In speaking of the Miles will case the Journal states "the courts of the land will not allow the estates of dead men to be despoiled." Right you are. If anyone doubts this let him read the two opinions of the supreme court of Nebraska. The courts are not going to permit the Miles estate to be despoiled. They will see that the property goes to those who are entitled to it under the law, and that no one who has the blood of Stephen B. Miles flowing in his veins, shall be deprived of his inheritance to make wealthy the grasping and avaricious man who seeks to impoverish those of his own blood in order to retain the possession of this vast estate.

The protracted meetings at the Methodist church have attracted immense crowds and much enthusiasm is manifested. About a year ago a man named Jake Harris committed suicide near Stella. ## Own a Farm Don't Rent

Buy an irrigated farm for yourself or your son before the advancing price shuts you out. The time is fast coming in this country when the owner of a good will be a very independent man; the acreage of farm lands is limited, but our population is rapidly increasing.

The entire acreage of land available for irrigation, either by Private or Governmental enterprise, will make but a small number of eighty-acre farms compared with the number of young men who expect to become farmers.
