What It Cost.

We are informed that the claim is being made that the city was put to a cost of but $28.00 by reason of the law suits instituted against the city during Mr. Leyda's administration as mayor, all of which with one exception was decided against the city. The Tribune has no disposition to attack Mr. Leyda, either upon his record as mayor or as an individual. But the claim of a total cost of $28.00 is silly as well as preposterous. What did it cost for the councilman to go to Auburn in the Western Union case? What did it cost to employ C. Gillespie as special attorney in the Heineman case? Twenty eight dollars would not cover one side of it.

We do not know what the total costs in these law suits were—we do not care. We only know that Mr. Leyda caused more law suits against the city than did all the other mayors during the city's history. We mention this only because of the statement that is being made by Mr. Leyda's supporters that the total cost was but a little more than $28.00.

Friends in Council.

The Friends in Council were royally entertained by Misses Grace Miner and Grace Sailor at the home of the latter on Friday evening. ### Meat Market Changes.

A deal whereby the Wesley Miller meat market became the property of Ramel was consummated Monday of this week. Mr. and Mrs. Miller traded the market, stock and fixtures and 268 acres formerly known as the Maddox farm to Mr. Ramel for 800 acres of land in Greenwood County, Kansas. The value of the property each transferred was $23,100. Whittaker Bros were the agents.

Broke His Arm.

Yesterday morning while playing on the back porch at his home Claude, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Boyd fell and broke his arm. This is very unfortunate for a child so young to meet with an accident of this kind. It was immediately set and he is resting nicely at this writing.
