The federal government has decided upon a rifle range near Plattsmouth in the Missouri river valley. It contains about 800 acres, and between 2,000 and 3,000 men will annually use the range. It will be available also to state militia.

Just note, my brethren, if you will, how many there are who can tell you that about everything is all wrong. And then see how few can do better. The job of the destructive is always easier than the work of construction. This applies to all human activities. Politics, religion, business, society.

It is a matter of common observation that the fellow who has neither property nor credit is often in the front ranks when it comes to voting expense or taxes onto property owners. They are marvels of public enterprise, when others pay the bills. Four-flushers and wind-jammers are all always with us. Their slogan seems to be d—mn the expense, let the other fellows pay.

Foley Kidney Pills always give satisfaction because they always do the work. J. T. Vaccination for Typhoid Typhoid vaccination, at first a voluntary measure in our army, has since July 1, 1911, been made compulsory for all officers and enlisted men below the age of 45 years and who have not had an authenticated case of typhoid fever.

The immunization of the army has proceeded rapidly until, at the present time, somewhat over 60,000 men have completed the necessary three inoculations. In this entire number, and covering a period of nearly three years, but twelve cases of typhoid have developed and no death has occurred. One man at the Guantanamo Naval station died five days after the first inoculation from a case of walking typhoid. This is the only fatal case of typhoid in government service in any one on whom the inoculation had been begun. The record of the Maneuver Division in camp at San Antonio, Texas, dur-most instructive. An army division having an average strength of 12,800 men, all inoculated, occupied the same camp for four months, from March to July, and in this command but one case of typhoid developed. This was a mild case in a hospital corps man who had not completed the inoculations necessary for protection. There were forty-nine cases of typhoid with nineteen deaths in the city of San Antonio for the same four months. During the same period that this camp existed at San Antonio, between three and four thousand men were in camp at Galveston, Texas and in this command no case of typhoid occurred, while the city of Galveston furnished 192 cases of the disease during the existence of the camp. The city and the camp had the same water, milk, and food supply, the only difference being that the camp had been protected by in-

Postmasters Here in June.

Thirteen postmasters of the state gathered in Lincoln Friday night. Despite the fact that the word had gone out that the meeting might have a political complexion such was not the case according to Secretary W. J. Cook of Blair. "Of course we couldn't meet and get together unless some of us talked politics more or less," said he, "but that was not the purpose of the conference. It was a meeting of the executive committee of the Nebraska postmasters' association and was held for the purpose of arranging for this year's state convention and for the purpose of outlining some of the subjects which we desire to have discussed at that time.

Those present were: Lew Shelly of Fairbury, Edward R. Sizer of Lincoln, W. J. Cook of Blair, J. Eaton of Lorton, J. M. Kroll of Tekamah, S. W. Wilson of Wood River, L. F. Etter of South Omaha, I. S. Tyndale of Central City, Lon Cone of McCook, T. J. Taylor of Wilber, W. Cooke of Hebron, Julius Haumont of Brooklyn, Bow and R. R. Douglas of Clarks.

The date of the next meeting was set for June 11, 12 and 13, in Lincoln.

No phase of the impending political struggles in the party was taken up at the gathering, it was declared. Lon Cone of McCook asserted that not even the senatorial race was dwelt upon—a subject close to his heart because of the fact that he represents the city where Congressman Norris lives.

The meeting was arranged for as a business session and not as a political conference," said he, "and that idea was carried out." Lincoln Journal.

ONE OF THE AFRICAN STYLES

Dusky Damsels Adorn Themselves by Repulsively Distending Their Lips With Wooden Discs.

London.—Africa is the land of many strange things and queer people, and not the least odd of the latter are some of the natives living in the vicinity of Lake Chad in the central part of that puzzling continent. As a result of his travels on the dark continent Landor has given some fine descriptions of the people and their grotesque customs.

The accompanying illustration gives an excellent idea of one of these. One may be excused for not believing it to be the picture of a woman, for there is nothing to suggest the female.

African Victim of Style.

Inine in this case, unless it be woman's inherent love of adornment. Having determined that elongated lips are a thing of beauty, these dusky damsels go the limit, using wooden discs in the process of creating and maintaining this frightful, repulsive condition.

"It was on the Shari river," writes Landor, "that I found the custom of elongating the lips more exaggerated than in any other part of Africa, the women actually inserting small wooden or tin saucers in their upper lip and sometimes in both lips. It was most ludicrous to hear these young ladies talk, especially when they had two plates, one in each lip, as they clapped like castanets, and the voice became nasal and unmusical. These women were otherwise well formed anatomically and quite statuesque when young. They adorned their ankles and arms with brass rings and wore shell ornaments around the neck. The plates in the lips were occasionally renewed, when the upper lip hung down so low in a loop as to reach lower than the chin, leaving a repulsive aperture under the nose through which one could see the teeth."

Not a very pleasant picture, truly, but style is style, and Africa is Africa.

FINDS LONG LOST PET TURTLE

Harrisburg, Pa.—A farmer in southern Pennsylvania, went swimming very frequently last summer in Green lake. On one occasion one of his toes was suddenly caught and held with a vice-like grip. He sputtered and tried to get loose all the way to the shore, almost fainting with the exertion.

His catch was a large snapping turtle which had to be removed from his

POISON SCARED OUT OF HIM

Young New Jersey Farmer, Fearing Loss of Arm, Has Singular Recovery.

Clayton, N. J.—Joseph G. Souder, a prosperous young farmer of Clayton, who recently purchased the Bubois farm for $10,000, was bitten on the finger by a hog he was killing several weeks ago, and blood poisoning set in. The finger was lanced, but the poison spread to his arm, which it was thought would have to be amputated. Souder objected to losing the arm, but as he grew worse he started for the hospital.

Before leaving Clayton Souder said: "My arm feels better," and before reaching the hospital he declared it was well, and begged to be taken back home. But his brother-in-law, who accompanied him, insisted on his going to the hospital. Here it was found that the arm was well, the bandage taken off and left off. It had cured in three hours.

Souders says the only way he can account for the strange cure is that the blood poisoning was scared out of him take no other.
