Political Advertising. To Voters of Red Willow Co.

As to the fitness for the office to which A. L. Fitch aspires at the coming election, there can be no question, certainly he is the peer of his opponent. He is a son of a veteran, and to thememory of their deceased sires the living veterans and sons of veterans should not fail to give him their earnest support, regardless of party affiliations. There was a time, when in the thick of battle, the fierce charge, the hail of bullets, boom of cannon, shrieking of shot and shell, the father did not stop to inquire whether one or the other was a Democrat or Republican, but went on to the end and helped save the country, that we might have offices to fill. Let us not stop to inquire whether this son of a veteran is a Democrat or a Republican, but show our appreciation of the heroic deeds of his father, by voting for the son. VETERANS AND SONS OF VETERANS.
