COUNTY JUDGE.

I respectfully announce myself a candidate for re-nomination to the office of County Judge on the Republican ticket. With a high appreciation of the large vote given me two years ago (largest of any except treasurer) and with a purpose to render the best service possible if re-elected, I respectfully request the consideration of all Republicans at the coming primary election, August 15th.

J. C. MOORE.

COUNTY TREASURER.

Not being able to make a personal canvass of the county, I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, and whether elected or defeated, I absolutely promise not to be ruled by clique or ring. I invite an investigation of my record in the past, from the official records of the county.

C. B. GRAY.

COUNTY TREASURER.

I hereby announce my candidacy for the nomination of county treasurer on the Republican ticket, subject to the Primary Election August 15th, 1911.

ARTHUR B. WOOD.

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the nomination of sheriff on the Republican ticket, subject to the decision of the primary election on August 15, 1911.

E. F. OSBORN.

FOR SHERIFF.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for sheriff on the Republican ticket, subject to the primary election August 15, 1911.

CHAS. W. DEWEY.

DISTRICT COURT.

I hereby announce my candidacy for the nomination of clerk of the district court on the Democratic ticket, subject to the Primary Election, August 15th, 1911.—7-6.

D. W. COLSON.

COUNTY JUDGE.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for county judge on the Republican ticket, subject to the primary election of August 15th.—13-5.

SETH S. SILVER.

COUNTY JUDGE.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of county judge on the Democratic ticket, subject to the primaries on August 15th.

FRANCIS M. COLFER.

George Westinghouse thinks he has solved the burst tire question with air springs and Pittsburgh is after the plant he will build to manufacture the springs.

General W. H. Bixby, chief of the army engineers, who recently returned from inspecting the wreck of the Maine in Havana harbor, has made the startling declaration that the battleship was sunk by the explosion of her own boilers and not by a mine planted in the harbor. He says the primary cause will never be known.

WOMAN AND WOE.

Old Age in India Invariably Blends the Two Into One.

"I have seen women under a burning midday sun reaping in the fields," says a writer on India; "I have seen them at roadmaking in the streets of cities; I have seen them loading engines with coal at railway stations; I have seen them in long procession on the white roads of the plains carrying great burdens on their heads like a string of camels. And I have seen also in the eyes of every old woman whom I have encountered, every one of them, such misery, adversity and angry bitterness as seemed to curse the very air of heaven. I have not seen one happy old woman in the whole country.

"Women follow through the village like a dog at the husband's heel. Maternity is no excuse for the task in the field and the duties of the house. They are servants without wages and without liberty to select another master. Before them is perpetual servitude, and if they are so abandoned by the gods as to reach old age their certain destiny is misery, dejection, friendliness and black despair. I never knew all the meaning of the word woe until I looked into the face of an old woman under an Asian sky.

"The women folk of the upper classes in India, speaking generally, are more the prisoners of their husbands than the women of the lower castes. They do not labor except in cooking and serving the meals of their husbands, but they are cut off from the world as completely as a nun; they do not even know, in many cases, the male relations of their husbands. They are little more than caged animals taught to do a few household tricks."—Chicago News.

COOKING A HEDGEHOG.

Bake It In Clay Into a Solid Mass and Carve It With an Ax.

When a Maine Indian has the choice of a hedgehog, a skunk, a woodchuck and a muskrat for dinner he will select the first named invariably and take the skunk as second choice, leaving the woodchuck, which is the only one of the lot a Maine white man will taste to the last. Unlike the skunk and the woodchuck, which are lean and unsavory except for a few months in the fall, or the muskrat, which is never fat and which has a strong flavor in spite of parboiling, the hedgehog is always in edible condition and has meat that is as tender and white as that of a spring chicken.

The method of cooking a hedgehog is so simple that a novice can learn in one short lesson. When the epicure is permitted to make a choice he should shun the large old males, which at times weigh thirty or forty pounds. The preparation consists in removing the viscera, washing out the interior and filling the cavity with slices of fat pork, peeled raw potatoes, sprigs of spearmint and wild celery from the brook.

Then, without removing the quills or skinning, the body is plastered thickly with wet clay from the nearest bank. The muddy, bulky mass is thrust into five coals and covered with blazing fagots to be roasted for two hours.

On removal from the coals, the clay is found to have been baked into a hard and solid mass, which must be broken open with an ax or a heavy stone, whereupon the skin and quills of the animal cling to the clay wrapping and fall away, leaving the clean white meat ready to be eaten.—New York Herald.

A Bridge of Ants.

A species of ants which spin silk is common in hot countries. The ants nest in trees, binding the leaves together to make their nests. The silk used for this purpose is not secreted by the adult ants, but by the larvae. In order to attach the silken threads and draw the leaves together the ants must carry the larvae about from leaf to leaf. When two distant leaves are to be drawn together a remarkable method is employed. Five or six ants form a chain bridging the gap between the leaves, each gripping the waist of another in its mandibles. A number of such chains will co-operate in bringing two leaves together.

A Legend of Lacs.

According to Melchior de Vogue, the legend of lace is as follows: A Venetian sailor gave his ladylove a frock of spreading seaweed to keep him in memory while at sea. But the girl found that the seaweed was rapidly drying up and disappearing. So she caught the fine threads and leaves of the plant with her fingers and a piece of linen and, working on, with her thoughts following her lover, invented lace.

Force of Habit.

He was an old merchant who had built up a big business by advertising. "John," said his wife, "what do you want on your tombstone?" "Oh," he answered, "it isn't very important what the text is so long as it gets good space and is well displayed."—London Telegraph.

Keeps It Well.

Nell—Don't you think Miss Antique keeps her age remarkably well? Belle—Sure. She never gives it away.—Philadelphia Record.

Tragic.

What is more tragic than to forget on "the morning after" that convincing excuse you gave the night before?—Lippincott's.

So much is a man worth as he esteems himself.—Rabelais.
