

A SPRINGTIME SUGGESTION.

Although it surely is convenient to use one-piece designs, with waist and skirt expressly intended for each other, there is far more originality and distinctiveness in models that combine separate designs in effective ways.

Almost any woman will find it a pleasant interesting task to choose harmonizing models, and it is by no means a difficult task

In the costume illustrated here, for instance, the selection of a suitable skirt was a very simple matter, once the blouse had been chosen. Since it is a tailored blouse — one of the poplin, or Russian effect models now in vogue — it requires a skirt of neat smooth fit and good lines, in short, a tailored skirt. This five-gored design was chosen as satisfying every requirement, and being distinctly stylish.

Serge, velveteen, corduroy or the lighter spring suitings of mixed or stripe weave, would be suitable material for this costume with the deep collar, smart single revers, cuffs and belt fashioned of material contrasting in tone or color. Later on the same ideas will be adapted in modeling linen dresses

95c Post Card Photos 95c

Having perfected a new electric Photo Printing Machine whereby I can print approximately 400 Postal Photos to the hour, I desire to give it a practical business test in order to determine both its capacity as well as its factor in reduction of cost in the finished photographs,

Hence the 95c Per Dozen Postals,

I want you all to come. I want the limit of my electric printer crowded to its fullest capacity for a period of 15 day averages. My attempt will be to deliver every photo the second day following your sittings.

Remember While I primarily make these 95c per dozen postals FOR SPEED it is not at the SACRIFICE OF QUALITY. Every postal is guaranteed to be the regular standard quality postal photo.
