The Shubert schools will hold a school fair, November 22.

Teachers who have not received quarterly report cards should either call or send for them and thus save postage.

Dist. 16, Clara Laughrey, teacher, Enrollment 22. Four pupils were neither absent nor tardy the first month. We are now making seed collections.

The Spicer Teacher's Reading Circle will hold its first meeting in the Spicer Center school house, District No. 65 with W. C. Tucker as leader, Friday evening October 20th.

The Barada School is progressing nicely. The advanced pupils have taken up Algebra, Latin and General History. Five pupils have been neither absent nor tardy during the first month.

District No. 8, Nellie Gandy, teacher. Our enrollment is eighteen. Several more will enroll after the corn is gathered. We have good charts, maps text books and a fine library of forty-one volumes

District No. 38, Ida Stalder, teacher. Our enrollment is twenty. Four are beginners. We have a good supply of text books and other necessary helps. We believe we are getting along nicely. We are now preparing to observe Library Day.

Dist. 63, Maud Hanshahn teacher. Enrollment 39. Five are beginners. We have the best school house in the county. Friday evening, November 3rd, our school will give a program and basket social. All friends and patrons of our school are invited to attend

"Rules governing issuance of county certificates under the new law" should be read carefully by each teacher. Every teacher, it makes no difference what kind of certificate he holds is required to do the Reading Circle work and attend teacher's meetings.

Teacher's in the following districts will find quarterly report cards and Reading Circle note books at E. L. Crane's jewelry store, Humboldt. They should either call or send for them at once: Districts No. 10, 11, 38, 39, 2, 89, 40, 93, 100, 8, 105, 90, 13, 92, 41

A 12 inch gun takes something like 400 pounds of brown powder or half that much smokeless powder, and a projectile weighing 850 pounds. The powder for a charge costs about $80 and the projectile $525; the wear and tear on the gun averages nearly as much more, so that every shot from one of these modern cannons costs nearly $1,000. Speaking on this line. Success says: "It costs more for the mere material to fire one shot from the gun at Sandy Hook than it did to educate Daniel Webster. A day's gun practice of a single ship, firing at imaginary enemies, costs more than it did to educate Emerson, Longfellow, Lowell and Phillips in Harvard college. "The amount now spent for education in the United States is about $200,000,000 a year. From the present indications the annual appropriation for the navy alone will soon very largely exceed this sum, with prospects of indefinite expansion." The latest type of battleship costs about $8,000,000 to build and about $1,500,000 a year to maintain, considering that in 20 years it will be obsolete. In other words to maintain a single such engine of war costs constantly as much as the total expenses of educating 3,000 young men or women or the entire school expenses of 50,000 children.—The Pathfinder.

Shubert Reading Circle Meets.

The teachers of Shubert and vicinity met Saturday afternoon Oct. 7th and began their Reading Circle work. The meeting was called to order by Principal MacDonald. Balloting for President and Secretary resulted in the election of Principal Geo. MacDonald as leader and Mr. Will Leslie, a teacher in Nemaha County, as Secretary.

It was decided to study the Louisiana Purchase and White's Elements of Pedagogy. Seven teachers were present. Ninth and tenth grade pupils will enroll at the next meeting. Teachers in this vicinity are earnestly invited to meet with us. It was decided to meet every two weeks.

A Boy That Won.

A boy called on a grouchy old man and ask for a job. "No," snapped out the man. "Yes," cheerily replied the boy. "That back yard of yours is frightful. I'll clean it up for a quarter." "I'll give you fifty cents," and he did.

He kept on cleaning up in and out of the place, and then fixed up the places the old man rented, and he looked after larger interests. In ten years the grouchy old man was getting vastly rich, and was paying the back-yard cleaner, $20,000 a year to help him.

Monthly Reports

The Compulsory Attendance Law requires teachers to make monthly reports to the County Superintendent. The reports should be made promptly at the end of the month. A few teachers seemingly do not understand how to make out the report. The last column headed "Days yet to attend this year" means days yet to attend this year in order to attend two-thirds of the time school was voted for this year. For example, in District No. 2, the voters at the annual meeting voted to have seven months of school during this year. The law requires each pupil in that district between seven and fifteen years of age to attend school two thirds of seven months or ninety-four days. Olga Holecheck enrolled the first day of school, during the month she missed five days. Now at the end of the month this pupil has been enrolled this year twenty days, she attended this month fifteen days, was absent this month five days attended this year fifteen days and "Days yet to attend this year" would be seventy nine.

Dist. No. 10, Bea Riley, teacher. Total enrollment eleven. Only four are new pupils. Our summer vacation scarcely caused a break in the work. We have two beginners and I am teaching them reading according to the Ward Method. They are doing very nicely. I think we shall have two eighth grade graduates this year. The school house and grounds have been repaired and we have a number of new books.

Remember the next meeting of the Richardson County Association will be held in Falls City Friday evening and Saturday November 10 and 11, the following is taken from Rules and Regulations adopted by Richardson County School Boards Association August 7 and it applies to all districts.

"Rule 16—Teachers must attend the meetings of the Richardson County Teacher's Association, unless it is absolutely impossible to do so and they are hereby given permission to dis-miss school Friday afternoon if necessary, in order to attend, and they shall not be required to make up this half day.

District No. 26, J. F. Young, teacher. Our enrollment is fifty four. The interest is good. Before school began the board cleaned the well, painted the blackboard and scrubbed the floor.

Quarterly test questions, quarterly report blanks, programs for the next meeting of the Richardson County Teacher's Association, and rules governing issuance of county certificates under the new law, have been sent to each teacher this week. Those who have not received them should notify the county superintendent.

