

NEBRASKA STATE NOTES. CRURENT PRESS COMMENT

Kenesaw has organized an independent telephone company.

Adolph Meinke, a carpenter of Grand Island was instantly killed Saturday night by falling from a ladder in his barn.

Z. F. Schavarty, aged 76 years, and one of the pioneer settlers of Beatrice died at his home in that city Sunday morning of pneumonia.

Fire broke out Saturday afternoon in the elevator at the cereal mills at Nebraska City, but the fire brigade at the mills fought and extinguished the flames. The loss was about $1,000.

A little son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sapp, living in Todd creek precinct, Johnson county was attacked by a vicious cow and before the animal could be driven off the child had received quite severe injury.

Dr. Peters, a magnetic healer, of Beatrice was arrested Friday and taken before County Judge Bourne, charged with practicing medicine without a license. He was fined $50 and cost, which he paid and upon his promise to leave the state, the other cases against him were dropped.

Harry S. Vernon, aged 21, a brakeman for Conductor Mose McFarland was seriously injured at Lodge Pole. He was setting a car on the side track and was riding a brakebeam endeavoring to disconnect the air hose, when his foot slipped and he had his left leg cut off seven inches above the knee and the toes of his right foot were amputated.

Sat. evening some small boys were coasting down a rather steep hill in Pawnee City in an old buggy. Ropes tied to the front axles were used to steer the vehicle, and while a smaller boy was trying to guide it one of the ropes became entangled and the buggy ran to the side of the road and into a ditch, throwing one of the boys Johnny Tisdale, violently against a post. He was badly hurt and when carried to his home and physicians called it was found that his skull was fractured. There are hopes of his recovery.

W. R. Guild, a banker and leading citizen of Bern, a small town across the line in Kansas, came very near burning to death as the result of being covered with burning gasoline from a lamp in the Presbyterian church. The lamp was not working right and he thoughtlessly loosened a cap which permitted the fluid to be forced out by the pressure. Fortunately assistance arrived before he had gone far and the burns were confined to his arms and chest. His recovery is still a matter of doubt.

A Whopper.

Washington's birthday was observed locally on Monday. Not a lie was told during the whole day.—Verdon Vedette.

Get Your Gun.

Whiskey is being shipped to Kansas in electric light bulbs and this will probably cause a revival of the old Kansas pastime of shooting out the lights.—Rulo Register.

Of Course.

A solemn truth is enunciated in Bradstreet, when that publication declares that 84 per cent of the merchants who failed in 1903 did not advertise in the newspapers.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Trouble Ahead.

Let the Japs take warning. Old General Killehoff, the celebrated Colonel Dragemoff and the redoubtable Major Blowemhighskyski are on their way to the front with blood in their eyes.—Chicago Chronicle.

Official Organ.

It is understood the two curfew ringers of Richardson are soon to organize a county society and there is said to be great rivalry among the newspapers as to which will be declared official organ of the ringers.—Humboldt Leader.

A Mean Trick.

Wm. Foreaker has a large elm on his place that he has been wanting cut for a long time. But as it was so big and tough he hated to tackle it. Instead, he told Frank McCool and Jim Russell that a coon lived in it. The boys said nothing but looked as wise as a tree full of young owls. The next morning the tree was down. And now Foreaker looks wise and says it was no fault of his that the coon was not at home.—Salem Index.

COUGHED ALL NIGHT.

But Quickly Cured by Chamberlains Cough Remedy.

"A few mornings ago Mr. J. G. Smitherman, a good citizen of this place came to the store for a cough medicine," says Dr. C. N. Parnell of Maplesville, Ala. "He was so hoarse that he could hardly talk and said he had coughed all the night before. I sold him a bottle of Chamberlains Cough Remedy and told him that if it did not relieve him he might bring the bottle back and get his money. I saw him the next morning carrying the bottle to the store where he works, and he told me it did him more good than any medicine he ever used." For sale by A. G. Wanner. 9-4
