THE COUNTY TICKET.

Never has the party presented a stronger ticket before the voters than the one nominated at Stella Tuesday. There is not a candidate on it that is not especially fitted for the position to which he aspires. Tanner, Stringfield, Wilhite, Rieger, Hoff, Hossack, Reneker and Rasmus, form a combination impossible to improve upon upon. No good reason can be assigned by any republican voter for cutting his ticket this fall. Richardson is a republican county and goes democratic, only when men who claim to be republicans, vote against their party candidates. It should be the duty of every man to be a party man, and it is the duty of every party man to support the candidates who represent the party principle, when no good reason can be assigned for doing otherwise.

The republican county ticket is representative of all that is good and should receive the undivided and unqualified support of every republican in the county. By so doing you build up the party, and by so doing this year, you assist in putting the best officers in the court house that can possibly be chosen.

Honest now, are you not glad that Theodore Roosevelt is the president of the United States?

Queer world this. The politicians, all of whom carry annual passes, are passing resolutions demanding that the railroads be no longer permitted to give them the little pasteboards, while the railroads, that are bored to death by request for transportation, are begging for the continuation of the privilege of giving away free rides. Queer world.

The state of Nebraska has no man better qualified for regard of the state university than V. G. Lyford. Mr. Lyford has always been interested in higher education, and is a warm friend of the state university. The university would greatly profit by his selection, and the state would gain an official of acknowledged ability and unquestioned integrity.

It is a striking and significant fact that, notwithstanding the assertions of the hoier than thou crowd, The Tribune was the only local paper that said a word in favor of the action of the county attorney in putting a stop to slot machines. It is a good thing to fight the beef trust, but how about the violations of the law at home. It doesn't hurt to fight an evil several thousand miles away, but it might lose a patron to fight a local evil. He who is moral because it pays, will be immoral when it pays.

The Elks lodge is one of the most progressive and best managed lodges in the city. The rooms lately fitted up are the most attractive and elaborate in appointments in the city. The furniture is in leather throughout, and the beautiful rugs and draperies make the rooms a dream of beauty and cosiness. A series of winter dances will be given in the main lodge room during the winter, so that an Elk will not lack for entertainment for the next eight months. To show how the lodge is progressing, it is only necessary to state that thirteen applications were received from Auburn at the last meeting. The lodge has jurisdiction over the surrounding country for fifty miles, and the boys are hopeful of receiving applications from Humboldt and the surrounding cities in the near future.

One of the largest barns in the state which is being built by Power Bros., is almost completed. When finished it will shelter and furnish feed room for 10,000 to 15,000 head of sheep.

Dr. Morris contemplates a trip to the sandhill country, near Alliance, in the near future, on a hunting and pleasure trip. His office will be left in the efficient care of Dr. Wittner during his absence.

At this writing Humboldt is bedecking herself in gala attire and the sound of the tin horn and its various accompaniments is again heard on our usually quiet streets. The carnival is near at hand.

I. R. Williamson, P. O. Avery, Jos. Sneathen and W. C. Power returned Tuesday afternoon from Denver, Colo., where they had been in attendance at the G. A. R. reunion. They report a most enjoyable time.

Mrs. S. J. Orr and son, Charles, of Pawnee City, were in town Tuesday making preparations to move to their farm east of this city which they recently purchased, and is known as the E. K. Kentner farm.

J. F. Wozab returned home Friday last, after spending the greater part of the summer in Denver. Mr. Wozab is reported as being greatly improved in health. They have purchased the Truxaw property, formerly occupied by A. D. Snow and family, and will soon move to their new home.

Sol Parker met with quite a serious accident Friday last while at work on the roof of Power's sheep barn, he lost his balance and fell backwards to the ground, rupturing a blood vessel in his lungs which caused a severe hemorrhage and his life was despaired of for a time, but at this writing he is much improved.

Seldom is a finer display of goods to be seen than is being displayed by our home merchants this fall. Their goods are up-to-date and have been bought with a view to please their customers, and there will be no reason for residents of Humboldt and vicinity patronizing mail order houses or purchasing goods in neighboring towns.
