In the shade of the old apple tree, I've waited so long, love for thee, that the voice once I heard, grows faint with each word, till it's barely a whisper to me. There is no more buzz left in the bee, the blossoms are withered, ah, me!—and the trees that once grew where I waited for you, has changed to an old chestnut tree. In the shade of the old apple tree, where you heard the blamed buzz of the bee, with a big big carving knife that I swiped from my wife, I am waiting and watching—by gee! Oh daggers I have two or three and an ax and a cutlass you see; and I'll stick all these things in the next guy who sings, "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree."—Ex.

Hens of Kansas.

Nightingales, larks, swans and such poetic fowl have been hailed and hymned until the world is weary of them. Where is the American bard who will write high with joyous pen the harmless, necessary hen? why do our children read about those fabulous geese of the Roman capitol? The hens of Kansas are worthier subjects. Here is one year's work of them: $7,222,111 worth of eggs, which, as a Kansas economist does well to remind the world, is interest at five per cent on $144,522,220. To say nothing of "broilers" and other by-products. Kansas hens more money for Kansas than her sheep, wool, barley, flax, fruit, sorghum, oats, potatoes. The hen should be the bird of Kansas as the eagle is the bird of freedom.

Dr. R. P. Roberts, dentist over King's Pharmacy.
