Mrs. Carty, mother of Peter Carty, for years yardmaster in McCook for the Burlington, were brought here for burial. Services were held in St. Patrick's church, Rev. Patton officiating, after which the body was interred in Calvary cemetery.

Bought the A. R. Clark Farm.

Last week, D. W. Colson closed the deal transferring the A. R. Clark farm on the Willow to A. E. Turner of Red Cloud. The price paid was $6,000. This is one of the best farms in that locality. Well improved and under cultivation.
