carrier that the roads were very rough, but inasmuch as that individual drives twenty five miles over these roads every day in the week, the information was superfluous.

Teachers Lecture Course.

The second number of the teachers lecture course will be an illustrated lecture on Roman Antiquities by Prof. C. E. Barber, head of the latin department of the State University. This is one of the best lectures given by the professors of the University and will be a veritable ramble among the many ruins and remains of old Roman architecture. Prof. Barber writes that he will bring the new lantern and says, "It is very fine, the best I have ever seen and the best that can be had anywhere. The pictures show in magnificent shape." For tickets see any of the teachers.

We Will Pay the Freight.

"Mineral paint has been discovered near Falls City. It will come in handy when the warring republican factions down there don war paint and go after each others scalps."—Auburn Herald.

Nay, we have too many other uses for it. We intend to donate a car load to the city authorities of Auburn on the condition that they use it to paint some of the tumble down shacks and one story business houses in that village. A couple of coats would not hurt the appearance of the Herald building.

John Lichty III.

John Lichty was taken suddenly ill in the lobby of the post office Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Lichty was standing at one of the public desks when he started to fall and S. B. Hoffnell and others who were near came to his assistance. Mr. Lichty was taken to his home on North Barada street and it is the opinion of the physician that his indisposition is due to heart trouble. At this writing he is resting easy and his ultimate recovery is expected.

Star Entertainers.
