

LINOLEUM

We are prepared to state to our trade that we are better prepared to supply good floor coverings this season than ever before. Carpets are higher than for many years, but we have made such a fortunate purchase that we can sell cheaper than last season.

We have 3 patterns of 12 ft. wide linoleum which we offer at 60c per square yard, or $2.40 per running yard.

Montgomery Ward wants $2.50 for same quality--freight extra.

We charge 5c per square yard extra when you want us to lay it.

This price lasts only with present stock. First come, first served.

The road drag might help if it were reinforced by a set of sails.

Muddy, muddier, muddiest. How would you like to be the rural route man?

Store displays of onion sets, sassafras bark, marbles and fishing tackle are among the harbingers of Spring.

It is always the girl who wears her dress cut down to the surging that is shocked when she sees a man in his shirt sleeves.

Two of Falls City's most prominent merchants are advocating a mutual telephone company composed of the merchants and business men.

A Falls City man was telling his wife of a dinner party he saw one evening in a swell eastern hotel. "How were the ladies dressed," she asked. "I don't know," replied the man, "I was ashamed to look under the table."

This poetic sentiment about Spring and the odor of plum blossoms and the buzzing of bees in the drowsy air is all right in its way, but what about the nights when the wind comes up with a sudden howl, and the lightning splits the heavens wide open, and the thunder sounds like the crack of doom, and you hide your head under the covers and shake like a scared wolf? Summer isn't all it seems like when you think of it in the good old winter time by a durn sight.

In the absence of unfavorable weather this should be the greatest of all fruit years. The Missouri state farm sent out five hundred letters inquiring the fruit prospects last week and received some four hundred replies all speaking in the most enthusiastic terms of the prospect. Apples and peaches in Richardson county should be the limit this year and the house wife may look to the canning season with confidence.

Verdon is bragging of a man who, though married fifteen years, never goes away from home without kissing his wife good bye. That's nothing; Falls City has a man who has been married twenty years and not only kisses his wife when he goes away from home but kisses the hired girl when his wife goes away from home.
