THE WELL DRESSED MAN

His Suit and the things that go with it

There are no hard and fast rules of Fashion governing a man's dress for business wear. The Sack Suit is the universal favorite, and with it should be worn vest and trousers of the same fabric as the coat; a wing or fold collar, a four in hand or bow tie; black calfskin shoes, buttoned or laced; tan or gray gloves, and a black derby hat. Soft bodomed or negligee shirts are largely favored by reason of their greater comfort.

The Choice of your Suit

Let only one consideration influence your selection—and let that be Quality. Listen not to the "swan song" of the dealer who would ask you to believe that he can sell you quality at the price of shoddy. It may sound well, but it won't wear. Make sure that there is quality inside and out. If you "shop" around trying to save a dollar or two, you may be deceived by a coat that has been "doctored into shape" by the hot flat-iron process. It won't stand the test of dampness or wear.

Be on the Safe Side

Select a Suit that will wear and keep its shape until you tire of it. That's the kind we offer you in our "Sincerity Clothes", the kind with a reputation, the kind that are not "Flat-iron Doped." They are fully guaranteed as to quality. In point of style, the clothes speak for themselves.
