DON'T KILL THE BIRDS.

Within the last week every Falls City school boy has been given a little leaflet admonishing him not to kill the birds and giving the reasons why. The reasons why birds should not be killed should be read not alone by school boys but by boys grown old as well. We therefore publish them.

Because our laws forbid it. Because they are of no use when dead.

Because they are harmless and have a right to live.

Because nobody has a right to take the life of any animal except for food or self protection.

Because it is cowardly to kill them when they trust us, and gather about us to cheer us with their song.

Because they act as a police force in keeping things in nature balanced.

Because they are objects of study and no other animal could take their place.

Because in their instincts, migrations, nest building, food habits, and distribution they symbolize the perfection of the divine school of life.

Because it is estimated by the best authority we have, that during the stay of the birds in Nebraska each season they destroy more than three million bushels of noxious worms and insects. Think of the consequences if the birds were all exterminated.

Here is a good way to tell 'em. If he calls it Rum he is a prohibitionist, if he calls it Booze he is another kind of an ist.

If everybody would go into life and his labor with the same energy, ambition and determination to win with which W. W. Jenne goes into a billiard game there would be nothing to it but success with a large S.

Nobody disputes Mr. Rosewater's ability. No one disputes his right to be a candidate for United States Senator. But this is the year Nebraska wants Brown for this office and this is the year when Nebraska is going to get him.

Louie Wirth and Ward Knight returned Monday from a few days outing at the lakes. The boys brought with them a nice lot of croppy and bass. When it comes to fishing these gentlemen travel in the front row of anglers.

Word was received the first of the week by Jack Frenchy that his son, John, was dying in a hospital in Illinois and for them to come at once. Mrs. Frenchy left Wednesday and brought him to his home in this city. His condition is very serious.
