JUDGE C. B. LETTON.

Among the candidates mentioned for supreme judge to succeed Judge Holcomb is Judge C. B. Letton of Fairbury, Nebr. Judge Letton was on the bench of this district for eight years and served his people with a fairness and ability that excited the admiration and respect of all parties. The supreme court recognized his commanding ability by asking him to resign from the district bench and accept the position of supreme court commissioner. This he did and has ever since been one of the most careful members of the commission. Judge Letton was formerly a partner of Congressman Hinshaw and was president of the state bar association last year. Should he be nominated for the supreme bench he will be elected by a commanding vote, and will be a credit to his party and an honor to the judiciary.

MISSOURI'S SENATOR.

The state of Missouri after a bitter and protracted contest has finally elected Major Warner, a dark horse, for United States Senator.

The republicans of the country had become apprehensive that the great republican victory of last fall was to be a barren one. The bitter contest between the caucus nominee and Kerens seemingly to prevent the election of any one. However, at the last moment Major Warner was elected. Of all the men in Missouri Major Warner is best fitted to measure up to the true responsibilities of the position. An acquaintance of more than ten years with him convinces the writer that Missouri has chosen a man of unquestioned ability and integrity to be its representative in the upper house of congress. The State is to be congratulated.

The Wymore paper says that the beef trust is cowed.

Because it has always been, therefore it will not always be. The one thing that is sure is change.

Those ladies who are not cleaning house are attending the district club meeting. The men are therefore eating at the lunch counters and spending their evenings at their places of business.

The delegates to the district convention of woman clubs are heartily welcome, and are strictly all right. Just the same, on appearance at least, we would rather have the teachers institute with us any day in the week. For ours, give us a school marm.

"A man set nests of eggs. Few being hatched, he went to his friend for sympathy. But his friend said, "you should not count your chickens before they are hatched." Said the man, "it is only he who counts chickens before they are hatched who sets eggs."

"A man said to his friend, "tell me what is the most dreadful thing that ever happened." His friend answered, "a man loved a woman who loved him; but afterwards she ceased to love him." Then the man said, "I have known of many, many things to happen to people more dreadful than that." Said his friend, "but this happened to me."

W. E. Dorrington has represented this city as mayor with distinguished ability. He did not use his office to oppress an opponent, nor to reward a supporter. He made a gentlemanly careful business like official. Is it any wonder that the citizens of this city regardless of party are giving him their voluntary assurances of support?

When the republican mass convention sat in rapt attention on the magnificent speech of Mr. Harlow which, closed with the astounding and astonishing statement that the speaker declined the nomination for mayor, some fellow with the proper appreciation of the eternal fitness of things, started to sing in a low voice: "Teasing, Teasing, I was only teasing you."

W. E. Dorrington did not ask for the nomination for mayor, neither will he make an unseemly canvass for election. He realizes the work the next year will bring to that officer, and the responsibility the expenditures for improvements will entail, consequently he will submit the matter of who shall be entrusted with these duties and this responsibility to those money is to be spent. Promising the same care and integrity in the management of the peoples business as he has always shown in private affair, and in which he has never defaulted.

The Standard oil is withdrawing from the oil fields of Kansas. It is surrendering its leases, taking out its tanks and preparing to destroy the markets for Kansas oil. Like a spoiled child, it is going to take its doll rags and go home. It will not slide down the Kansas cellar door any more. Kansas replies by going to work with energy on the independent

For the wife and little ones is a sacred duty. But this usually involves a systematic plan of saving; and the habit of saving often has its beginning in a small bank account. refinery, and offering special inducements for the construction of an independent pipe line to the gulf. The merchants of this country should purchase independent oil whenever possible. The people can aid in the Standard oil fight by doing likewise.

The action of Russia in removing General Kuropatkin and the Czar in writing the word disgrace across the order for removal, is exciting the criticism and contempt of the civilized world. The old general was the idol of his soldiers, and has fought his fight manfully in spite of tremendous discouragements. He has been exposed to the great dangers and has endured untold hardships and anxiety. And all for a week minded autocrat who now writes disgrace as a reward. The Czar is both ungrateful and inhuman, a fitting head for his horrible government.

Complaint is made as to the position of men who attend one convention and afterwards became members of a second. All kinds of epithets are being applied to such by certain of our citizens. The source from which these statements emanate make the matter a huge joke. "When the devil is sick, the devil a saint would be." The premise from which the conclusion of infamy is drawn is a false one. Some of the most ardent supporters of the citizen's candidates have stated in the hearing of the writer that the friends of Mr. Harlow and the opponents of Mr. Leyda were in the majority at the citizens caucus. They attended this convention to voice their sentiments. They were prevented from doing so by a series of unfortunate circumstances. Are these men to be denied the right to express their preferences simply because they were in a caucus in which they had no voice? Even the Falls City News, the paper in which the call for the citizens convention appeared exclusively, was compelled by its sense of fairness to speak of the matter in the following expressive language: It was a dirty piece of business without any extenuating circumstances." The voters of Falls City are not bound by such "business."

If Sunday is a pleasant day, spend the afternoon out of doors. Get your lungs full of fresh air. Take a walk and look about you, that you may see how beautiful is the world in which you live. You will live longer, better and happier by living as much as possible in the open air.
