The Tribune job department has turned out fifteen hundred booklets for the Falls City State Bank this week as well as three thousand circulars for the County Central committee, sale bills and other miscellaneous work. We are not too busy however, to attend promptly to your job work and attend to it right in price and quality.

In the years gone by we have been pestered with what was known as "populist" bugs, but we have none this year but in their stead we have an elegant sufficiency of those dear little wooly worms. We heard a man remark the other day that they must be "socialist" worms on account of their extreme friendliness and sociability. They are certainly very affectionate.

While there has been a large number of good substantial sidewalks laid in Falls City this summer, there is still room for lots more of them. There are some sidewalks in this town that are dangerous to walk on in daylight, to say nothing of what they are at night.

Mrs. Linnie Kenton and three children of Haddam, Kas., arrived in this city Monday for a visit with her sister, Mrs. O. R. Ross. She will also visit with relatives in Shubert before her return home.

Died.

John Nulk of Verdon who was operated on for appendicitis by Dr. Davis of Omaha at the Mercy hospital about two weeks, died Sunday afternoon of internal hemorrhage.

Mr. Nulk had progressed unusually well until about twenty four hours before his death when evidence of dissolution suddenly and unexpectedly manifested itself. Everything possible was done by the nurses and house physicians but to no avail as death occurred as above stated.

Fish Case.

There are sportsmen in Falls City who enjoy the gentle art of angling. These men have enjoyed the fishing in the Nemaha this year as never before. Many of our people have spent pleasant and profitable days along the banks of the old stream this year and the sport bade fare to continue. Suddenly the fish stopped biting and the impression became universal that the trap fishers were responsible. Consequently Aaron Loucks, Hank Shaw and others who wished to preserve the fish, went to the trouble and expense to have David Berry appointed a game deputy and had him watch the river for violators of the game law. Joseph Burns was believed to be the chief offender and Berry spent night after night looking for Burns. Finally he concluded watch in the day time and by doing so was successful in catching Burns and his wife red handed. They were arrested by Berry and two traps and sixty-six channel cat fish taken from them. Berry reported the case to the county attorney who took the case out of Berry's hands and drew a complaint that permitted the court to fine Burns but ten dollars. Burns' traps were given back to him for him to pursue his illegal work if he desires. Burns has said, so it is reported, that he could pay a fine of $500 a year and make money. He and certain other fellows are destroying the fishing in the Nemaha river.

Under the law a person can be fined five dollars for every fish in his possession, and in this case if the county attorney knew he was alive he would have drawn the complaint so a fine of five dollars for every one of the sixty six fish could have been assessed and the traps destroyed.

To say that there are some mad fisherman is putting it mildly. They have communicated with Mr. Carter the game commissioner and they promise to give Mr. Burns the time of his life, county attorney or no county attorney.
