THE DORCAS VILLAGE FAIR.

One of the unique and successful fairs and suppers of the united Dorcas societies of the Congregational church was that of last Saturday afternoon and evening.

It was a booth proposition worked out with skill and tastefulness as to the decorations and plans.

The candy booth brought into clever requisition lace curtains and other details of harmonious sort; and Miss Maude McMillen and Miss Martha Abel were in charge, selling toothsome sweet stuff galore.

The Japanese booth was in charge of Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Blanchard, and its decorations were of course appropriately fans, umbrellas, etc., pertaining to the island kingdom; while rice, teas, etc., were their articles of merchandise. The ladies were gowned in Japanese costumes.

The ice cream cone booth was presided over by Mrs. Z. L. Kay and Mrs. Barney Hofer, who served the public delicious cones of frigid cream.

The baby booth—the babies were "older grown" — attracted a full share of attention; with Mrs. H. P. Waite and Mrs. C. D. Ritchie "mothering" the entire bunch of infantile loveliness.

The Congress of Beauties booth contained twenty world price winners and Mrs. Fred Schwab and Mrs. A. M. Williams were there to see that none were kidnapped.

It fell to the lot and energy of Miss Esther Bailey to preside over the destinies of the freak booth, and it was her busy day, for she had the merchandise in many shades, colors, and conditions of servitude.

The Dutch booth was characteristically "cute" with Mrs. A. C. Wiebe and Mrs. B. L. Webber in dignified attendance.

The climactic feature of the fair was the parade—here the fair took on its altitudinous amusement number, with a Sutton-beating band and several special artists imported for the occasion. Their parade on Main avenue in the early evening soon lined the side walk. Mrs. Walter Stokes as drum major has Major Barnett beaten a village lane, and the members of the band—Mrs. LeRoy Kleven, Miss Dolezal, Miss Thursby, Miss Phelps, Miss Helen Schwab, Miss Baer, Mrs. H. A. Beale, Miss Edith Waite, Mrs. B. Y. Dorwart—well in their bewitching costumes and thrilling crescendos and appealing cadenzas just swept over the multitude like a Titanic shudder. It was great. And Mrs. W. F. Jones in the role of the dago, with her faithful bruin Mrs. James Hatfield; Mrs. A. R. Scott as "The Dutch Cleanser," and Dorothy Williams and Nellie Schwab as the "Gold Dust Twins" were quite outside the reporter's powers of diction and description.

And the dinner. Well, it was in charge of Miss Addie Dean, Mrs. J. G. Schobel and Mrs. O. M. Knipple. That tells the story in brief. It was excellent in every detail, and a large source of added profit.

All there is to be said further is that the fair and supper were a great success and were accorded a deservedly liberal patronage.

The united societies have decided to make this an annual feature—a village fair idea—and this first annual is an indication of what may be expected another year.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

A Man Problem.

McCook recently had some expert advice on the sex problem, and while interest remains The Tribune gives this paragraph from a recent utterance of William A. McKeever, of Kansas state agricultural college:

"The author wishes to be listed among those who take little stock in the theory that the important task of sex instruction is to be heaped upon the shoulders of the teachers. As the matter now stands, the teachers of the public schools are nearly all young women of comparative immaturity of mind; and, while they may give some helpful advice to the girls in their classes, they cannot be expected to furnish adequate sex instruction to boys. The attempt to force this tremendous task upon the teachers is a tacit admission of parental weakness and irresponsibility. Parents of all classes must face this duty personally and courageously before society at large can hope to free itself from the power of the social demon.

"Let American parents rally to the great social obligation of training their children for pure thinking and a clean sexual life and the race will quickly manifest the splendid manly and womanly qualities inherent in our ordinary human breed. And especially let the strong men of the nation, the fathers, lay hold upon this task with the same energy and enthusiasm they manifest in handling great economic and political questions. This is a man problem, not a woman problem; and until men realize this, and until men are conscience stricken, we are not going to get very far in its solution."

THE STYLISH TAILOR MADE COSTUME.

It is remarkable how these plain tailored waists have acquired popularity. There was a time when only business women wore them; but now, you need only to stroll up the Avenue or go through the smartshops and you will see hosts of them, in silky crepe de chine, French cotton voiles, satins and fine linens. The prices are exorbitant; yet they are so simple to construct that any economical woman who sews, may make one with little difficulty. Undoubtedly there is a charm about the simple waists, that is alluring. Perhaps it is because you can use beautiful neckwear, of which women are so extremely fond. This illustration shows the dainty, net trim at front, the chic little bow and the neat turnover on the standing collar. Crystal buttons which are very stylish are used on this waist. Take particular notice of the trimness of the set-in sleeve.

A natty skirt must be combined with this tailored waist so as to keep up the appearance of extreme smartness. The tunic effect, which certainly adds a distinctive feature, is lengthened by a shaped flounce having an inverted box-pleat at each side of the centerback, thus giving ample room for comfortable walking. Whipcord is at the height of fashion and is extremely serviceable as it wears wonderfully well. For a slightly lighter weight cloth, panama, bengaline or celienne is practical. It is a three-piece model and closes at the front.

Dandelion Day.

McCook needs one, and The Tribune suggests that mayor proclaim one at his earliest convenience, before the seeds are ready to be scattered all over the city by the four winds of heaven.

Closed Annual Contract.

The McCook Cement Co., on last Thursday, closed an annual contract with Red Willow county to do the cement bridge and culvert work of the county for the ensuing year.

Election and Banquet.

The Epworth League held their election of officers Friday night, with a following banquet and enjoyable social period, in the Methodist church basement.
