The city junketing committee has returned loaded with information about water works and standpipes. The city will pay the bills for this jaunt and will get value received. We would suggest, however, that a special appropriation be made out of the "pitch" fund for the benefit of Holt and Powell, and that Neitzel refund his expenses to cover the deficiency.

Some of the incandescent street lights have been taken from the wires by which they were suspended over the center of the street crossings and have been attached to poles on the corners. The scheme is alright except where the heavy foliage of the trees limits the area of the light.

The year just closed has been a very successful one and the prospects for the future are more than flattering.