We have twelve Reading Circle Centers. The County Superintendent is the general manager for the county. Centers are located as follows with leaders named:

Humboldt, R. L. Hoff; Dawson, W. G. James; Salem, F. S. Feuerstein; City of Falls City, W. H. Pillsbury; Falls City, Geo. Crocker; Preston, A. D. Larabee; Rulo, P. F. Stevens; Verdon, J. W. Watson; Stella, I. G. Wilson; Shubert, Geo. R. MacDonald; Barada, T. J. Oliver; Spicer Center, C. W. Tucker.

The State Superintendent and his examining board hold each leader responsible for the work in his vicinity.

Burglary At Shubert.

The Shubert Citizen says: The early risers in our city on coming down last Sunday morning, discovered that, during the night previous, burglars had entered the Hill drug store, and from the scattering they left on the floor, had carried off half its contents.

A further examination of the situation revealed another fact, and that was that Shubert's saloon had, also, been entered and some of the merchandise therein appropriated to the burglar's own use.

Both Messrs Hill and Shubert were immediately notified of the burglary, and hurried to their places of business to investigate the situation.

The entrance to the drug store had been effected by breaking of a pane of glass in a front window, and at the saloon an entrance had been effected by the rear window.

From the drug store the burglar took a cigar box full of the best and most costly jewelry that Mr. Hill had on his trays, a plug of tobacco, 100 cigars, and his prescription scales. At the saloon he helped himself to the goods on the lunch counter, pre-umably, to a glass or two of beer and carried away with him a box of ten cent cigars.

At both places the money tills were broken open, but they contained nothing that would pay the marauder for the breaking.

Suspicion was aroused as to the personality of the guilty party, and parties were sent out in search of him, but up to date, he has not been apprehended.

Sunday morning, however, some boys found all of Mr. Hill's goods, except the cigars hid under the chaff pile at the elevator, and returned them to the owner, but the chances are that Mr. Shubert will never see his goods again.

So far as we know now, no effort is being made to locate the bold burglar, or to bring him, or them, to justice.

Could Not be Better.

The uniform success of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has won for it a wide reputation and many people throughout the country will agree with Mr. W. Mattison of Milford, Va., who says: "It works like magic, and is the best preparation I know of. I rem'd'ne any better." He had a serious attack of dysentery, and was advised to try a bottle of this remedy, which he did, with the result that immediately relief was obtained. For sale at Keen's Drug Store.

A Word To Students.

Half the people you see are sorry they missed an education because they did not get the mental windows open wide enough to see what they missed "having eyes they see not" the wonderful things all about them which are of great beauty and utility to those who can see.

But you will likely regret it if you fail to work up to your opportunity it is glorious to work and the joy of learning it self compensates for all the toil to say nothing of the advantages.

Men and Mice.

Mice are much like men. In warm weather both enjoy living in the open, communing with nature. But when frost comes both skeddaddle for cover, the mice going into the house with the men. And when night comes the mice gnaw and gnaw and the men, startled from their sleep, swear and swear. It is a sore trial to have mice gnawing in the night so you can't sleep. There is something grewsome about it. If a man have the courage to get up and thrash around about where he locates the noise, he can stop it for a bit but just when he is about to forget himself in sleep again the mouse overcomes its fear and begins its gnawing once more. This enforced wakefulness, this loss of sleep, is the foundation of ill temper and ill temper begets a desire to drown it in drink. Poisoned wheat or bread or cheese may be scattered to kill the pests but they learn to avoid all such dangers and do so until the children eat these exterminators and the undertaker is called. And if a cat is kept it is likely to prove worse than the mice. It will preempt the dinner table, scratch the baby and "suck its breath," they say, and make a muss ever and anon. And so there is here a problem. It is an old saying that "one must be either a man or a mouse," but in certain phrases of life the two are not very far apart.—Fremont Tribune.

If there is anything prettier than a fall morning with its multi-colored leaves, we have never seen it.—Verdon Vedette.

In these days of gossip, a good motto to keep in mind is the following; "Believe nothing you hear and about half you see; say nothing of either." You will hereby save yourself the reputation of being a gossip and also save many innocent people a heap of trouble.—Robinson, Kansas Index.

Miss Debby Mower, a trained nurse from the Chicago training school, has been taking care of James Shively since his sickness, and his physicians say she is a number one. She is the daughter of S. G. Mower of Falls City and was raised there.—Shubert Citizen.

It would be idle to obscure the truth to the young men of the country that the gates of opportunity are as wide open now as ever. Such is not the fact. Four decades ago the young men who were crowded off the farms of Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, could take homesteads in this state and Kansas. Now the earth is sold and there is no place for the overflow population except in the cities. The boys from the farms increase the competition in the labor markets of the large industrial centers. It would be well for the boys of this county and state who have opportunities to remain on the farms to do so for there the opportunities both in health and money are greater than for labor in the cities.—Auburn Herald.

Some time since there appeared in the county papers several accounts of the murder of an old man at Wellington, Kansas and of the arrest of Fred Voils charged with having committed the crime. This week C. L. Voils of this place, uncle of the young man stated above received a letter from a sister who resides at Wellington. The letter states that Fred was entirely innocent of the crime and released by the authorities, there being no evidence found against him. Mr. Voils was arrested on purely circumstantial evidence, and his innocence was established beyond any possible shadow of a doubt. Mr. Voils relatives are held in highest esteem in Wellington and the young man's release will come as welcome news to friends of the family.
