Remembered Veterans

REMEMBER DEAD VETERANS

McCook Pays a Just and Suitable Tribute to the Memory of the Boys in Blue Buried Here.

McCook paid a deserved tribute to the memory of the dead veterans who sleep in her cemeteries Tuesday.

In the morning, committees from the post and auxiliaries repaired to the cemeteries of the city and decorated the graves of the dead soldiers buried therein. As usual, too, this sweet service was not confined to the soldiery but many others remembered thus tenderly to their dead.

The formal and beautiful ritualistic service of the Ladies of the G. A. R. was held at Riverview cemetery. The procession formed was headed to the cemeteries by the members of company M, Nebraska national guard, who fired the usual salute at the cemetery during the ceremonies there.

In the afternoon in the Temple theatre occurred the regular program of the day:

Song—"America," Audience.

Reading of Orders, Adjutant Yarger.

Invocation, Rev. McBride.

Reports of Decorating Committees.

Reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, Rev. R. T. Bayne.

Address of the Day, Rev. L. E. Lewis.

Address to the Unknown Dead, Mrs. W. G. Dutton.

The address by Rev. Lewis was an able one, receiving marked attention for its earnestness and patriotic spirit and utterance.

The services in the Temple theatre were largely attended, and with the exercises of the day were well observed.

The business houses of the city were closed from ten to three. Work in the shops was suspended all day so far as the necessities of the case would allow. The banks and postoffice were also closed during the day.

"Never Touched Us"

The state board of public lands and buildings last night on the thirteenth ballot selected Curtis as the location for the new agricultural school to be established in southwestern Nebraska under the provisions of the Eastman bill passed at the late session of the legislature. The balloting which was started Monday continued intermittently until 9 o'clock last night, the only intermission occurring being that for the regular Memorial day vacation.

The vote for the Frontier county town was unanimous, all four of the members of the board, Secretary of State Wait, Land Commissioner Cowles, Attorney General Martin and Treasurer George declaring for that location.

The contentions of the people of Curtis, that their town lies practically in the center of the section bounded by the Fourth standard parallel on the north and the Ninety-ninth meridian on the east, as provided in the Eastman bill, bore great weight with the board and seemed to them, they asserted, to be a large point in that place's favor. The fact that that location is midway between various classes of agricultural districts was another point which the members said was a factor in arriving at the final result.

Result of Vote. Of the eleven towns which were in the race for the new institution, Holdrege received one vote on the nineteenth ballot and two votes on the thirteenth, seventeenth and the twenty-fifth ballots. Culbertson received one vote on the eleventh ballot. There were but two votes cast for McCook, one on the fourth and one on the eleventh ballots. Bartley received but a single vote, that being on the ninth ballot. Oxford was given one vote on three ballots, the fourth, fifth and ninth. Cambridge received one vote on twenty-one of the ballots taken, and two votes on nine other of the thirty-three ballots. Alma, like Bartley, received but one vote, that being on the ninth ballot. Mascot was in the same class with its rival Harlan county town and was given but one vote. North Platte received one vote on two ballots and two votes on the seventeenth ballot. Broken Bow ran stronger and polled one vote on twenty-four of the ballots and two votes on seven different ballots. Curtis received one vote on twelve ballots, two votes on two different ballots, and on the last ballot the entire four votes.

The successful town is a place of 840 population and is located seventy-three miles northwest of Holdrege on what is known as the Holdrege-Sterling line of the Burlington. It is a division point on that route and has a sixty-acre lake and pleasure park located on the west edge of the town, not far from which it is proposed to locate the main buildings of the new institution.

Brakeman D. W. Burnett of our city has a compound fracture of the arm and scalp wounds, but is doing well and will be at home shortly.

Davis Stryker of Chicago, the electrician on No. 9, has a fractured skull but his condition is hopeful.

Ola Uebel, severely injured, but doing well.

Shepherd and Hilsbeck of Holdrege, the two traveling men killed, are said to have been on their way to Wray, Colorado, on a hunting expedition.

Robert Shepherd, the Simmons Hardware Co. traveling man who was killed, and his wife, are old time York county intimate friends of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Garvey of our city.

The Denver and Omaha league ball teams were on No. 9, and the coach in which the former were riding was carnsied, but strange as it may seem only one of the boys was slightly injured.

This must be said of the Burlington company and its employees, in connection with Monday's terrible disaster: Each and all did every thing possible to relieve the injured, care for the dead and dying, and to give every assistance possible to the relatives and friends of the dead and injured.

THE SEMI-WEEKLY TRIBUNE.

The McCook Tribune enters its thirtieth year of its publication, this week, as a semi-weekly. The paper will hereafter be issued on Tuesday and Thursday evenings of each week. The Tuesday edition will consist of four pages or more as required and Thursday's paper will regularly consist of eight pages or more. The publisher hopes to make the semi-weekly a welcome visitor to many homes and to merit the continued substantial support of the people of McCook and Red Willow county. To this end we ask the business men—such as at least as is warranted by the largest circulation in this part of Nebraska. We hope, too, to make The Semi-Weekly Tribune so indispensable to all who want the news of city and county as to result in a material increase in our already healthy subscription list.

Every effort will be exerted to merit your patronage be it in advertising, job printing or subscription. Try us for thirty years longer.
